KLUSMANISM, THE MENACE

dustrial promotion, aviation photographs, the preparation and maintenance of up-to-date mailing lists for the use of anyone in the city; educational promotion (schools) and so on through the long list of worthy funds which in Torrance are paid out of taxes voted by the people.

Mr. Klusman seemed to be particularly aroused over a booklet entitled "Facts." Had he looked at something more than the cover he would have learned what the activities of the Chamber of Commerce were in 1927. "Facts" was in reality an annual report of the Chamber's work, prepared in detail so that the people of Torrance might know of those activities in their every phase.

"It is possible," declared the Klusman sheetlet, "that Kingsley's booklet of 'Facts' has cost $2385.87. If that is the case, then the Chamber of Commerce certainly invested our tax money where it did somebody some good."

That statement is a dastardly inference designed with ignorance or malice to blacken decent characters in Torrance. We resent it with all the resentment that any decent man can muster. The directors of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce are reputable citizens all. They guard the expenditures of that organization with a zeal which is seldom matched in any public or semi-public body. To permit such an inference as that which Klusman makes to go unchallenged would be to remain silent in the face of the nastiest insinuation that ever issued from the lips of this blather-skite. That book of "Facts" cost exactly $95.10.

As to the Chamber of Commerce fund Klusman knows that every single penny expended through that organization must be approved and voted on by the City Council. Expenditures therefore are made by the men whom the people elect. Mr. Klusman knows this but he would encourage the public to believe otherwise.

But even if that were not so we ask you people of Torrance to pass upon the character of the nine men who constitute the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce. They are J. W. Post, J. W. Leech, City Recorder Rippey, Sam Levy, Harry H. Dolley, Dr. George P. Shidler, George Proctor, Rufus Page and W. Harold Kingsley.

That list of names in itself is eloquent testimony that in casting aspersions on the Chamber of Commerce directorate Mr. William T. Klusman lies.

Mr. Klusman says in reference to the leave of absence granted to Carl Hyde that "trusted employes generally draw full pay when they get their vacations," intimating by the back-door and sneaking route that Mr. Hyde is being paid in full during his two months' absence. This is but one more lie in the Klusman nasty nest of lies. It is like the others the worst kind of a lie, for it has not the courage of a direct statement. It leaves the author a sneak's loophole to crawl out of if he is challenged by the truth.

Regarding Klusman's chagrin because some Torrance men have announced themselves as being in favor of the re-election of Supervisor McClellan we wish only to declare that when conditions become such that no resident of Torrance can vote or campaign for any candidate of his choice without first winning the approval of Klusman we would advise everyone to move out and let Mr. Klusman reign supreme and alone.

Now about this combine, this Dracula-like product of Klusman's morbid imagination. He has talked about the combine so much that he almost believes it himself. Strangely that so-called combine exists only in the corridors of a nightmare ridden mind. One would believe to listen to Sir William, the mud-slinger, that dire things impend whenever two men not of the Klusman ilk meet to pass the time of day. If there is a combine in Torrance then just about two thirds of the people in Torrance belong to it, as result after result in election after election have so eloquently revealed.

Our definition of the Torrance combine as it lives in the hate-soaked cerebellum of the Klusman kranium is as follows:

COMBINE—Any group of men who refuse to drag the names of their neighbors in the slime and therefore do not wish to be counted as a bird of a feather with Klusman.

And if that's a combine let's have even more of them in Torrance. And so on and on and on until, as one goes through the creed of Klusmanism, a nauseating feeling seizes one in the pit of the stomach. Like passing on the offensive side of a glue factory.

We don't like this job. It is not pleasant to bark back whenever a canine yelps at you. It is not in keeping either with the dignity of a gentleman or the sense of decorum of any plain, honest citizen to traffic in Billingsgate with a mudslinger. But from this date forward, we hereby serve notice, that whenever this head of hate lifts itself up to spew slime on decent passersby we intend to strike at it with all the power at our command.

COUNCIL NOTES

The Shell Company of California requested the council for an oil line franchise on Vine avenue. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids.

George Crustal asked for a permit to peddle ice cream from a wagon. The clerk was instructed to grant the license at the regular fee—which for retail peddlers is $48 a year.

J. E. Bernay of Long Beach urged the council to rezone his property south of the Union Tool Company's plant near Western avenue so that he might build houses on it. This property is zoned for industry and the P. E. is planning to lay a track leading to it, City Engineer Leonard explained. The council has previously voted down several efforts to secure a rezoning of property in this district.

Bids for Fordson tractors received by the council were rejected and the clerk ordered to re-advertise.

The council voted to renew its share of the lease on the building in which the library here is located. The new lease will be for two years. The rental to the city is $35 a month. The county pays $10.

DEADLOCK REIGNS AGAIN

(Continued from Page 1) Iron installation in the residence district is less than that of the steel post. He showed that both Westinghouse and King foot-casts in the residence district are under the Union Metal costs, the chief difference being in the combination trolley post area on Cabrillo avenue. The King costs are low in the semi-business district. He pointed out that the Westinghouse reduction of some $9,000 was affected largely in the residence district with only about $8000 of it affecting the other districts.

Mr. Spurlin, Dr. G. A. R. Steiner, Sam Rappaport, Hurum E. Reeve pleaded with the council not to allow the deadlock to prevent lights in the city being lighted. Mr. Spurlin said he understood the differences of opinion on the council.

"You have a right to them," he said, "but you have no right to deprive the people of lights. Torrance is losing money every day because the city is not lighted. It is just about true that we must have lights or stop growing."

Sam Levy declared that the type of post being recommended by "self-appointed friends of the people" would cost residence property-owners more than either of the cast iron types. He said business men who will pay more for cast iron posts in the business district are not objecting and said he did not believe owners in the residence area would object against cast iron posts if they knew that steel posts would cost them more.

Mr. Reeve pointed out that the people of Torrance elected the council by majorities ranging from three to four to one. "They have confidence in you," he said, "and expect you to select a post and a lighting installation. The right was—is for you to pass a resolution of intention and if the people don't like it they can protest it out."

W. T. Klusman made a personal attack on Mr. Spurlin.

Many People Attending the Formal Dedication Here

A large number of people attended the opening of the new Torrance office of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company Tuesday.

The switchboard, which is the newest type of the Bell system switchboards, is the first of its kind on the west coast. This proved to be one of the most fascinating features to scores of people.

After being shown throughout the office, and tracing a local call from the time the receiver is taken off the hook until the party answered, the visitors were taken in to the delightful, tastefully furnished operators' recreation room, where they were served punch and wafers.
