TOWNE ALKE

"Just for Fun"
By RAS BERRY

Sam Levy and his better portion was walking thru the Metropolitan Museum in New York looking at all the prize pears and peaches that they have in his bottles of alcohol these. Frances, that's Mrs. L., says, "Sam, they kin keep most everything in alcohol these days, can't they?" And Sam says, "Yep, everything but secrets."

You know us "Ras Berries" is modest and we never tell our own jokes. But we tell 'em to one another so's the other guy will put it in the column. Well, the other day at the Rotary Club Walter Renn wanted to have some brother rot. soaked two bits for calling him a bird. And Hurum (he's one of the Ras Berries) says, "Well, if a renn ain't a bird, what is it?"

Ed Eins, who's the big chief in Rappaport's since Sam and the missus is vacationing in the East, was telling Faye Howard, who also serves dry goods at Rappaport's, about the Bull Penn Inn in L. A. I guess some red flannel salesman had took Ed there for a dinner. "Well, anyway, Faye says, "Oh, is that a place to eat? I thought they kept pedigreed stock there."

Dick Flaherty, who says he ain't Irish, told the Compton cops the new Buick police car he sold 'em would go 75 miles per hour. 'I'd say that's plenty fast for Compton.

The other day Al Bartlett got stuck in the oil fields without any gas and had to walk a mile to a filling station. Now he knows how that ancient mariner felt when he sang, "Water, Water Everywhere and Not a Drop to Drink."

Our old contributing editor, Doll Har, evidently feels that this ere column needs a boost since Ras is away, sends in this:

"Just to help out the Business Manager
Last night Al Gourder breezed up to the cashier's window at our own movie palace, wearing a free, happy-go-lucky air.
"And when's the wife?" asked the little cashier.
"Well, er—tonight's for men only, isn't it?" asks Al, beginning to worry.
"How come?"
"Well, er—the advertising ads, about this show, which I've been hung, scattered and shown, all say, 'Don't bring your Lulu, n—er—'"
But Al fled at the sight of the cashier.
He returned later—
WITH HIS WIFE!!
And it's a true story. Ask the cashier. She's recovered by this time. DOLL HAR."

But what do I hear? It's Hurum's loud guffaw; he's just rounding the corner at the bank, but he's got another basketful of ripe, juicy ras-berries.
P.S.—Don't some smart reader say they're "over-ripe," either.
Well, here they are, ripe or rotten—you read 'em and see.

By HURUM HARD-BOILED REVE
Down at the Macabee lodge last night the ladies had a party for them that had birthdays this year, an 13 sed they had but wouldn't tell how old, so everybody let it go at 36, and the way they danced and giggled—I betcha they forgot they was over 35—besides you know this is a women's lodge and us mere men don't know what's done and sed—that is till she gets home an then we don't know what words is made for cept to listen to.

Maybe our C. of C. Sec. Carl Hyde, gits a pass to the swimmin pool at Redondo, cause every Saturday nite he takes his washin down there, and now I know why Carl called me a Poor Fish, for I speck he seen me there tryin to swim too.
Dick Malone was treatin some fellers extra nice, and Dick says you know he's one uv our early settlers, but the feller was only 30 and Dick sez, yes but he pays his bills on the first of every month.
Butch Ott hez got 2 more butcher markets now an' in at Harry Paige's he's got Red Headed Butcher, so Harry's singin "No-body Knows What a Red Headed Butcher Kin Do."

For points in an argument the kids has got us beat. Listen to this. I sez to Edgar, it's time for school. Sez he, I'm not goin to-day. Why not, sez I. Well, sez he, I don't go on Washington's birthday, and today's my birthday.

Me and Walter Renn was arguin about salesmanship, an Walter sez, you've got to hev 'thuisiasm—tell 'em about the stuff, an he turns to

SINGS AT WOMEN'S CLUB LUNCHEON

Mrs. Mary Lingenfelter Thompson, who, with her sister, Miss Lois Lingenfelter, delighted the guests at the Women's Club annual luncheon Thursday at the Evangelical Guild Hall with a group of duets. Mrs. Thompson also sang a group of solos. Mrs. James Fitzhugh accompanied at the piano. Mrs. Thompson has opened a studio for voice at the First Christian Church, Torrance.

a table of soap and wants to sell me some soap by singin—
(Tune of Jingle Bells)
Mission Bells, Mission Bells,
Soap and water today,
To wash your hands and wash your face—
Just buy this soap, I say.

The guardians of Peace are going to have a shin-dig, and Ollie Stevenson, the kind hearted deak sergeant is datin em up for dances aforehand—and when he asked Mrs. Lynne for the 13th dance, she sez, Do you know how to dance, and he sez, no, not now, but I will after practicin 12 times, an Mrs. Lynne sez, alright, 12's my lucky number an I betcha she hopes its 3-4 time, cause then it'll be jes like 1, 2, 3, and besides Ollie's short and Mrs. L. is long an if there's prizes for things besides good dancin I want to be there, you know me, Ollie! and enny way Mrs. L. says by the 13th dance Ollie oughta be a good dancer or crippled, 'n' either way she'd be lucky, 'n' if Ollie is crippled why then he'd be lucky.

Envoy Ivy A. Grace, who has charge of the Salvation Army work in Torrance, has moved to the city, and may be found for the present at 2122 Gramercy Avenue.

Nearing the End!

We quit July 3. That means we MUST dispose of our store full of Ladies' Fine Ready-to-Wear within the next 10 days.
When you stop to think that this is practically a NEW stock, bought just a few weeks ago when we opened the store, SUCH DRASTIC REDUCTIONS ARE ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE.
But we have decided to close our eyes to all thought of costs or loss—and are determined to CLOSE OUT THE ENTIRE STOCK AT A TREMENDOUS SACRIFICE. One look will convince you. COME AT ONCE, and get the best selections.
