COMING MOVIE ATTRACTIONS

TORRANCE THEATRE
 A first peep into the backstage life of a temperamental grand opera star is one of the lures of "Don't Call It Love," the latest William de Mille production for Paramount, which is due for showing at the Torrance theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, June 10 and 11.
 The mystery of the stage behind the scenes has always been an interesting topic. The bleak walls, the piles of stage scenery, the curious dressing rooms with walls adorned by odd pictures and drawings, even the staid old man who sits at the stage entrance and keeps out visitors, all have their hidden appeal.

Some persons prefer comedy as the piece de resistance of their motion picture bill of fare; many like pure romance; others confess a desire for adventure and hair-raising "thrillers."
 All of these classes will find their wishes fulfilled in "Painted People," a First National picture featuring Colleen Moore, which is coming to the Torrance theatre on Thursday and Friday. Clarence Badger directed it. From the Collier's Weekly story, "The Swamp Angel."

LOMITA THEATRE
 What in many respects is expected to be the outstanding event in the history of photoplay presentation in Lomita will take place next Sunday night, when "Under the Red Robe," a sumptuous screen version of Stanley Weyman's famous historical romance bearing the same title, makes its bow in the Lomita theatre.
 Featuring Robert B. Mantell, John Charles Thomas and Alma Rubens, the new picture not only presents a remarkable cast of actors, but represents the most careful regard for historical accuracy in the important features of settings and costuming. The picture was nine months in the making, and the total cost is upwards of $1,500,000. In lavishness of production, beauty of setting, power of drama and excellence of acting the film is said to be unequalled in photoplay history.
 All of the famous examples of the

Schumann-Heink Will Appear For Legion Council
 Sunday afternoon, June 15, will be a long remembered one in the annals of Southern California musical history when, at 3 o'clock the most loved of all singers, Madame Schumann-Heink, sings in the Hollywood bowl. This brilliant operatic and concert star will give a semi-popular program.
 This concert is given under the auspices of the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion. The concert committee has established offices at Barker Bros., in the music department. Ample seating equipment has been provided and other arrangements for the convenience and comfort of those who visit the bowl on Sunday afternoon, June 15, have been completed.
 In order that there may be no long, wearisome standing in line to secure tickets, box offices for the convenience of ticket purchasers have been established at Barker Bros., 724 South Broadway; Bilket Music company, 446 South Broadway; Philharmonic auditorium box office, 427 West Fifth street, and Kress Drug Co., 6401 Hollywood boulevard. Prices will range from 50 cents to $3. Mail orders will be accepted.
