Next Sunday evening all three congregations will meet together in the Methodist church. Rev. B. H. Linscetter, pastor of the Christian church, will be the speaker. A spirited song service will be a feature of each meeting. The choir will continue to lead in the singing. Good sermons, good attendance, good singing, good fellowship, are assured at all meetings. The public is cordially invited to attend these services, which will be continued through July and August.

Big Crowd Drawn By Evangelists

The gospel lectures at the canvas tabernacle at the corner of Marcelina and Cravens avenues are gathering momentum. Sunday night's crowd overflowed the tent. Every chair was occupied and many were forced to stand during the entire service.

The topic was "Capital and Labor," by Evangelist Calkins. The subject was not discussed from a political view, but strictly from a Biblical standpoint. The theme of the topic was taken from the 10th chapter of James, verses 1-5.

Evangelist Seat, who has just returned from the east, sang two solos. Ernest Clinton, a teacher of piano and voice, is the musical director for the company. Miss Lillian Santee is the Bible teacher and A. Ross Jarvis is the associate evangelist.

Mr. Jarvis asserts that if need be he will secure more chairs and lift up the side wall of the tent.
