The Clarks had just come to town

Yet, in almost no time at all, Mrs. Clark had her household running smoothly, and seemed just as well informed about where to shop, and to whom to turn for services, as the oldest inhabitant.

She had her household running in such efficient order because, first of all, she ordered a telephone installed; and, the next thing, sat down and made a study of the Buyer's Guide.

Window cleaning, linoleum laying, draperies, bathroom fixtures, household articles; food, clothing—she knew just how to obtain them all, with the least possible amount of waste motion.
