PRETTY BRIDGE LUNCHEON GIVEN

Orchid and purple asters furnished the keynote for the color theme at a pretty bridge luncheon when Mrs. Frank Clark entertained

Fashions

Shears and Sheer Combine for the Autumnal Costume

NEW YORK (UP)—The dress-maker armed with her shears slashes into other sheers with a confidence born of the knowledge that sheers are much in the picture in early season formal dress fashions. It would seem that the first hint of a frock's answering to the description of a formal occasion garment is simultaneously the cue for the sheer fabrics to present themselves.

One of the newest phases of the formal afternoon frock for fall is its appearance in heavy sheers like tulle, double chiffon and triple georgette. The most recent manifestation of this type took place in previous summers when the tailored chiffon or georgette was the unquestioned uniform for town wear, frequently in styles that made it suitable for formal occasions.

The event was to celebrate the completion of a building addition to the Locke home, and the guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Locke with a lovely fireplace rug. Bridge furnished the diversion of the evening.

GUEST AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. J. H. Fess was a guest at a luncheon given in Santa Barbara Tuesday by Gladys Fitch Pierce, past-grand-matron of the O. E. S. Mrs. Fess served as deputy grand matron under Mrs. Pierce in 1928 when the latter was grand matron.

HOUSEWARMING SURPRISES COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Locke were surprised at their home on Portola avenue last Friday evening by a group of twenty-five friends from Torrance, Los Angeles, Gardena and Redondo.

The event was to celebrate the completion of a building addition to the Locke home, and the guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Locke with a lovely fireplace rug. Bridge furnished the diversion of the evening.

GUEST AT DINNER-BRIDGE

Mrs. Frank Clark was a guest of Mrs. J. C. Tonkins of Hollywood last Friday evening when the latter entertained with a dinner for the wives of the present and past presidents of the Royal Arch Masons.

The presidents and past presidents of the organization attended a banquet at the Biltmore, and afterwards joined the ladies at the home of Mrs. Tonkins for an evening of bridge.

JOINT PICNIC HELD AT BANNING

More than 200 Torrance and Loma residents attended the joint picnic held at Banning Park Sunday by members of the Masons, Eastern Star, Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and Amaranths.

Basket lunches were combined and placed on one long table. After lunch, games, races, and tugs of war, both for men and women, were enjoyed. Horseshoe pitching and a baseball game also furnished diversions. John Guyan and Joe Boyd, who had charge of the entertainment, presented the awards to the winners.

POT LUCK LUNCH AT MRS. KELTON'S

Women's Club Opens Season

Business Meeting Follows Interesting Program

The first meeting of the new club year was held at the Torrance Women's club Wednesday. The time between the luncheon and the club session was passed in sociability, old friends were greeted and new members welcomed into the club. Mrs. Caroline Collins, president, presided at the club session which opened with a group of vocal duets by Laura Campbell Ballentine, a lyric soprano of Long Beach, and Jean S. Vincent of Huntington Park.

Kathryn E. Burdington accompanied them on the piano.

Dr. Minnie M. S. Proctor spoke on her recent European trip which took four months and in which eight countries were visited. In the brief time allotted to her Dr. Proctor could only touch upon the high points of her trip, speaking briefly on the countries and cities visited.

A short business session followed the program. Announcements were made of the annual costume ball to be held on the night of October 17.

Mrs. Collins announced that the next Presidents' council, a social affair to be held, Mrs. H. H. Dolley spoke of the neatness which was so noticeable around the clubhouse and asked that the club express their appreciation of this to Mr. and Mrs. Martin, the caretakers.

Latest Dark Colors

The latest edition of the sheer crepe daytime fashion aims at creating a style that lies between the town-type cloth dress and the velvet or lame that is classified as of late-afternoon formality. These heavy sheers are made in softened hues that still have something of the tailored tone that women like for daytime wear.

Their appearance in "black-mixed" colors instead of the black that has been almost mandatory, associated with this type of dress is another new element. The character of the colors still keeps the dress in "dark dress" grouping, for the recommended colors are the off-blacks, like darkest green, bordeaux and prune. It is the hint of color, restrained as it is, that gives the frock a slightly formal character, certainly newer than black.

Paris has turned new attention to sheer silks for evening, too, making a distinction between them and the ones for daytime wear, in that the evening sheers are not heavy, giving prominence to chiffon.

This situation comes about through the great emphasis placed on ruffled and tiered skirts for evening wear. Lace fits into this category of light sheers, for tiered fashions, and consequently makes its appearance in fine construction.

ern states, where they spent a month.

They visited with Mr. Deininger's mother and sister at Oxnard, Minn., and with relatives of Mrs. Deininger in Chicago. The Deiningers played numerous miniature golf courses in several states during the trip, and say that they cannot compare in size and beauty to the golf courses found in Southern California. Miss Beth Deininger returned to her home in Ventura Tuesday.

Tree Trimming on Street Explained

On behalf of residents of Plaza del Amo, E. P. Arthur urged the council Monday night to moderate the trimming of trees along that street, stating that the residents were not objecting to the intention of the work but desired "a little less vigorous trimming."

William Gascoigne, street superintendent who is in charge of the work, stated that the trees were not being damaged and that the trees were topped to a height of 20 feet, the same as the eucalyptus trees on El Prado.

HONEY IN FRAT HOUSE

BELOIT, Wis. (UP)—More than 100 pounds of honey were found by carpenters between the walls of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity house at Beloit college here. Bees gained entrance to the house through a refrigerator drain pipe.
