KIND WORDS

Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Torrance Herald, dated January 1st, was received at this office this week. It is a six-column eight-page weekly, and has the appearance of a publication with a practical man behind it. The Observer bids you welcome in this new venture, Brother Knutson, and expresses the wish that your printing plant in Torrance will keep pace with the magnitude of other stars that shine with such commercial brilliancy in the industrial constellation to the south of Watts.—Watts Observer, Watts, Cal.

The Ledger-Gazette welcomes to the field of journalism the Torrance Herald, which began its career on January 1st. It is a most attractive looking weekly publication sent out

IRRIGATION—

—with all the bountiful rains with which we have been recently blessed, one is apt to forget the necessity of plentiful irrigation later in the season.

—but to assure of plentiful crops, provision must be made for their proper handling during the dry, arid months.

—now is the time to prepare.

—our IRRIGATION ENGINEER will gladly consult with you and advise as to your requirements, giving you detailed information from which all guess-work is absent.

—and we are in a position to properly care for those requirements, with workmanship of men who know.

—are you getting full value for your operating expenditures of your present equipment?

—a visit of our POWER ENGINEER would be likely to result in dollars in your pocket.
