School Carnival Nets Fund $250

High Students Stage Riot of Frolic and Fun Friday Night

A riot of fun was the carnival given by high school students last Friday evening.

Receipts were approximately $250 and money cleared on the carnival will be used for school purposes.

The Girls' and Boys' League sponsored a penny dance in the gymnasium.

Among the side show exhibits were the six legged horse, the wild man, and the smallest dog in the world.

A room was decorated and operated by members of the Home Economics classes and popcorn, soda pop, punch, ice cream, confetti, hot dogs, candy, paper hats and household articles were sold at various booths.

The Boys' League had a ball throwing concession, at which one paid to throw balls at dolls named after faculty members.

Everyone at the carnival was supposed to wear a flower, a paper hat, his class numerals and chew gum.

The carnival was a huge success from the standpoint of all who attended.

This attitude was reflected in a dispatch to the Los Angeles Times from the Hermosa correspondent.

The dispatch declared that Howard's clothes could not be located.

The clothes were in John Young's car and are now in possession of Howard's parents.

All Sunday and Monday nights Torrance men led by Ellsworth Bowen patrolled the beach.

Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning Charles Dyer of the Dyer airport, flew over the surf server, but failed to see Howard's body.

Mr. Dyer volunteered to make the observations when informed of the case by Robert Lewellen, printer on the Torrance Herald staff.

Wednesday a detail from the sheriff's office went to Hermosa to organize fishermen in a search.

In addition to those mentioned the following Torrance boys and girls were at the beach when the tragedy occurred: Glenn Tolson, Stanley Creighton, Charles Faulkner and Ethel Ward.

Mr. Kizer chaperoned the girls and Mr. Young the boys.

Mourning the loss of a fine boy, a splendid student, one of the most promising youths in the city, Torrance at the same time was severe in its criticism of the life-guards for their department after the tragedy, but members of the Torrance delegation to Chief Messenger declare they are convinced he is sincere in his determination to carry an investigation to the bitter end.

Rulings of officials mean very little to Alice Roosevelt Longworth, co-chair of Washington society, political advisor of many a successful senator.

Diplomats had ruled that Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis should rate as the second lady of the land at social dinners.

And so ended a social war—at least so Washington thought. Now Mrs. Eugene Meyer is very prominent socially at the capital.

Her functions bring together only the creme-de-la-creme. Mrs. Meyer was giving a dinner, invited Mrs. Gann, also Mrs. Longworth.

Mrs. Longworth discovered that Mrs. Gann was slated to outrate her at the table, politely declined the invitation.

The news set social Washington by the ears. The position of "Empress Alice" is unassailable. Washington society would snub Mrs. Gann before daring even to hint at snubbing Alice.

And so the Gann social war is on again and Will Rogers advises all and sundry not to sell Alice short either socially or politically.

The Torrance men also urged upon the chief the need for conspicuous markings of life-guard stations and regulations that guards stay at such stations at all times.

Chief Messenger declared that he has already determined to secure from the council an appropriation for erection of such stations.

Muriel and Mildred Bell and Miss Kizer believe that Howard might have been saved had Muriel been able to locate a life-guard quickly.

Richard Fullman of Torrance says that John was struggling with Howard for several minutes before both disappeared.

Hermosa lifeguards insisted Monday that Howard had not been drowned but had "disappeared."
