BUICK TO GET FIRST CHOICE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Buick has won the privilege of first choice of display space at the big national automobile shows in New York and Chicago. This honor is annually conferred on the motor car manufacturer doing the largest volume of business during the year preceding the date of the show. This completion, of course, is exclusive of Henry Ford.

While Buick has won this honor before, it is appreciated more than ever this time on account of the fact that competition has been unusually keen during the past year.

The National Automobile Show for 1922 is to be held here in the Grand Central Palace, during the week of January 7 to 13. The Chicago exhibit will be held two weeks later at the Coliseum.

BUYS PARTNER

November 1, like the first of every other month, witnessed many changes in business, one of the most important of which was the sale of C. J. Rahm's interest in the White Garage (formerly Zuver's) to his son, Floyd Rahm, who will conduct the business henceforth on the same fair and business-like methods as heretofore. The junior member of the former firm is a thoroughly experienced mechanic, and has had years of experience in repairing all makes of automobile engines, having come direct here from Flint, Michigan, where he was a foreman in factories there. C. J. Rahm, the retiring member of the firm, enters the new car sales forces of the Overlands and Willys-Knight, and will have charge of this and the Redond Beach districts. He has many prospects lined up already for the class Willys-Knight. Mr. Rahm we are pleased to state, will still be a resident of Torrance. All bills, however, due the former firm should be paid at the garage.

Good Results

Stockson: "One day last week old man Gotrox bought a lot of those 'Do It Now' signs and hung 'em around the office."

Bond: "How did the staff take it?"

Stockson: "Almost unanimously. The cashier skipped with $30,000, the head bookkeeper eloped with the private secretary; three clerks asked for an increase of salary, and the office boy lit out to become a highwayman and got as far west as Pittsburgh before he was caught and disarmed."—Judge.

Strategy

Three Scotchmen went to church, each clutching tightly the penny he intended to contribute when the plate was passed. Consternation reigned when the minister announced that this particular Sunday an effort was to be made to raise the mortgage, and asked every member of the congregation to make a substantial offering.

During the prayer the Scots held a whispered consultation as to the solution of their dilemma and reached a satisfactory decision.

One fainted and the other two carried him out.

Retirement

"What is your occupation?" asked the judge sternly. "I haven't any," replied the man. "I just circulate around, so to speak." "Please note," said the judge, turning to the clerk, "that this gentleman is retired from circulation for thirty days."

Quite Evident

The teacher screamed, clasped one arm and registered genuine agony. "A bee stung me," she shrieked, shaking that much-mashed offender out on the floor.

"Yep," piped Johnny Jones. "I seed it crawlin' up your sleeve." "Then why didn't you tell me?" the exasperated teacher demanded. "'Cause," replied the gulleible Johnny, "I knowed you'd find it out."

No Irish There

Two Jews in a street car. First Jew: "I vill refer go py Rockaway agaan fer de summer. Nothing but Irish everywhere."

Second Jew: "It's de same a Saratoga, Abey; it's alive mit Irish I wish I could go vere dere was n' Irish."

Mrs. Clancy (on the opposite seat): "Ye'z can go to h—l; ye'll find no Irish there."

Poor Man

A clergyman in a midland town just before the service, was called to the vestibule to meet a couple who wanted to be married. He explained that there wasn't time for the ceremony.

"But," said he, "if you will be seated I will give you an opportunity at the end of the service to come forward."

The couple agreed and at the proper moment the clergyman said:

"Will those who wish to be united in the holy bond of matrimony please come forward?"

Thereupon thirteen women and one man proceeded to the altar.

D. M. S. ENTERTAIN

Over one hundred distinguished visitors representing all lines of business were invited to visit the D. M. S. & B. lime deposits of the Torrance Lime and Fertilizer Co., south of Lomita in the O. S. Weston Hills on Saturday. After examining the different formations that had been exposed, luncheon was served the guests, after which several "shots" were put off that were real blasts. Many interesting discoveries were made after the blasting. There were three shots made, the third one being quite disastrous, throwing a large boulder over onto the office building and puncturing the roof. No one was hit, however. Many remained at the quarries until darkness settled over the pit, bringing to an end further investigation. A unique and well edited four-page newspaper was distributed by S. Maus Purple, general manager for the company. The title of the "sheet" is "Life Extension Bulletin," Vol. I, No. 1.

Exhibits and displays of petrified bones, teeth, vertebrae, feet and toes, etc., are on display at the property. The "fountain of youth" is properly labeled, D. M. S. Home Brew. "Without lime there can be no life, either plant, animal or human." Wonderful results have been obtained the past year by application of pulverized lime to soil, the results being record breakers.

A score of men, some of them known throughout the world for their scientific knowledge and discoveries, are putting around the debris caused by an explosion near Lomita last Saturday.

The explosion was caused when 100 pounds of dynamite was touched off. Locally the effect was felt many tons of substance, but the blast turned up relics that will interest the scientific world.

The fields or bluffs where the explosion took place belong to the D. M. S. Lime Company, which, in addition to supplying plant tonics, has made a collection of prehistoric animal life ranking with the most famous exhibits.

Remains of animals that roamed this section at a period estimated at 500,000 years ago were thrown out by the latest blast. Several of the specimens still are unidentified, showing that new finds will be added to the collection.

Among the most precious relics found today were those picked up by S. Maus Purple, manager of the company. He treasures the relic, he says, because it belonged to an animal not yet classified so far as he knows.

The object is a tooth, perfectly preserved in the limestone formation. It has been compared with molars of the two-toed horse, the saber-toothed tiger, the giant sloth and other remains, but belongs to none of them.

Among the scientists who inspected the debris after the latest blast were Dr. William A. Bryan, director of the Museum of Science and Art, Exposition Park; Dr. Gilbert E. Bailey, geologist of the University of Southern California; Dr. S. O. Barnes, chemist, of Gardena; Dr. J. Z. Gilbert, chemist, of Gardena; Dr. George P. Clements, manager of the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Department; Dr. L. E. Wyman, curator of the Exposition museum; Prof. J. C. Gilbert, biologist and conchologist.

While a repast was being partaken of a number of short talks were given, during which it developed that the scientific interest in the deposit is world-wide. An interesting statement was that of Dr. Gilbert, who declared that though he had been assured that belladonna could not be grown in Southern California, he had been enabled, by the use of lime as a fertilizer, to grow the finest of belladonna. He declared that it had been characterized as better than that grown anywhere else in the world.
