

NATIONAL SUPPLIES SOME WISE—SOME OTHERWISE

Hughie Steadman of the sales department has moved down to Torrance from Gardena. We are mighty glad to have him amongst us.

Miss Ruth Rake of the accounting department has returned from two months spent in Cleveland with her folks. She reports a wonderful time—but of course the weather is cold—and not like our sunny California.

Connie Branit spent the weekend with her folks and son Robert in Santa Barbara.

Yes, Tom Bowker, Connie and Irene still persist in going out to the scales to see about their weight. Wouldn't you like to know why every Monday we wander out that way.

"Buddy" Biffum of sales is back with us again, after a sick spell of "flu," and what have you?

Don't forget the Girls' Club dance on the 25th of October, that's this Friday night. Come on everyone and let's make "whoopie." There will be prizes awarded for best dressed man—also lady, most original and comical. So again, don't forget the dance at Amie's Recreation Hall, Friday, Oct. 25. Hot hot music. Come on, bring your wife, sweetheart or mother and let's all have one good time.

and eating three meals a day. Howard expects to return to his home at Huntington Park in a month or two.

"Hey, punk, come out for basketball tonight." This is what the students now hear in all the high school classrooms. This is the way the boys are told to come out and help their class team.

The first games were held Monday with the Seniors vs. Sophs and Juniors vs. Scrubs.

"Put" (Harry Putnam), a Junior, was so anxious to see the seniors beaten that he had himself appointed as referee for the senior vs. soph game. The soph needed more help than Put could give them, so were defeated by a score of 21-4. Such an immense score is credited mostly to a little boy with a big future, Richard Pullman. The Juniors were favored by fortune and won their game with the scrubs.

Torrance School Notes

By MURIEL BELL Now that the new juniors are upper classmen they wish to impress the student body with their new dignity and to prove that they have ascended another step in school life. To celebrate this state they had a theatre party at the El Capitan theatre last Friday night. Here they enjoyed "She Couldn't Say No." Even the drowsy-heads stayed awake to laugh at the very amusing comedy. This group was chaperoned by Misses Marguerite and Eva Jones and Miss Katherine Miller.

Not to be outdone by the classes, the faculty had their first semi-annual picnic at Wilmington Park on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Klien and Mrs. Boynton were in charge of the menu which turned out to be combination of water salad, hams, meat loaf, ice cream, coffee and cake. "What's a party without cake?"

To punish Mr. Wright for cutting faculty meetings, since he was over-anxious to get home on account of being a newlywed, he was given all the income work to do. Before he finished brewing coffee and building the sandwiches for 55 teachers and their friends, he concluded that it must be worse than cooking for a Boy Scout encampment. Mr. Wright intends to be present at faculty meetings hereafter.

The sympathies of Gordon Ludwig's fellow students go out to him at this time, on account of the death of his father Sunday.

"Chuck" Faulkner is back at school again, and apparently none the worse for having been sick in bed for over a week. To demonstrate that he had fully recovered and was as interested in school affairs as ever, he coached the senior basketball team, so they would be able to give their worthy opponents plenty of competition.

The friends of Howard Marks, a former T. H. S. student, will be glad to learn that his condition has improved since he was last visited by Torrance friends. He is now able to wear his civilian clothes and walk around for a while each day. One of the new privileges he enjoys most is being able to walk to the dining room.

Evening High School

C. F. Meagher will be in charge of the recraft class which will meet again next Thursday, October 29. All interested in this work come and enroll at that time.

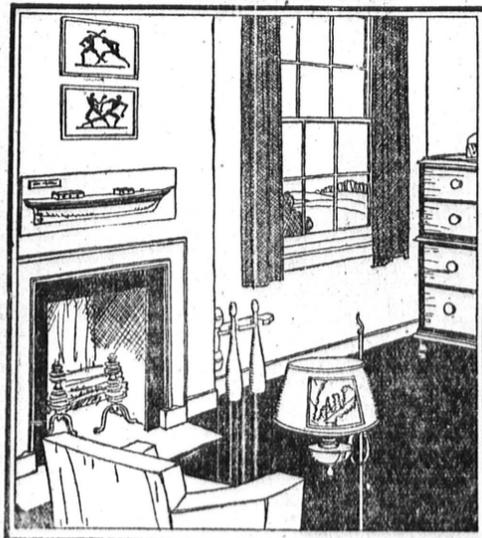

The lighted tennis courts have been reserved for adults during the evening high school session.

Consistent attendance of classes in auto mechanics and machine shop practice has made possible the appointment of two new teachers in these subjects for the Torrance Evening High School. Since each teacher will give his undivided attention to his subject and classes are large enough to survive without interference of day school students, it is quite certain that those wishing instruction will find courses given worth the four hours per week. Machine shop classes meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings and the autoshop classes on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Vermont Ave. Set Back Line Is Adopted

A resolution of intention has been adopted by the Los Angeles city council for set-back lines on both sides of Vermont avenue between Weston street and 25th street.

A COMFORTABLE BOY'S ROOM

HOUSE AND GARDEN

Boys' rooms are often so sadly lacking in personality that one can not fail to wonder why this state of affairs should exist. The feminine touch that the loving mother or even a decorator is inclined to give a boy's room is all too often apparent. Or there is the other extreme—a room furnished in such stark simplicity that it strikes one as barren and empty. Practically and comfort are two of the important features of a boy's room. There should be no cluttering of objects, for this promotes a habit of untidiness that is only too easily developed. This problem can be solved by providing a place for everything, from wearing apparel to sports paraphernalia.

The corner of the boy's room which is shown in the illustration seen above bears witness to the care and thought with which this room was planned. The floor is carpeted all over in a dark blue. There are no glass curtains on the window. This gives free play to the sunshine and permits an unobstructed view of the country beyond. Softly hanging side drapes may be pulled at night. A comfortable reading chair with its companion bridge lamp are placed near the fireplace. A special rack proves a good place for Indian clubs and dumb-bells. The fireplace itself speaks the clever simplicity of this room. There is no mantel which might lead one into the bad habit of leaving things on it, but a molding forms the trim and gives a restrained touch. Boxing gloves in silhouette make effective spots on the wall.

Torrance Party on Deer Hunt in Kaibab Forest

"A deer hunt as was a deer-hunt" was indulged in last week by Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Tolson and Mrs. Fred Kours of Arcadia, who went to the Kaibab Forest in northern Arizona.

The first day these travelers breakfasted in Los Angeles, California, lunched in Las Vegas, Nevada and had dinner in St. George, Utah, having driven some four hundred and fifty miles.

The second day's travel led through beautiful Zion Park with its lovely canyons, big rivers and extensive forests. Mr. Tolson declares this to be the prettiest place in the world. Wednesday the party arrived at Kaibab Forest, a park set aside by President Roosevelt as a game preserve. Here white tailed squirrels gambol in the pine trees and the deer have waxed so plentiful that even the does are not protected this year.

Provided with an excellent horse, a good saddle and gun, "Miss" who is his glory and soon had his limit of white tailed deer, each weighing about two hundred pounds.

The party returned Sunday with four deer. They report a fine trip and a mighty good time.

Mrs. Annie Greiner Presides Over Council First Time Friday

Mrs. Annie M. Greiner, a charter member and one of the most enthusiastic Auxiliary members of the Bert S. Crossland Post, has been elected president of the county council for the ensuing year.

The installation of county council officers will take place at the Chamber of Commerce building in Los Angeles, Friday, November 1. A dinner will precede the installation and will be served promptly at 7 o'clock. It is hoped to have a large delegation from Torrance Legion and Auxiliary in attendance to cheer Mrs. Greiner as she presides in council for the first time. Reservations are $1.50 per plate, Mrs. Cleora Stanger in charge.

Breathing the Lazy Atmosphere of Old Spain

CALIFORNIA bungalows always have about them that appealing charm of being different. They are designed to meet climatic conditions peculiar to the coast, where there is a wealth of sunshine by day and a sharp drop in temperature by night. Seldom is provision made for heating beyond the open fireplace in the living room. There is no furnace, rarely a basement. They are in reality homes for the open outdoor spaces. Instantly this design declares itself as intended for some place where the skies are always clear and blue, the foliage rich in color and luxuriant, nature all smiling and the air redolent with the perfume of shrub and flower and vine abloom. It is a genuine whiff of the atmosphere of Southern California, where three centuries ago the adventurous Spanish padres were laying the foundation for an architecture which is just now coming happily into its own. But once you enter they become altogether modern. The arrangement is American up to the minute, as are the aids to convenience and comfort. The closets and baths and breakfast nooks reflect nothing Spanish. And there is at every hand American ingenuity displayed in the saving of steps. For a small family this design is ideal. It is lacking in no essential feature; in fact, it is in every way complete. The Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, Cleveland, Ohio, can furnish complete drawings for this design. Leaflet on brick construction sent upon request.
