Girl, 15, Jumps Out of Auto To Avoid Attack

A 15-year-old Torrance High School girl escaped after a 19-year-old boy attempted to attack her, she told sheriff's deputies Friday night.

The girl was walking along the street near her home when the boy drove up and asked her if she wanted a Coke, she said. After going to a drive-in restaurant, the boy took her to a dark street near Sepulveda Blvd. and Vermont Ave., and attempted to molest her, she reported.

After a struggle in which the boy took her purse, she leaped out of the car and ran to Sepulveda Blvd., where she was picked up by a passing motorist.

Los Angeles police were summoned, who in turn released her to Torrance authorities. Torrance called Sheriff's deputies after learning the attack took place in county territory.
