Business Great,
Asserts Palmer,
Tire Merchant

Low Prices of Products Boon to Motorists, Says Distributor

"Business has never been better," declares Fred Palmer, distributor of General tires in this territory. "Usually buying is most brisk in a rising market, but we have it figured out that the present great demand for Generals is because prices are so low. With tires costing the user less than at any time in automobile history, the percentage of actual difference in price between the poorest and the best tires is smaller than ever before. The result seems to be that people who have long promised themselves that 'Some day I'll ride on Generals' are fulfilling that desire now. The factory reports that it is making and selling two and a half times as many units as at this time a year ago. This indicates that the beneficial effect of low prices on General sales is the same everywhere. We expect the biggest year's business we have ever had. And the start we have already made makes that practically certain—for even if tire prices are higher than now later in the year, as is generally predicted, a rising market promotes buying in itself. "Tires are constantly improving, and the market for the second-hand or bargain brand, made to sell at a price instead of for mileage, becomes steadily smaller with the small margin of difference in price between the 'bargain' and the recognized quality tire."

Notes on California Roads Furnished by National Auto Club

The Telegraph Pass section between Yuma and Wellton, Ariz., is now 88 percent complete. When this road is open to traffic it will shorten this route 6.5 miles. The Gillespie Dam bridge is now 66 percent completed. Construction was delayed on this bridge during past recent rains. The Agua Fria River bridge between Gillespie Dam and Phoenix, which was washed out during recent rains, has been repaired. The St. David bridge south of Benson, which was also washed out, has been replaced with a temporary structure.

When the radiator boils, before removing the cap to add water open the drain cock and allow the steam pressure to relieve itself. This method, according to L. G. Evans of the service department of the National Automobile Club, keeps the hot water from ruining the paint of the hood and radiator and also removes the possibility of scalded hands and face.

Among the many old legends of the Indian tribes of the Southwest is one that says "Where trails cross a city will grow. When Coronado and his intrepid followers came north in search of hidden treasure his path crossed the trail of the Indians riding west. When the forty-niners made their famous trip across the plains to the Pacific coast and its promise of gold their trail also crossed that of the freighters and stage drivers who plied between the north and the Mexican border. So, fulfilling the prophecy of the Indians, a city grew at the crossing of the trails, and today Albuquerque, New Mexico, stands as a monument to the enterprise of the early Pueblos, the Franciscan fathers, and hardy pioneers. It is known as the "City of the Crossroads" and to visit it and the surrounding country may be likened to a trip to Egypt and Palestine. Here the motorist may view ruins of prehistoric civilization, the foundations and broken walls of great communal buildings, the cliffs of the Cave Dwellers, Nineteen Indian pueblos, some of them having populations of nearly a thousand, are easily accessible. The nearest are only a few miles away, and the most remote may be reached by a one-day automobile trip from Albuquerque. While all of the Indian towns are well worth a visit, the most interesting are Taos, Acoma, and Zuni. The Taos pueblo, now peopled with approximately six hundred Indians, occupies a huge communal building, is one of the most unique structures imaginable. Five stories high, these buildings have been standing, just as they are today, for centuries. They were first discovered in 1541 by Coronado's expedition. The flat-roofed buildings of sun-baked bricks are not unlike a village in Palestine, while the white-robed sentinels on top of the communal buildings add to their dignity and majesty. Many artists of note have been attracted to this district, for the lofty and majestic mountains, beautiful valleys and plains, and glorious coloring of sunsets offer rare subjects for the brush of the most discriminating.

Acoma has the appearance of an island in the air, for this village is perched upon a rock that rises sheer from the sands to a height of nearly 400 feet. The Franciscan Mission, the "Cathedral of the Desert," built here, is reputed to cover the largest ground area of any church in America. According to the history of the conquistadores of the sixteenth century, three thousand Indians once lived upon the crest of Acoma, but only about 200 Indians now occupy this interesting village. Motorists from Albuquerque to this spot drive over a country of valleys, ravines cut through great table lands and mesas of pinkish sandstone, with thousands of acres near by of lava which in past ages flowed from an adjacent volcano. Albuquerque's location is indeed unique, for it is the hub of the Indian country and one of the centers of Spanish civilization which was begun about eighty years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. Here are found in superlative degree the beautiful, historic, and unusual, Three races meet and blend, the ancient, medieval, and modern.

The following report of road conditions over Walker Pass is supplied by the touring department of the National Automobile Club:

NEW JERSEY PICNIC
All who ever lived in the state are called to meet under the auspices of the New Jersey Association of Southern California for a great picnic reunion all day Saturday, May 14, in Sycamore Grove Park. There will be county registers and headquarters so all can find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program, opening about 2 o'clock, songs, short talks. O. C. Linnard, president, will preside.

From Freeman to the summit of the pass there is a narrow natural gravelled road which is somewhat rough and rocky at the present time due to recent rains. From the summit to Weldon the road is excellent gravel and good natural gravel road to Isabella.

The road between Hemet and Idyllwild is still closed, according to a recent report received from the touring department of the National Automobile Club. It is scheduled for opening within two or three weeks. The route via Banning must be used at this time.

The streams are still quite high in the Little Lake district, according to a recent report received from the touring department of the National Automobile Club, and fishing will not be good much before the middle of May. After the streams clear fishing will be much better here than it has been for several years.

Stomach Trouble

Hundreds Claim Permanent Relief with Pleasant Mexican Raw Food

"Delicious and so effective," report Agmel users. Some said acidity quickly disappears. Others claim they eat things they had not dared indulge in for years. Practically all say stomach, bowels, kidneys quickly regulated. Argemone Mexican Maguey sap, used centuries in Mexico. Long known to American and European physicians who sent wealthy patients to Mexico to drink it. Many books written by scientists on its medicinal uses. Now new process for first time, in uncooked concentrated syrup form known as Agmel. Not a medicine. None-alcoholic. Just a natural raw food, rich in minerals, vitamins, natural yeasts. Free 24-page booklet on Mexico and this extraordinary natural raw food, also treatise on stomach trouble, at stores listed below. Agmel imported only by Agmel Corporation, Los Angeles, Calif.

of one of the largest Columbus, Ohio, shoe factories called on us as we were lining up our Torrance store. In a way of courtesy he asked us if there was anything he could do for us. We told him this: "You may pick out for us when you get back to the factories all the cancelled orders, all goods held up for credit reasons where sizes are complete. We will let you buy as you would buy them for yourself." He sent us over $2300.00 worth of Men's, Women's and Children's Shoes—one of the best lots we have ever had. All firsts, no factory checks, all up-to-date goods, all at less than jobbers' prices. We can save you real money on every pair.
