

Eighty Members of Local Firm Honored

UNION TOOL COMPANY PRESENTS SERVICE PINS TO EMPLOYEES

At the suggestion of one of its employees, Mr. C. S. Ashley, some time ago, the Union Tool Company decided to reward its employees with a suitable token of appreciation, which later took the form of a pin inscribed with the words: "Appreciation of Service," together with the monogram of the company and a star, which represents each five years of continuous service. At a very pretty and appropriate ceremony presentation was made of these pins on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. J. A. Glass was selected to represent the management on this occasion, and in a few well-chosen and appropriate remarks introduced Mr. W. E. B. Partridge, to whom went the honor of receiving the first service pin, one bearing four stars to represent twenty-two years of active and continuous employment. When one considers that the Union Tool Co. has been in existence little more than twenty-five years, it speaks mightily well of the management, especially since it carries about forty employees who have been on its pay roll continuously for more than ten years.

Miss Louise Rinker holds the distinction of being the only woman to receive a pin which bore three stars, nearly eighteen years. In all there were something like eighty employees to receive pins. Provision has been made to issue another pin as each employee completes an additional five year term, and, believe us, within a short time there will be a great number wearing pins with one star.

Mr. Frank Haneschka, the Union Tool band leader, selected the orchestra which furnished the music for the occasion. Messrs. Harry McManus and Jess Tonkin led the quartette, which sang some old favorites.

Our versatile mayor, G. A. Proctor, was signally honored by being presented with two pins, one not being of sufficient size to adorn his generously-proportioned frame. Of course, the second pin was of special design and about six inches in diameter.

JOHNNY'S THANKSGIVING PIE

(By MRS. M. K. WOOD)
"Oh, Johnny! Do go to the spring and fetch me a good cool drink of water."

It was Betty, the cook, pleading with the stripling of a boy, who was a regular machine in the family. She was hot and tired, cooking in the big hot kitchen, making all sorts of good things, as she told Johnny, to make him thankful.

"Well, gimme that pumpkin pie on the shelf and I'll go."
"No! You wait till tomorrow. Run along, honey, that's a good boy."

"Well, I'm as tired as you are. I have to do everything, from minding the baby to driving the cows to pasture and feeding the hogs in the pen, and watering the horse and pulling fodder, and pick up chips and pile on the fire in the smokehouse, and if I stop a minute to 'Johnny, run and fetch a fresh bucket of water.' See? I'm as tired as you are."

"Oh, stop your noise. I'll give you lots of things tomorrow."
"No, I'm not going till you give me that pumpkin custard. It's about to split in two, anyhow."

"Well, here, take it and go and hurry back."

"All right."
He takes the bucket from her hand, also the coveted custard, but wanting a better time to eat it, he hides it outside in a closet under the steps, and off he runs to the spring. He returns in record-breaking time, disposes of the desired cool beverage to Betty and runs out to get his pie, when lo! it was licked clean, nothing but the crust remaining to tell the story. But, looking inside, he saw old mother cat, who was domiciled with her family, lying peacefully licking her kittens after her Thanksgiving pumpkin pie.

What that irate boy didn't do in two minutes remains to be done, for he broke up housekeeping for one old mother cat, and Betty, for the sake of peace, furnished a substitute for Thanksgiving pie with a doughnut.

Later we'll follow Johnny to the pig pen and watch him toss the well-licked pie crust into the pen with: "Here, old sow, take your pie in advance. If I hadn't been in such a hurry for my pay I might have had some satisfaction with it myself. Next time I guess I'll mind Betty," and he hung over the pen and watched his Thanksgiving pie vanish.

They left immediately for San Diego for a week's honeymoon, after which they will be at home at 1735 Andreo avenue, Torrance.

Mr. Bishop is a foreman at the Union Tool Shops. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are well known in Torrance, and their numerous friends here wish them a long life of happiness and prosperity.

R. J. Deininger of the Dominguez Land Corporation and City Clerk of Torrance, left Wednesday for Helena, Montana, where he will visit his sister for a fortnight. Mr. Deininger writes that he ran into "some weather" at Helena.

NEARING THE END

THANKSGIVING DAY.

THANKSGIVING DAY is purely of American origin, and is a "Harvest Home" festival, handed down from our Pilgrim Fathers in 1620. In 1820 the town of Plymouth celebrated the bicentennial of that historic fact, and as a reminder of the scanty provision of our forefathers, five grains of parched corn was placed by the plate of each guest. Quite a contrast between the feast of those who endured the hardships that won for the U.S.A. the laurels of the day.

Fathers yielded a scant supply of provision and they were reduced to the point of starvation. The crops were gathered and divided among the colonists, and they, grateful for the many blessings they did enjoy, and decided to hold a Thanksgiving Day as a recognition of the fact. Geo. Bradford took in the situation and selected four skilled sportsmen and sent them into the woods to hunt for wild turkeys. They went out and returned loaded down with turkeys, deer and other game.

They feasted three days and fed nearly a hundred Indians. During the Revolution, Thanksgiving Day was a national institution, being annually recommended by Congress, but after the general Thanksgiving of Peace in 1784, there was no national appointment until 1789, when Washington by request of Congress recommended a day of Thanksgiving for the adoption of the Constitution, and he issued a second proclamation, 1795, on account of suppression of insurrection.

Pres. Madison by request of Congress recommended a Thanksgiving for Peace in 1815.

In 1863 and 1864, Pres. Lincoln issued a proclamation and recommended annual Thanksgiving. Since then the proclamation has been issued annually as indicated by President Lincoln, although it is not held as a fixed holiday it is by custom observed the last Thursday in November.—N.K.W.

BANQUET

The Torrance Chamber of Commerce will soon hold an open meeting in the salesroom of the Dominguez Land Company. It is hoped there will be a large attendance of all interested, and a fine supper is promised for $1 a plate. The date will be announced in the next issue of the "Enterprise."

CARSON STREET TO BE REPAIRED

TORRANCE WOMAN'S CLUB

The regular meeting of the Torrance Woman's Club was held on Monday, Nov. 21, at half-past two o'clock in Legion Hall. After an unusually long and important business session and a helpful parliamentary drill by Mrs. Henderson, an appeal was made by Mrs. Durban, a representative of the Red Cross Christmas Seals Association, for support in the Christmas drive. Mrs. Hurum Reeve and Mrs. Whitney gave very interesting current events, and the music program was a special treat to all who heard it. Mrs. Gordon Groves and Mrs. Thos. Willacy of Lomita were the graceful soloists, and the women of the Torrance Club appreciated most sincerely their beautiful selections. Unfortunately their accompanist and piano soloist, Mrs. Stinson, of Lomita, could not be present owing to illness, and much regret was expressed. Mrs. Fitzhugh substituted as accompanist. It is hoped that Mrs. Stinson's piano numbers may be given at a later date.

At the close of the program a rising vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Groves and Mrs. Willacy, and a special invitation was given them and Lomita friends to join the club.

The next meeting of the Torrance Woman's Club will take place Monday, Dec. 5, at 2:30 p. m. in Legion Hall, and a special program is planned.

Push The Red Cross Drive to Limit

RENEW YOUR MEMBERSHIP TODAY AND LESSEN ALL HUMAN SUFFERING

Americans no longer have to be told that the Red Cross is one of the finest and most valuable organizations which functions in this country and throughout the world. That has been proven not only upon the fields of Europe but in every catastrophe which has in recent years overtaken this or any other land. The Red Cross stands for the highest type of service—and delivers it.

All that Americans need to be reminded of in connection with the organization is that it must always have more money and more members if its work is to expand as it should.

In the present drive for membership you are expected to renew your membership. The nation has just paid its tribute to the unknown hero who gave his life for his country. It is now quickened with the vision of a new world order which the Washington conference inspires. The Red Cross stands for devotion to an ideal, for the highest type of service and for doing good in every way. It gives practical expression to the desire for doing something friendly and helpful which is voicing itself at this time in the demand that all nations co-operate toward a better understanding and a sound foundation for lasting peace.

The Red Cross lessens suffering; a time of war and stimulates the peace yearnings of all peoples in times of tranquility by pointing the way toward unselfish, intelligent and untiring service.

The Red Cross belongs to all of us and benefits all of us, in one way or another. Make the membership drive a complete success in Torrance.

EASTERN STAR DINNER

The O. E. S. dinner was well attended last Thursday evening in the Dominguez Land Salesroom on El Prado street. Plates were laid for almost one hundred, and a sumptuous dinner was served. Mrs. A.
