Mediumologist Mystifies M. E. Brotherhood

Demonstrations of Slate Writing, Mental Telepathy, Entertains Large Crowd

ASTONISHING revelations were made by Dr. Joseph Jasin, master mediumologist, at the last Brotherhood dinner held Monday night at the M. E. church. Dr. Jasin held the capacity crowd spellbound while he gave demonstrations of slate writing, mental telepathy readings and other mystifying illusions. The one that completely took the crowd, however, was when a massive oak table, at which ten people were seated with their hands on the table, raised two or three feet into the air and remained for some time, swaying dizzily.

Dr. Jasin stated that he was there to fool them, but not to deceive them. He said that it was pathetic when people took that sort of thing as religion. That was deception, he said. Officer J. B. Edwards of the police department was asked to tie up Dr. Jasin, and he tied his hands and body with a rope. "Don't think you'll better put in a few more knots," said the master mediumologist. Officer Edwards remarked that he'd put in enough, and Dr. Jasin could get out of THAT. Just as Edwards reached down to tie Dr. Jasin's ankles, the latter remarked "It's warm in here," and reached for his handkerchief on the table—and it was an amazed crowd that watched him.

It was indeed a most interesting meeting and was received enthusiastically by all who were present. Mr. G. L. Morris, president of the Brotherhood, announced that Dr. Jasin had endowed the officers of the Brotherhood with his magic power, and one of said officers will attempt to raise the same massive oak table some two or three feet in the air by saying a little hokus in the next meeting.

Music was furnished by a male quartette, in which were R. F. Hogue, John Williams, Ed Nelson and Will Lewis.

A delicious dinner was served by the ladies of Circle No. 3 with Mrs. O. Guy in charge. Table decorations in the Christmas motif, with a bevy of red and green. Mrs. Susan Forbes had charge of the decorations.

Mr. Poole of Lomita, who for 11 years was a member of the legislature in New Zealand, gave a short talk, urging more to join the Brotherhood organization. A great many answered that plea and signed for membership.

Ideals of World Peace Form Study at Riverside

By MARC N. GOODNOW University of Southern California

Editor's Note: The Torrance Rotary Club has been invited to send a delegate to the Institute of International Relations meeting in Riverside, December 8 to 13. Torrance business men will remember Prof. Goodnow for his talk to them on trade promotion. He has spoken also at the Torrance high school.

The spirit of internationalism, heretofore merely a subject for random discussion, is rapidly being reduced to a scientific study in the programs of such organizations as the Institute of International Relations, which meets at Riverside from December 8 to 13 for its fifth annual session. Problems presented by the last war and the peace that followed have had no end of practical solutions. But it has remained for this and similar groups of educators, government officials, military attaches and world-minded citizens to turn the searchlight of impartial investigations upon the various subjects embodied in international relations and to establish a form of "open diplomacy" which may see a long way toward eliminating those secret interchanges which sometimes lead to discord and armed strife.

On the principle that racial and national prejudices, resulting in easily aroused hatred and fear, leading to dangerous situations, are the most part artificially created, and that they can be eradicated by impartial study and proper education, the Institute held its first session in December 1926, with Dr. R. B. von Klein Smid as chancellor. Since that time its program has been directed toward a complete coverage of social, economic, political, racial, and legal problems affecting the relations of this country with other nations.

Many of the foremost students of and authorities on foreign affairs in this country have been brought to Southern California to address delegates to the sessions and to conduct round-table discussions on international law, war, the Kellogg peace pacts, the rise of nationalism in China, resident alien problems of the southwest, our Latin Amer-

New light on BATTERY VALUES The SAFETY POINT

The best value you can get is a fair-priced battery of known quality and correct electrical size. You'll find it in a Willard. There's a safety point in battery buying below which you risk disappointment. You might buy a battery for less than a Willard would cost. But later you'd be bound to pay more than the difference—for towing, repairs, or re-charging.
