THEY'LL STAY AT HOME
PARIS—(UP)—Being a member of the municipal council of Paris has lost its greatest lure. At one of the body's recent meetings a credit of 30,000 francs to send a delegate to the International Good Roads Convention in Washington was voted down, and a manifesto was issued explaining that hereafter the roving delegates would stay at home.

"Lovin' the Ladies" Is New Sound Picture of Richard Dix

Radio Pictures has given its star, Richard Dix, one of his most thoroughly amusing and characteristic screen roles in months in "Lovin' the Ladies," all-talking comedy romance, which plays Monday and Tuesday at the Fox Redondo Theatre.
 Produced with smartness and played with deftness, "Lovin' the Ladies" is ideal motion picture entertainment. The film moves rapidly, is rich with genuine comedy, and contains a number of unusually shrewd characterizations.
 Dix receives capable support from a supporting cast of able players. Lois Wilson, who was featured in a number of Dix films several years ago, is at her best in the leading role, giving a most appealing heroine.
 Other outstanding sound successes coming during the next week to the Fox Redondo include, "The Texan" in which Emma Dunn plays an admirable mother role as the parent of "Guy" Coplan, "The Texan" is booked for Wednesday and Thursday next week.
 "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu" starring Warner Oland is a sequel to the famous "Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu" which created such a thrilling success at the Fox Redondo some months ago. The man who saw the original Dr. Fu and who was thrilled with its gripping mystery, will save over its sequel which comes to the Fox Redondo for Sunday only.

Wets and Drys In Showdown At Convention

OLYMPIA, Wash., May 22. (UP)—Republican wets and drys were marshaling their forces in Washington today in preparation for an impending "show-down" on the prohibition issue at the Republican convention, to be held in Bellingham on May 24.
 Encouraged by the results of The Literary Digest's dry poll, which showed this state to be definitely in the wet and moist column, Republican wet leaders have served notice that they will force the issue before the convention and demand adoption of a platform favoring modification or repeal of the prohibition laws with government control of liquors.
 This pronouncement was met with a statement by E. M. Higgins, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, that his organization will tackle all wet or moist candidates and "drive them out of politics and out of the state."
 The Anti-Saloon League is better organized than ever before and so powerful that it will control the next Legislature, Higgins said. "The great majority of legislative districts are also controlled by us and we will come up after the next election with the greatest majority we ever had."
 On the other hand, advocates of repeal declare they have met with support beyond their fondest expectations, with prominent political leaders espousing the wet cause in increasing numbers. The state of Washington was one of the pioneer states to prohibit the sale of hard liquor several years before the Volstead law was enacted.
 The action taken by the Republican convention in Bellingham will be doubly significant, as it will be tantamount to either party endorsement or rejection of Sen. Wesley L. Jones, the present Republican dry of this state and author of the famous "Five-and-Ten" law.
 Appeals of some party delegates to avoid discussion of prohibition at the forthcoming convention in the interest of party harmony were greeted with no consideration.
 "It is strange how many persons are suddenly interested in 'party harmony,'" said Ralph Holt, chairman of the powerful King county Republican committee, which includes Seattle. "The issue will be met squarely. There will be no hedging or slipshodness."
 The convention is timely enough to cause some unexpected upheavals among the ranks of candidates for office in the primaries in September and the general election in November. All members of the House of Representatives, more than one-half of the state Senate, all county officials, many municipal officers, three justices of the State Supreme Court and all five United States congressmen are to be elected this fall.
 With the encouragement of a Republican wet platform and continued wet majority for this state in The Literary Digest's poll, wet leaders are confident of inducing prominent men having a large political following to climb on the bandwagon to oppose the incumbent drys. The wet cause has suffered heretofore from lack of suitable political timber to place the campaigns on a straight wet and dry issue.
 The drys sustained a severe blow recently when Guy E. Kelly, of Tacoma, powerful political leader of western Washington, former lobbyist and former Republican national committeeman, announced his intention of supporting the wet cause.
 "The time has come," Kelly declared, "when the Republican party must take the hypocrisy out of politics and assume the leadership for repeal or modification of the state and federal liquor laws. The issue must be met squarely at the convention and I intend to see that it is."

Chamber Votes Fund To Help Boy Scout Work

On request of F. L. Parke, Chamber of Commerce directors appropriated $450 toward the salary of Scout Executive Moore and other administrative expenses in connection with the local Boy Scout work.
 The appropriation was an increase of $50 over last year's contribution, which will enable the local Boy Scout troops to acquire needed equipment and make necessary improvements, Mr. Parke stated.

 The audible screen's greatest pair of sweethearts, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, are again co-starred in "High Society Blues" Fox Movietone musical romance, coming to the Torrance Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.
 "High Society Blues" is adapted from a short story by Dana Barnes, which recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and details the troubles of a wholesale grocer from a small Iowa town, who sells his business to a chain store corporation for several millions and then tries to crash the exclusive social set of Westchester County, New York.
 The young stars are surrounded by a cast of unusual strength, including William Collier, Sr., Joyce Compton, Hedda Hopper, Lonnie Fazenda, Lucretia Littlefield and Brandon Hurst.
 David Butler, who guided Miss Gaynor and Farrell so successfully to new fame in their first musical comedy on the screen, "Sunny Side Up," also directed this delightful comedy romance.
 Both Miss Gaynor and Farrell sing in this production, five tuneful melodies having been provided by Joseph McCarthy and James Hanley.
