MISS LORRAINE ROELOFS CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Little Lorraine Roelofs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Roelofs of 1323 Amapoia, yesterday celebrated her eighth birthday with a party for eight of her school friends.

A large and beautifully decorated birthday cake was the centerpiece for an attractively laid table. The decorations were orange and blue. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served to Victor and Jean Thompson, Carlyle and Samuel Bone, Helen and Kessel Blowski, Marjorie and Dick Roelofs, and Nellie May Johns.

PRETTY PARTY AT MRS. PAIGE'S HOME

Mrs. Harry E. Paige of 1031 North Arlington avenue was hostess at an enjoyable valentine party Friday evening. The house was attractively decorated with flowers and delicious refreshments, including heart-shaped cakes, were served.

The guests were Mrs. Thelma Reineman, Mrs. Frances Tansey, Mrs. Lulu Kent, Mrs. Inez Folsom, Mrs. Alma Merritt, and Mrs. Jesse Cowan.

FOURTEEN GUESTS AT SUNDAY DINNER

On Sunday Dr. and Mrs. George P. Shidler of Post avenue had 14 seated around their dinner table. The occasion was a family party in honor of the eighty-second birthday anniversary of Mrs. Shidler's father, L. B. Ashton, of Glendale. The guests were Mrs. Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bosserman (Mrs. Bosserman is Mr. Ashton's daughter), Charles and Lyman Bosserman, of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hubbard of Centralia, Wash.

RADIO PARTY AFTER DINNER

Mrs. J. A. Wolfe of 1004 Cota avenue was hostess last evening at an attractive dinner and radio party.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Currier and daughter, of Azusa, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. McArdy of Torrance.

"HOW DO YOU DO IT?"

"No wonder you ask, with living so high. But you see, I am buying meats now at the Rock Bottom Market, whose motto is 'We Do It.' That means they smash high prices and keep up high quality."

New Market Will Open Here Shortly On Redondo Blvd.

Another addition to the purveyors of high-grade foodstuffs in Torrance will be made soon, probably the latter part of this week, when the Quality Market will open its doors to the public.

The new market has an excellent location at the corner of Redondo boulevard and Portola avenue, and will be stocked with a high-grade line of groceries, meats and vegetables. The grocery department will be in charge of C. M. Howard, who formerly was engaged in the grocery business in Long Beach. Mr. Howard has been a resident of Torrance since last June, having constructed a comfortable home for himself and family at 107 Cota avenue. This is his first business venture in Torrance.

Barkdull Brothers, also formerly of Long Beach, will have charge of the meat department, and the vegetable department will be in charge of a competent man whose name has not yet been announced. On account of delay in installing the fixtures a definite opening date has not been set, but it is hoped that it will be on Friday or Saturday of this week. It is planned to present valuable articles of merchandise to every visitor on the opening day, and special bargains will be offered in all departments.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waldrige of Hawthorne were guests all day Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kent of 1001 Sartori avenue.

The Joyous Spirit of Springtime is the predominant note in our new arrivals of —the editor was too modest to run this—but I know you folks are as proud of your editor as I am of my partner;—and it's gratifying to feel that so able a man as Mr. Farrell agrees with us. The Business Manager.

Mr. W. Harold Kingsley, Editor TORRANCE HERALD, Torrance, California.

Dear Mr. Kingsley:

"If there had been no Plutarch, the world today would have no Julius Caesar."

Without Harold Kingsley and his graphic report of it in perpetuating type, Will G. Farrell's speech to the Torrance Chamber of Commerce last Monday evening would have winked into oblivion with the waning sound of its last word.

To capture the elusive spirit of enthusiasm and inspiration and harness it with attractive trappings of cogent words that stir the imagination and harden the resolution of a community to common effort, is genius.

I am glad to ally myself with such a man for the growth and happiness of "our" community, which is to be felicitated upon its attraction and acknowledged need for, him and his kind.

More strength to you.

Somebody sent me a copy of your issue of February 10th, and a reading of it stirred a feeling which would not cease without this much expression.

Sincerely, Will G. Farrell.

*Mr. Will G. Farrell was the member of the president's committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce who made such an inspiring talk at the "Get-together" dinner of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce last week in Guild Hall.
