Around the World with Stan Delaplane

NEW YORK — The warm summer has come now to Manhattan. Some balmy night, when you have a feeling for steak, take a taxi to Brooklyn and Peter Luger's. (Tell the driver to take the Williamsburg bridge and hug the outside lane. It's a sharp right and one block from the foot of the bridge.)

It's a no nonsense, old-fashioned steak house of the turn of the century. Scrubbed plank tables. (You can take off your coat while you eat.) And, if you don't get there before 8:30, you're too late. (Phone and let Harry know you're coming.)

The steak is broiled whole for the number of your party, then sliced and left in the platter in its juice. The sliced onions are sweet as apples. And the tomatoes are juicy and sharp with flavor. The draft beer is German.

It's a place favored by politicians and journalists. The old-time steak and beer house that's disappeared into the more leisurely past.

Luchow's down on 14th street is better known. But you may not know their schlemmerschnitte. (You can make this at home if you don't get to New York.) Pile raw lean ground steak on rounds of rye bread. Make a dent in the center and fill it with caviar — salted, not fresh. Top this with chopped onion and sprinkle with fresh ground pepper. A lemon wedge for juice is optional.

You should have this with a good German beer. And, if you want to step it up, serve little glasses of freezer cold Swedish akvavit, too.

"We'd like any of your suggestions for restaurants in Paris, Rome and Madrid. . ."

Now that summer is here, the outdoor restaurants are pleasant. Ramponneau at 21 Avenue Marceau in Paris has a small garden. It is popular, but not inclined to be jammed with tourists. Another is Closerie des Lilas at 171 Boulevard Montparnasse. (A favorite of Hemingway in his early Paris days.) Both have good food — Ramponneau is far better, though. And it's a bit more expensive.

• • •

In Rome you must cross the Tiber to Trastevere where Renaissance buildings lean over cobbled streets. The restaurant is Romolo's a Porta Settimiana. Order chicken cooked with peppers and drink light ruby-colored Broglio. Your table is set under a grape vine 400 years old. Raphael painted his mistress in this garden. And there's usually a guitar player leaning against the broken Roman wall. Mama mia!

And, for the best ice cream in the world, Rome is your place. Some people are high for Cafe Mozart. But I give the bow to Tre Scalini in Piazza Navona. So good I can't describe it.

Spain is great for color but is not much of a gourmet country. The outdoor places in the corner of the great antique Plaza Major in Madrid are good. El Pulpito is older. It's side by side with Meson de la Corregidora. Food is about the same—suckling pig, pickled pheasant. Good sea food salads. Drink Sangria, a very light and cold wine punch.

• • •

"We are not familiar with any foreign language and are sure we'll have problems ordering at restaurants . . ."

You learn the food words faster than anything else because you have to and you're using them every day. But nearly all places get foreigners. The waiters have learned a little of your language too. Don't panic. Nobody starves.

• • •

"We hear various stories about tipping so expect to spend our time in awe of European waiters."

Continental restaurants add a 15 per cent tip, marked on your check "service" or a similar word. It's custom to leave a LITTLE more. If the "service" is equivalent to a dollar, leave a dime. Give the wine steward something like a quarter on this formula.

In English and Irish restaurants, give a percentage tip as you do at home. The locals don't use our 15 per cent rule. They're apt to make it 12 per cent. You can ask if the wine steward gets a piece of the tip. He usually does.

VFW Post Elects New Leaders

Cecil Bardwell, a veteran of World War II and Korea, will be installed as commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3261 of Gardena next Saturday.

Installation ceremonies will be held at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, where officers from 36 posts in the VFW Fourth District will be installed.

Bardwell is a member of the Military Order of Louse, the Gardena Elks Club, and the Centinela Valley YMCA. He is a native of Tucson, Ariz., but grew up in California.

Other new officers of the Gardena post include Ray Treval, senior vice commander; Robert Colvin, junior vice commander; Arthur Miller, quartermaster; Dale Gregory, judge-advocate; James Dambrill, chaplain; Martin Stewart, surgeon and Robert Ewall, trustee.

A reception for the new officers, including some 15 chairmen to be named by the new commander, is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, June 10.

New Deft Wood Stain On Market

"Anyone who can push a button can stain unfinished picture frames professionally and economically with new Deft Laquer Spray Stain," according to W. E. "Bill" Sawtell, vice-president and director of marketing for the Torrance firm which manufatcures wood finishing products.

Aerosol - packaged to eliminate the inconvenience of brushing hard - to - reach places, Deft's new interior lacquer spray stain is deal for wood picture frames and furniture, as well as natural fiber materials such as wicker, rattan and bamboo. It dries in 30 minutes.

It is perfect, Sawtell said, for shading and toning effects.

NOTICE

Many listings in the classifications — "Employment offered Men" or "Employment offered Women" are not intended to exclude or discourage applications from persons of the other sex. Such listings are for the convenience of readers because sexed occupations are considered more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. Discrimination in employment because of sex is prohibited by the 1964 Civil Rights act with certain exceptions (where sex is a bona fide qualification, firms with less than 100 employees, etc.). Advertisements containing the abbreviation "M." & "F." or other phrases such as—"Open to men or women", "Equal opportunity employer." "Open to either sex." "Engineer—men and Women." etc. indicate that the positions are open to either qualified men or women.
