

LIMITA COMMUNITY CHURCH

Material and Spiritual" was the text of the morning sermon, based on the text, "A man's life consisteth in the abundance of the things which he possesseth," and the parable of the fig tree. It was pointed out that the folly of the rich man was that he ignored God, the Giver of good. He had no thought or care for others. He imagined his material goods to be food for his soul. He was foolish because he made no provision for death, which is every day possible. Oil stocks, bonuses and dividends may bring us money which we do not desire, but they also so fill our hearts and minds that we forget that we are children of God. Men and women are gaining wisdom but some of them are losing their souls. Shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Boy Scout Night service was held last evening. Many parents and members of the Boy Scouts were present. Inspiring hymns were sung from a new hymn book. District Boy Scout Commissioner Ellis P. Moorhead made an interesting talk concerning the origin of the Boy Scout movement and the principle of helpfulness for which it stands. L. J. Hunter, one of the Boy Scout directors, emphasized the meaning of the oath which every Scout takes. The pastor brought out the fact that the boy is not so much a problem as his parents. If he did their duty the work of the Sunday school, the Boy Scouts and the public school would be easier. Intermediate C. E. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Smith, the topic being "How to Obtain a Great Missionary Advance." The Junior C. E. meeting was in charge of Mrs. C. P. Smith, superintendent.

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Monday evening, Nov. 12, at their home on North Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Paige entertained a group of young friends and a few older ones in honor of their daughter, Miss Rosalind's birthday, which occurs on Armistice Day.

The young hostess was the embodiment of youthful charm, dressed in dainty blue, with wild roses wreathing her brow. The evening passed quickly with games and music until a bonfire was lighted and all joined in the grand march around it, led by Mr. and Mrs. Paige. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, nuts and apples were served. A source of much amusement and witty comment was occasioned when the "gift cake" was cut. An unsuspecting youth set his teeth hard upon the well wrapped thimble in his slice, and in the excitement that followed never did find the wrappings. The youth who drew the ring is still looking for his "lady faire," and the coin is still a harbinger of hopes, via the oil route. Then the birthday cake, so beautiful in its pink and white decorations, was cut. Many nice gifts were presented to Miss Rosalind, and all departed wishing her many happy returns of the day.
