PEOPLE WHO ARE LEFT OUT OF THE ROLL CALL

Population of the United States
Asked to Stand Up and Be Counted.

By GERALD STANLEY LEE.

I had a friend once named Old Bill Spear, who was the curator and founder of the John Quincy Adams Memorial in Quincy, Mass. He conceived the idea of making the house into a memorial and, with his genius as a collector of old furniture, filled it with things to see.

People came from everywhere, and at twenty-five cents apiece they went about to see the things Bill had collected and hear Bill talk.

Bill felt very superior to most collectors. "Just collectors," Bill said, "collect anything."

Bill usually could size people up when they came into the door but when he wasn't quite sure about people, and suspected he didn't want to bother with them very long, he used to take them up to the attic to size them up quick. He would show them a bushel basketful of something they couldn't quite see, and then he would wave his hand with a flourish and say in an impressive tone as they stooped to look closer, "This is the Largest Collection of Burnt Matches in the World!"

Hundreds of collectors didn't break a smile, Bill said, and just looked awed. Then Bill knew, of course, that he needn't bother to show them his best things.

Some of the people who are proposing to go out into the streets Red Cross Christmas Roll Call Week and gather up everybody to join the Red Cross, seem to think that the main thing there is to tell people about the Red Cross. It is that if they pay a dollar to belong they will belong to the Largest Collection of People Who Have Paid One Dollar in the World.

I felt a little superior to this at first and began thinking how I wouldn't do it. But when I began thinking what the biggest Collection of People in the World could do by just being the biggest and by all wanting the same thing with a different one dollar, it became impressive.

It would even be impressive if forty million people in America all wanted the same thing with the same Dollar! All wanting the same thing would be a nation praying—all the grown-up people of a nation with their little half-conscious children round them—praying!

The dollar a man joined with, would not be a mere one dollar. The dollar would be a receipt to every man in America that 39,999,999 other men or women belonged to him, and that he belonged to them in getting what he wanted for three million soldier boys and for their children at home.

Forty million people—all the grown-up people in this country pick out three million men they have picked out. "You go and die for us, you go and be saviors of the world and die on our crosses for us!"

Then what do the forty million do? It would be something if we would all line up—the whole forty million of us to a man, with our little pallid insipid speechless dollar bills in our hands, from Maine to California Christmas Week, and use our two dollar bills a year as ballots, stand up in line and be counted and cable to the men across the seas that we vote one carriage once in two weeks to stand by them, to stand by the souls and bodies of the children of the men who have made a standing offer to die on our crosses for us!

Who wants to be left out of this line by Christmas Eve? What man would want to be stood up in a row of those who are left out while all of the children of the world file by and look at him, while the little children of nine hundred thousand dead men in England file by and look at him, or the children of the soldiers of France giving their lives to protect the skyscrapers of New York?

For that matter it need not take so many children. What man who let himself be left out would feel safe in his own house with his own children climbing up into his lap believing in him—safe with his own baby pulling on his face, jabbing his small trustful fists in his eyes—if he let himself be left out?

Of course, it seems a little like a mockery to cable over to France Christmas Eve that we give one carriage once in two weeks to the children of the men we picked out to die for us, but it would be a start.

Nobody needs to think it would be a big thing just to belong to the Red Cross, but it is going to be a big thing to be left out.

AID GAS HEROES.

On the roof of the Pavilion Bellevue, near St. Cloud, is a most interesting hospital for soldiers who have been "gassed." The Pavilion Bellevue is the former home of Isadora Duncan and is in charge of the American Red Cross.

Lieut. Wilfred H. Day of Niagara Falls, N. Y., is in charge of this hospital, which treats only those who have been gassed, and is the first hospital of its kind to be established. Lieutenant Day has visited every country that was in the war, except Bulgaria and Turkey, and has worked in each one. During a recent visit to Worcester, England, he was received by the Lord Mayor and honored because of his work, and the Queen of Roumania conferred honor upon him, commending him for his work among the wounded and destitute of her country.

MONEY NOT THE OBJECT.

Our obligation to our own soldiers and sailors and the privilege of ministering to the sick and wounded, of feeding the hungry, housing the homeless and rebuilding the waste places of our associates in the war, call the entire American people to the support of the Red Cross spirit now as never before. The money to be raised in membership dues is secondary. It is the spiritual phase that is important, for it will show the suffering people of the world that the American people will see them through their experience to the very end.

TORRANCE HERALD Torrance, California

Order of the Rose of the Junior Maccabees

The Junior Maccabees, or the Order of the Rose, was organized Tuesday afternoon at the Legion Hall. Mrs. Kate Russell, district deputy of Los Angeles, presided at the meeting and installed the officers. Those installed were:

Marion Wright, Queen.
Helen Reeve, Chamberlain.
Maxine Roberts, Mistress of Robes.
Mary Roberts, Scribe.
Carrie Van Patten, Purse Bearer.
Dorothy Barnes, Maid of Honor No. 1.

Elsie Beckwith, Maid of Honor No. 2.
Mrs. Nettie Steinhilber Commander
Mrs. Kathryn Van Patten, Queen's Advisor.

Mrs. Frank Steinhilber, Mrs. Layton, Mrs. James King, Mrs. Gay, Mrs. Lessing and Mrs. Watson were put on the advisory board.

They will have their next meeting February 21st at 4 p. m. at the Legion Hall. The dues will be 25 cents a month, and all members are requested to be present at the next meeting, for the Queen will appoint the remaining officers required for their order.

THE DAY AND NIGHT GARAGE

An institution that has come to the advantage of the auto-traveling public is the big Day and Night Garage on Cabrillo and Wells and the proprietors, Tourtelotte & Crowell, noting the real necessities of the day, are prepared to help the wayfarers at any time in their possible troubles. Anyone who has been marooned, as it were, at night by some accident, realizes what a boon and benefit it is to have instant repairs made by a first class machinist of a firm that never sleeps. And then the Day and Night Garage are dealers in the world renowned Buick, and auto that has withstood the most exacting tests of time under all possible conditions. That's the kind of a car that a man wants; one that will go, and come back.

THE CASTLE CHANGES HANDS

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kane of the Castle Apartments have sold to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Allen of Portland, Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Allen were formerly connected with the Portland Oregonian and Torrance is glad to welcome them in their midst. The Allens moved in Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kane intend to stay in Los Angeles awhile where Mrs. Kane will undergo special treatment on her foot at the Methodist hospital. The best wishes of Torrance friends follow Mr. and Mrs. Kane.

A SWEET BUSINESS

Mr. T. B. Bartlett of Long Beach was here through the Fiesta in the candy business and was so well pleased with Torrance that he returned for further investigation and has taken the large room, numbered 1224 in the Burkhardt building, where the place is really open for business but the formal opening will be given Saturday afternoon and evening. Everybody is invited to come and test a sample of the new, delicious and famous Black Walnut Kisses. You will be satisfied with none less sweet. Try them.

HIS CAREER ENDED

A tragedy occurred in the Colonial rooming house presumably between nine and ten o'clock Wednesday forenoon, when F. H. Shultz, 60 years of age, ended his earthly existence by the use of a razor. Repeated calls had been made at his door, and finally suspicion having been aroused, the door was opened and the body discovered. The deceased, it is reported, had about $100 in his possession in the room, and $800 in the bank and did not seem to have been brooding, particularly over financial affairs. He had recently purchased two lots at $2,200 cash and is said to have intended building.

The deceased leaves a widow at Forest Grove, Oregon, he himself having recently come from Portland. A sister resides at Long Beach. The body was removed to Redondo where the burial may take place unless further orders should be received.

MACCABEE MEETING

Don't forget the Maccabees supper next Monday evening, Feb. 6th, at the Dominguez Land Co. lecture room at 6 o'clock. Price 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Everybody come and get a real good feed of home-made cooking, with all you want to eat.

Secretary Wanted

As proof that Torrance means business is organizing her new Chamber of Commerce, the Executive Committee last week went on record favoring the employment of a Chamber of Commerce Secretary, who will give his entire time to the work of building up Torrance. The man wanted must have executive ability, and must be a good mixer and a "self-starter." The Chamber will pay such a man a good salary, even as much as $300 per month for the right kind of a man. In order to lose no time in finding a secretary, a special committee to scout for the right kind of man was appointed. Manager John A. Glass of the Union Tool Co. is chairman of the committee and serving with him are Messrs. C. S. Bisbee, Dr. Norman Leake, A. H. Bartlett and Dick Malone.

Fourth District Meeting Chambers of Commerce

The Fourth District Chambers of Commerce meeting will be held in Gardena on Thursday evening, February 9th, at the Womens' Club House on Orchard avenue and besides the regular work looking to the best interests which may be subserved by the action of the meeting in regard to anything rightly coming within the purview of the organization, and the speeches; a banquet will be served at the Womens' Club to the large number present which may, at least, number one hundred if the meetings at Compton and at Woodcrest should serve as a criterion. The Compton body placed a fine banquet at a dollar a plate but the Woodcrest people, through the action of President Love, entertained the three hundred without money and without price. But the Fourth District voted that a price should be made, in the future, this being a statement of policy with no intention of infringing upon any local policy that might be adopted.

The dinner which will be given by the Gardena Chamber of Commerce will be given without the idea of making a cent of profit, and it is understood that the general public may attend the dinner at the price set for the members and delegates. It is thought that the price per plate will not exceed seventy-five cents and it should doubtless be advisable for outside persons to make reservations; it would be a good idea though no call has been made for the adoption of this plan.

The routine business and the speeches and other entertainment alone would make it worth the small sum asked, for the Fourth District sessions always mark an event in local and district history and it is the part of wisdom to keep posted on matters affecting the interests of so many thousands in this territory covered by organizations.

NEW BARLEY VARIETIES TO HELP MAINTAIN PRODUCTION

Barley is one of the cereal crops grown more extensively in California than in any other state. The three leading counties of California in the production of barley are San Joaquin, Yuba and Colusa.

California's ten thousand barley farms in 1919 produced an average of more than one-half ton of grain per acre valued at approximately $35.50, according to H. M. Butterfield, Supervisor of Correspondence courses at the University of California College of Agriculture. The Agronomy Division of the State University is now recommending several new varieties which will materially increase the average yield and help maintain the state's barley output.

The College of Agriculture is now offering a correspondence course on barley culture. This course is described in detail in Circular 113 which may be obtained from the Director of the Experiment Station, University of California, Berkeley.

LOOKING FORWARD

No organization of community development has taken up one of the linotype, or type-casting machines, invented—and four of which have been finished—by a citizen now of Gardena. This is the machine which a large Chicago corporation offered ten thousand dollars for a controlling interest which is worth only five millions, or such a trivial matter. But an eastern firm is now negotiating for the purpose of buying the patent or devising some workable plan to the general end of getting the machine on the market.

After the machine has been on the market for ten years then the community organizations and mutual admiration societies will bewail the short-sighted policy which prevented the development of a great manufacturing center.
