Melodramas on Torrance Screen Variety Sunday

Eva Novak and All-Star Cast in "Racing for Life" Saturday

WHAT'S ON AT TORRANCE THEATRE Friday—Gloria Swanson and Ben Lyon in "Wages of Virtue." Sennett Comedy. Aesop's Fables. International News. Saturday—Eva Novak and William Fairbanks in "Racing for Life." Monkey Comedy. Earl Hurd Cartoon. First episode of "The Riddle Rider," a chapter play starring William Desmond and Eileen Sedgwick. Sunday—Vaudeville. John Lowell and good cast in "Floodgates." Cameo Comedy. Episode 4 of "Vanishing Trails."

A cast which includes such well-known names as Eva Novak, William Fairbanks, Philo McCullough, Wilfred Lucas and Lydia Knott will be seen in "Racing for Life," a melodramatic racing story which comes to the Torrance theatre screen Saturday. In addition to its conflict and thrills, the picture is said to unfold an appealing story of mother love, with Lydia Knott as the mother. "Westward Whom," a Monkey comedy, an Earl Hurd cartoon, and Chapter 1 of "The Riddle Riders" are also on the same program.

Sunday there will be the usual bill of vaudeville furnished by the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association, a subsidiary of the Orpheum circuit. The screen entertainment will include "Floodgates," an outdoor story of the lumber country, with John Lowell in the leading role. Lowell is a well-known portrayer of such parts as he takes in this picture. Miss Evangeline Russell plays opposite. The picture was made in the Adirondacks, and is said to be pictorially very beautiful. "Hang On," a Cameo comedy, and episode 4 of "Vanishing Trails" complete the program.

Mrs. Young was assisted by Mrs. Harrold and Mrs. William Creighton. Bible games were played, the prizes falling to Grace Smith and Edith Corbett. This class won the contest in bringing the most new members into the Sunday school, held recently.

SCHOOL NEWS

HIGH SCHOOL Albert Curzan, teacher of public speaking and biology, who resigned on Dec. 12, after three years' connection with the school board, was a visitor at the school on Monday. Mrs. Bumgar is substituting until a regularly appointed teacher arrives. The school is glad to welcome back Walter and Lois Zaver, who have been out for a long period during illness; also Nina Sherwood, who has been out of town several months. When the new session starts on Feb. 3 an enrollment of 325 is expected. The sophomores will have a class party at the high school Jan. 16. The next edition of the TNT will be entirely a sophomore number. Negotiations are under way to institute student control. The system is being investigated in large high schools in Los Angeles. Miss M. Jones of the multigraph room, with a group of students, attended a meeting in the Lincoln High School of the Los Angeles High School Press Association.

Elementary School

When the new school session starts in February the last bungalow will be in use. Mr. Bell says this means half-day sessions again shortly unless an addition is made to the building. The present enrollment is 702, with a steady increase averaging five a week.
