Two Big Films Are Booked For Local Patrons

'Miracle' and 'Soul Fire' Are Scheduled at Torrance Theatre

Night was black outside of the Caron cottage in the grim Canadian woods. Within a yellow, flickering lamp disclosed two big, powerful men striking and struggling in deadly battle.

Scene from "A WOMAN'S FAITH" A UNIVERSAL JEWEL with ALMA RUBENS and PERCY MARMONT. A beautiful young refugee from a great Canadian city, where she was wanted for the murder of her brother—which she denied.

It's from Clarence Buddington Kelland's famous novel, "Miracle," and it comes to the Torrance Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Richard Barthelmess has never had a more picturesque or colorful picture than "Soul Fire," which plays at the Torrance Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture moves before a sweeping panorama. Opening in Italy, where Eric Fane has been studying music, it swings to Paris, for the young composer has been caught in the web of a Russian adventuress who alone realizes his great promise.

The story next finds Fane a wanderer—a broken dreamer—in "Port Said," the "wicki-est city in the world." From Port Said he ships upon a tramp steamer, finally bringing up on a lonely island in the Pacific.

'Shock Punch' at the Lomita

Scene from "MY WIFE AND I" - A Warner Picture

Both father and son fight for the love of one woman in the picture coming to the Lomita Theatre Friday and Saturday. The picture is called "My Wife and I," with Irene Rich starring, supported by a wonderful cast including Huntly Gordon, John Roche, Constance Bennett, John Harron and Tom Ricketts.

Atton as well as heart-throbs are displayed in this picture. Also Newsreel and a Universal Western, "Honor of the Range."

For one day only, Sunday, will be shown "Let Women Alone," with Wanda Hawley, one of the oldest screen stars, and Wallace Beery, who does his stuff in this picture; Pat O'Malley also is in this hilarious comedy-drama.

Monday will feature the Bigger and Better Country Store and also the knockout throb picture, "On the Threshold," starring one of the best old-time picture actors, Henry B. Walthall.

Tuesday and Wednesday is the knockout picture for the week, "The Shock Punch," with Richard Dix.

Thursday brings, for one day only, Irene Rich, supported by Louise Fazenda, Ricardo Cortez, Clara Bow, Creighton Hade and Marc McDermott, in the masterpiece, "This Woman," which deals with a woman's reputation being blasted by a rotter's lie.

This is in addition to seven to ten acts of professional and amateur vaudeville.

Thrilling Play Is On This Week At the Oriental

Suspense that begins almost with the first line, and mounts until the amazing climax, makes the new comedy thrill sensation, "The Last Warning," playing this week at the Oriental Theatre in Long Beach, one of the most entertaining in many moons.

The play is laid in the deserted Woodford Theatre in New York, where John Woodford disappeared after having collapsed at the great moment of his own play, "The Snare." The theatre, believed to contain his influence, which would not allow anyone to produce his play, had been shunned until Arthur McHugh, played by Howard Foster, bought it and commenced rehearsals on "The Snare." Then things began to happen.

The Oriental players are splendidly cast and give consistently fine performances. Florence Priny and Leon Roget have the leads.

Chevrolet Adopts Uniform Plan For Service Among 6500 Dealers In All Parts of United States

By R. H. GRANT, General Sales Manager Chevrolet Motor Company

A great deal has been said about rendering proper service on automobiles to owners. As a result of the many articles that have been written on this subject, there has been a constant improvement in automobile service. However, "actions speak louder than words," and the Chevrolet Motor Company, in its attempt to get rapid action toward the betterment of service, decided not only to lay down policies but to spend money in assisting dealers to render better service to their customers.

Adopt New Plan
In order to do this, a year ago last August the Chevrolet Motor Company planned a campaign with its dealer organization and service stations to arrange their shops, equipment and personnel along lines that would actually give the type of service that every automobile owner desires. To accomplish this with our large dealer organization, consisting of approximately 6500 dealers, it was necessary to train a special service promotion representative and an assistant in each Chevrolet zone territory, whose primary duty was to go into every Chevrolet dealer's service station and remain there long enough to put into effect the methods suggested by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

The schedule of work to be done by the service promotion representative covers the arrangement of the shop so that the work benches and tool equipment will be properly placed for efficient service and maximum service space for the handling of the largest number of cars possible without congestion; the installation of special tools, which will enable service station work at the lowest cost; arranging the stockroom and setting up the proper supply of service parts; establishing a flat rate system of repairs, so that the owner will know exactly how much any particular repair job is going to cost him.

Train Service Men
Another important duty of the Chevrolet service promotion representative is to train the service men in the dealer's organization not only in the proper use of the special tool equipment and in the handling of the repair work, but also in the manner in which they should contact with the car owners.

A record is kept of the activities of the Chevrolet service promotion representatives, so that when these men once start working on a dealer's service station they are not given a release on this work until their record indicates that everything has been taken care of and the job has been completed 100 percent.

It is the expectation, from what has already been accomplished, to place every Chevrolet service station in a position to give quick service to its customers, quote reasonable prices before starting the work, and to insure satisfactory repair work to the car owner.

AFFAIRS of the HEART

By Mrs. Thompson

ARLINE: I do not think it a good idea to plan any extensive program to follow the wedding supper. The bride and bridegroom should be released to go their way as early as possible. Any evenly balanced meal will serve as a wedding supper, when there are pretty decorations, favors, and, of course, a wedding cake. Fresh cut flowers can be used to decorate the tables. Clever little favors can be obtained in specialty shops.

FRUFFLED SALLY: It is plain that the first man no longer cares for you. You are not likely to win him back by attempting to force yourself upon him. As for the second, he is a drunkard. That should be objection enough.
