King Urges Support of Federal Commission to Fight Racketeers

Rep. Cecil R. King Tuesday urged support by the American Bar Association for the creation of a Federal Crime Commission designed to more fully coordinate the efforts of various fedal agencies in their attack upon racketeers and organized crin.

Kg was guest speaker before the riminal Law Section of the Amican Bar Association at thei annual convention held in San Francisco.

Diwing upon his experiences as cairman of the Ways and Mean Subcommittee on Administraon of the Internal Revenue aws, the veteran legislator assaid 'men who undertake the hoor and responsibility of public otice and then betray the puli trust," and pointed to the ne top leadership in the Federal Tax Bureau as the "greates single advance in the war agnst crime on the tax front."

Lesson Learned

"One esson our subcommittee has leined," King told the national awyer group, "and one which e are trying to pass on to otir members of Congress, is the fact that blanket slashes in appropriations for the Bureau are penny-wise and pound-foolish.

"Indeed, it is clear that a considerably larger appropriation for enforcement work of our general taxes would more than pay for itself in increased revenues, including collections from the criminal element. I think the American Bar Association with its considerable influence upon public opinion, would do well to join in urging this approach.

Bureau Faces Problem

"As matters now stand, the Bureau is faced constantly with an impossible problem of maintaining a vigorous and yet at the same time properly balanced enforcement program."

Speaking on the proposed formation of a separate federal commission on organized crime, Congressman King cautioned that "it is not desirable to embrace any solution which would automatically transfer to the federal government functions which have been handled, and still can be handled, on a state and local basis."

"In some areas big-time crime has now been organized on a national basis, and it may be that national remedies are necessary," King stated.

"It has been urged that investigations made by various federal agencies — such as the FBI, the Intelligence and Alcohol Tax Divisions of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and the Narcotics and Customs Bureaus of the Treasury — would operate more effectively against the racketeer element if they could be more fully coordinated.

Probes at Odds

"In our own experience we have found cases where investigations of the same persons by different arms of the Bureau of Internal Revenue were not properly integrated," the chairman of Federal Tax Investigating Committee related.

"But, if a federal commission on interstate crime is created," Congressman King concluded, "I think every effort must be made to see that it operates to assist, stimulate and supplement, local and state enforcement agencies, not to supplant them. In this method lies the genius of our federal system. Let us hope that in this way, too, lies the solution of the problems of organized crime."

New Oil Well Drilling District Gets Approval

The City Council today by ordinance established a new oil drilling district in the area bounded by Lomita Blvd., Dodge Ave., 253rd St., Broadwell Ave., east of Waterman Way, Pacific Coast Hwy. and Vermont Ave.

The new district has been approved by the City Planning Commission with certain conditions, such as underground pumps, screened activities, and no unsightly rigs in the field.
