THE SOCIAL CREED

(By Rev. E. E. Clark, Lomita)
The Social Creed of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America. We hold that our church ought to declare:

1—For the Christian social obligation resting upon every man for his family, his community, his nation, and the whole world.

2—For the Christian obligation to use wealth and power as trusts from God for fellow men.

3—For the application of Christian principles to the conduct of industrial, agricultural and commercial organizations. Among these Christian principles are:

(a)—The sacredness of life and the supreme worth of personality, so that a man must always be treated as an end and never as a means.

(b)—The brotherhood of man, demanding for every worker a democratic status in industry, and mutual understanding, good will, co-operation and a common incentive among all men engaged in it.

4—For the right and duty to work, since human society cannot endure unless each of its members has the opportunity and feels the obligation to serve the common good.

5—For a worthy and just return to every man according to his contribution to the common welfare. A worthy return for honest work is "a living wage," which means a wage adequate to maintain the worker and his family in health and honor, and to enable him to dispense with the earnings of his children up to the age of sixteen.

6—For the abatement of poverty, some of which is due to vice, idleness, or improvidence, but much, also to low wages, preventable disease, uncompensated accidents, insufficient education, and other conditions for which society is responsible.

7—For the protection of children from exploitation in industry, agriculture or trade, and from work that is dwarfing, degrading or morally unwholesome.

8—For such regulation of the occupation of women as shall secure an adequate living wage and at the same time safeguard their physical and moral health, and that of the community and of future generations.

9—For the safeguarding of working people from harmful conditions of labor, dangerous machinery and occupational diseases, and for the education of workers in avoiding hazards in connection with their work.

10—For the assumption by industry of the burdens entailed by industrial accidents, disease, and death and for the training of injured workers for continued production and self-support.

11—For the release of every worker for rest, one day in seven, which, wherever possible, should be the Lord's Day.

12—For the ordering of the hours of labor to secure at once sufficient production and sufficient leisure for the physical, mental and moral well-being of the workers.

13—For the employment of the methods of investigation, conference, conciliation and arbitration in industrial disputes.

14—For the invalidity of agreements, both in letter and in spirit, since good faith is the foundation of social and industrial stability and progress.

15—For the right of wage earners to organize and to deal, through their chosen representatives, with the management of the industries in which they work, because an adequate representation of all parties (Labor, Capital, Management, and the Public) in industry is needed for production and to secure attention for the human factors involved.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

"The gift-giving spirit is here already," says Albert Killian of the Beacon Drug Stores, San Pedro, "and having three well equipped and centrally located drug stores in San Pedro, we can offer a service that cannot be excelled this side of Los Angeles. Each store is laden with gift suggestions that are useful and timely hints of those wishing to remember their friends and relatives, and all are priced to fit your pocket books. In our stores you will find some of the finest assortments of Parisian Ivory sets, Manicuring sets, Kodaks, Candles, Fancy Box Stationery, and thousands of other pretty things too numerous to mention; except that we do some of the finest kodak finishing, with a 24-hour service."
—Adv.

A German electrician has the smallest automobile in existence. It weighs only one-quarter of an ounce, is worn as a scarf pin, and is kept running while being worn. A pocket battery supplies the current.

PRINTING--
The Art of All Arts

ALL of the forms needed in your business, and all the many and varied other printing, so important to you—to carry your message of solidarity, sincerity and individuality—finds expression in its highest form when you bring your printing orders to us.

As students of the Art of All Arts we never neglect to learn how to interpret the soul-meaning of your message and to present your story with grace, facility and clearness that in its simplicity makes it strikingly artistic. In its true meaning, art is simplicity.

No matter how difficult the technique of your printed matter may be—whether it be blank forms, literature or what not—you may have assurance that its finish will stand out as the ultimate in printing perfection when done by us.

And, when it is finished the price rendered will represent its real cost, to which a fair profit only was added; a profit that will enable us to perpetuate the high type and quality of our service.
