Gold Medal Given To Union Pacific

After months of comparative research into the records of American railroads, the Edward H. Harriman memorial gold medal has been awarded to the Union Pacific for having the best "safety first" record during 1924.

The medal was founded by E. H. Harriman, and is awarded to the "American steam railway making the best record in accident prevention and industrial hygiene affecting the public and its own personnel during the current year."

The award is made by the American Museum of Safety. A bronze replica of the medal was bestowed upon Joseph Kragakow, assistant foreman of the Omaha shops of the Union Pacific, for the best individual record made in contributing to the railroad's safety cause in general.
