LOCAL WOMEN VISIT SEVERAL ART EXHIBITS

Club Enjoys Fine Trip to Studios of Several Artists
 Art lovers of the Torrance Women's club enjoyed an unusual trip last Friday, when 25 of them visited a number of artists' studios in nearby towns.

Leaving Torrance at 10 o'clock, the party proceeded to Santa Monica, where the first studio, known as the "Attic" was visited. As the name of the "Attic" implies, the studio was modeled after an attic of the old-style variety. The only thing to spoil the illusion was the absence of cobwebs. Here was found quaint pieces of furniture, pictures and novelties from all over the world. Especially interesting there the cheer rugs.

From there the party proceeded to Santa Monica beach, where a picnic lunch was enjoyed, and then onward to the Harold Proctor studio of sculpture; but in the maze of Hollywood traffic and movie studios the party lost itself, but again assembled at the MacDowell club.

Here a pleasant surprise awaited the party. Charles Partridge Adams, eminent landscape artist, was exhibiting his many beautiful pictures. The artist courteously explained his pictures and answered endless questions that were asked with unfailing good humor. All were reluctant to leave this exhibit.

As a special favor to the Torrance club Jessie M. Beckman extended the hospitality of her studio to the party, although Monday and Tuesday were her open studio days. This courtesy was greatly appreciated. Her collection of paintings covers a large variety of subjects. The artist herself is elderly, small of stature but great of heart. Her charming personality will be long remembered by those whom she served. It is with pleasant anticipation that the Torrance Women's club can look forward to a visit from this artist.

After leaving the studio of Miss Beckman the inviting portals of the Ambassador hotel could not be resisted, so again the cars were parked and a visit made to the Stendahl studio. Here was exhibited the work of Robert Vonash, one of the best exponents of portrait painting in America. A portrait of the artist himself was especially interesting. One beautiful scene was admired and hope was expressed that it might be purchased for the new club house, but when the price was found to be $5000 the thought was abandoned.

Of course it was impossible to
