Lay any yardstick you like on quality. It is always less expensive to own the truly fine. In choosing your tires, for instance—the truly fine tire delivers more miles at lower cost per mile—brings less trouble and repair cost—yields more satisfaction per day and per year. And today the cost differential involved in owning the truly fine tire is little indeed. For, thanks to the larger buying power which the popularity of Seiberling has developed for us—we offer you these truly fine tires at prices which are little, if any, more than you have paid in other years for tires of merely average quality. Their first cost is little, if any, more—their final cost is, actually, far less.
