TOWNE ALKE

"Just for Fun" By RAS BERRY

I was very much concerned this wk. when I gets one of them little white slips from the lat. Nat'l bank that says your note is doo and what are you gonna do about it. The reason I was worried was because this here slip says the note is doo on Feb. 23.

Well I looks at a calendar that the lat. Nat'l gave out free to good customers at Christmas time and they wasn't no 29th of Feb. on the calendar.

I am always pretty prompt at meeting them obligations with bankers and things and it worries me because by the lat. Nat'l own calendar I can't pay it when it is due until leap yr.

So I goes in to the bank and puts the matter up to them in a straightaway way and asked them what they was gonna do about it and told them I was worried because I wouldn't be able to pay it when it was due because they ain't no day on the calendar for it to be doo on.

But like all bankers J. Post and E. Nelson says it would be o. k. for me to pay it on the 29th of Feb. when that date comes around in leap yr. only in cases like that why the interest is always increased to 15 pct.

I says you bankers has got plenty of interest but no principal.

Them bankers is funny and odd. J. Post buys a pr. of garters in to Sam Levy's last mo. and he charged them and Sam sent him a bill for 50 cents and wrote on the bill that prompt payment was essential and Sam was trying to pay a lot of bills.

Well in the returned mail Sam gets a check from J. Post and it was dated July 1, 1929. And on the bottom was a note that advised the paying teller to watch it close to see that the amt. wasn't raised.

Gene DeBra drove over Compton way during the rain and before he entered Compton they made him take out a steamboat pilot's license.

A guy who reads all the advs. in the paper writes me a letter and says he sees in Times of last Friday that Torrance is the only dry town in So. Calif.

Bank of Italy Groups Merge Two Big Units

Move Creates Huge Financial Institution on Pacific Coast

Permission to consolidate the Bank of Italy and Liberty Bank of America, and operate the merged institutions under the name of the Bank of Italy, has been approved by the Federal Reserve Board at Washington and State Superintendent of Banks Will C. Wood, it was announced this week.

In commenting on the significance of the consolidation James A. Baigialupi, president of the Bank of Italy, said: "This is a partial realization—achieved after years of obstruction and perverse opposition—of the worthy aspiration of the founder of our institution, A. P. Giannini. From the earliest days, when the organization embarked upon its program of statewide branch banking, it has been the purpose of Mr. Giannini to see established in every important community of California the branch office of a strong, resourceful, democratic, progressive bank operated for the benefit of, and owned and controlled by, the rank and file of the people of the state.

"During the period of nearly a quarter of a century since its establishment the Bank of Italy has experienced a steady and consistent growth, until today, with its aggregate deposits of $600,000,000, it ranks as the largest financial institution in the United States outside of New York City, and third among all the banks of the nation. The capital investment of its stockholders through the Bank of Italy and the Stockholders Auxiliary Corporation is in excess of $75,000,000, insuring for every customer the maximum of protection, and for the communities in which its branches are maintained ample and adequate loaning power.

"Nearly 1,000,000 people throughout California are now customers of the Bank of Italy, a clientele greater than that of any other bank in the country. Its branches furnish every important and popular center of the state with complete metropolitan banking service. Ownership of the Bank of Italy and Bancitally Corporation is vested in upward of 85,000 stockholders—residents of California—living in the various cities where the branch offices of the Bank of Italy are to be found. It may truly be said of the Bank of Italy that its growth, like that of the native redwoods, is typically Californian. The 'tap-roots'—the local offices of the institution—extend into practically every community, and participate, in consequence, in the vast variety and diversification of the industries and resources of California. There is no other institution more intimately identified with, or more inherently a part of, the future des-

Endeavor Meeting Sets New Record

The Christian Endeavor district meeting held Friday evening at Central Evangelical Church had a record-breaking attendance. The committee in charge of the dinner had made preparation for 200 guests, and did some tall hustling when about fifty other than those who had made reservations made their appearance. During the business session it developed that Redondo District had made their quota toward the county budget and had $65 over.
