Food Budget For Family of Five Is $15, Expert Says

NEW YORK.—(U.P.)—Malnutrition and semi-starvation suffered by entire families in the Metropolitan area because they are unable to feed themselves on $15 a week can be turned into health and full stomachs by careful planning and buying, according to Ruetta Day Blinks, author, home economist, and former professor in Iowa State College.

In her $15 weekly budget she allows each child a quart of milk daily and allows a pint to each adult. She allows meat, but her mandate is that this should cost no more than fruit and vegetables combined, and she insists that it cannot encroach upon the milk allowance.

where this is not practicable, she urges them to go over every item on the bill very carefully. A factor in making the budget workable, she declares, is by personal purchase, sight seen, rather than by order.

WAR VETERANS BORROW OVER 11 MILLION

Ex-Service Men in County Accept State Help in Home Building

By HOMER L. ROBERTS (United Press Staff Correspondent) SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 13.—(UP)—Ex-service men of Los Angeles county have borrowed a total of $11,550,477 from the State of California up to February 1, 1930, for the purchase of farms and homes under the state's Farm and Home Loan Act.

This was disclosed here this week by George M. Stout, secretary of the Veterans' Welfare Board, who said that this figure represents the following:

Total homes purchased in county, 2401; total cost, $11,511,810. Total farms purchased in county, 6; total cost, $38,667.

Stout, who recently announced himself as a candidate for state controller to succeed Ray L. Riley, a candidate for governor, made a plea in behalf of the $20,000,000 bond issue to appear on the ballot at the November general election. This amount is needed to complete the farm and home loan program of the veterans, Stout said.

"To date, thirty million dollars in bonds authorized by the people of California have been sold," he continued. "This has enabled the Veterans' Welfare Board to invest the entire proceeds in 7,216 veterans' farms and homes in 54 counties of the state."

"These properties are inspected at regular intervals by the board, and reports indicate the veterans are keeping their property in good repair. Well-kept lawns, shrubberies and flower gardens are visible proof of the home interest engendered."

Up to this month, 34,500 veterans have filed applications for loans, Stout said. Approximately 24,000 applications have been classified and those eligible approved. If the $20,000,000 bond act is adopted this year it will mean that at least 5,000 more veterans will be benefited.

"The average cost of homes bought through the board is $4,738, and of farms, $5,484," declared Stout. "Veteran beneficiaries, with very few exceptions, meet their obligations promptly. This in turn makes it possible for the board to meet its own obligations punctually."

HERMOSA MAN KEEPS TOWN ON FRONT PAGE

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif.—(UP)—Just as his honor "Bossy" Gillis, obstreperous mayor of Newburyport, Mass., keeps that town on the front page, so is A. R. Holden making history as mayor of Hermosa Beach.

Dubbed by fellow citizens as the "man who elected himself," Holden couped the latest ouster move of his opponents by getting his friends elected as officers of the organization which sought to eject him.

The meeting, held in check by frequent invasions of plain clothes policemen, was called by the Hermosa Beach Taxpayers' League to get Mayor Holden and two of his aides, Councilman John W. Clark and City Engineer Charles Saunders, scratched off its membership list.

Discussion waxed warm. At intervals policemen stepped in to cool the political ardor of the two factions. Among the speakers was the determined Mayor Holden.

At last President W. R. Andrews of the league adjourned the meeting, despairing over hopes for a vote.

But like the benchmen of the irrepressible "Bossy", Holden's aides are not lacking in resourcefulness. Before Andrews left the stand, Councilman James S. MacMillan had leaped toward the chairman's throne. He recalled the meeting and in the election which followed his strategy, three of Mayor Holden's political friends were placed at the head of the league.

There had been other attempts to oust the mayor, but Holden is still on the job.

Fritz Hoyer, German architect, was commissioned to design a building "shaped like a ship" for a Hamburg man, and this was the result. The eight-story structure, which cost $750,000, is occupied by clinics and offices.
