THE FOURTH

A fourth of July celebration was staged at Harry Double's residence on Arlington avenue in the evening. It was a community affair, participated in by the Lessings, Woodingtons, Nashs, Fitzhughs, Ackleys and the Schurtles.

There was plenty of noise and a smoke screen for a whole block. All that was needed to make it look like the world war was a Big Bertha.

AS USUAL

July 4th comes but once a year. But when she comes, Oh, My! We try to light the pin wheel And it soaks us in the eye. The sky rockets fizz and fuzz And zig zag down the street; The Roman candles spit and spout And make the lawns look nice and neat.

With crackers going right and left A big one here, and a small one there; And after all the joy is shot, We wander home in the red light's glare.

ACKLEY.
