SPORTS

Traditional Grid Game is Ragged, Rough Encounter

Both Narbonne and Tartars Guilty of Poor Showing on Local Field

In a rough, ragged and turbulent game, Narbonne high school Gauchos outplayed their six-year-old rivals, the Torrance Tartars, here last Friday with a score of 42 to 0. From the standpoint of football, the game might as well have been a free-for-all, as neither team was particularly consistent. The game was marred by plenty of unnecessary roughness, and although Den Bernard, Torrance fullback, was put out of the game in the final quarter for this offense and the local team penalized half the distance to the goal line, Narbonne was guilty of similar conduct and assessed two 15-yard penalties for rough playing. As a whole, taking into consideration the antics of both teams on the field, the game was a big disappointment to grid fans, who believed that Torrance had a chance this year to keep the score down and possibly tally against Narbonne.

Poor Sportsmanship

Statistics kept on the game, while not official, prove that the Narbonne Gauchos were superior to the Tartars in every department of the game. This could be accounted for by the Tartars' excess poundage over the local team. It is estimated that the visiting team outweighed the Torrance team about 10 pounds to a man average.

But alibis are not in order. The Narbonne team showed a better brand of football when it was played—and the members used their heads better than the locals. During the final half of the game the excited charges from the Torrance players' bench that Narbonne was guilty of "dirty" playing reached a high point and in the last quarter the conduct of some of the benched Torrance players and their cohorts surrounding them was not of the best sportsmanship caliber.

Agapito Shines for Passes

Narbonne made five touchdowns, of which four were successfully converted for the extra point, and scored a safety for two points in the third quarter when the ball, in Torrance's possession, rolled behind the locals' own goal line on a bad pass from center and was promptly fallen on by a Gaucho. For the Tartars, Willie Agapito, right half, stood out for his passing ability, and Bert Merrill and Lawrence Stevenson, ends, red-deemed themselves by engaging his aerial drives for what was just about the Tartars' only threat. Leroy Thompson, substitute end, in the last quarter also made some good gains with Agapito's passes. Because of his size, Ralph Ruffraffe, captain and fullback for Narbonne, was able to advance the pigskin almost at will through the line or around end. Ruffraffe is the largest player seen on the local field this year. Thomas Dallape, Gaucho left half, was responsible for much of the invaders' yardage.

Statistics Are Given

These statistics, which are considered fairly reliable, show the trend of the game: Narbonne made 15 first downs to Torrance's seven; Narbonne completed six out of 10 passes and Torrance completed seven out of 17; Narbonne gained 36 1/2 yards from scrimmage, or an average of 3.6 yards per play; the Tartars' 6 1/2 yards, an average of .87 yards per play; Narbonne advanced the ball 430 yards on all kicks, an average of 35 yards per boot, while Torrance toed the ball 129 yards, averaging a little more than 14 yards per kick; Narbonne gained 67 yards on passes, a little less than 17 yards a hurl, and Torrance gained 81 yards on passes, or an average of better than 12 yards for each toss.

Torrance lost 31 yards on scrimmage and Narbonne 14. Penalties cost Torrance 41 1/2 yards and Narbonne 95 yards on scrimmage and Narbonne 11. Penalties cost Torrance 11 1/2 yards and Narbonne 95 yards by quarters:

NO GAME IS SCHEDULED THIS WEEK

Just because the Torrance Tartars draw a bye this week in League games, Coach Earl Fields is not letting down on training or practice for the final game of the season, November 14, when the local team plays at Leuzinger.

This afternoon the Tartars are scrimmaging the Long Beach Junior varsity here to keep in trim for the heavier Leuzinger eleven. On Tuesday afternoon the team indulged in a practice scrimmage with Gardena here. As neither of the two rehearsal tilts mean anything to the League standings, no score is kept officially.

According to advance reports from Leuzinger high, the eleven representing that school averages 165 pounds in weight against the 150-pound Torrance team personnel. Fields said today that "we'll be very lucky to get over Leuzinger, but we'll give 'em a fight."

With the wane of the grid season, basketball is stepping into the limelight. And of this sport, Fields has little to say other than he needs more material and needs it badly. There are but nine men out for the Class A team, 12 for the Class B outfit, and Coach Raymond Smith has about 15 boys signed up for his Class C and D teams.

But the scarcity of material is no cause for let-up in the drill that the basket men are going through every afternoon. In fact, Fields had a practice game with Washington high school Wednesday afternoon.

Local Veterans Tell About Armistice Day

thought about us in helping France celebrate—which I did, and the next thought was "When do we go home?"

Harry H. 1912 Arlington avenue, who shouldered arms in the 160th Infantry, 40th division, was at Beverley, France, waiting for orders to move into the big drive at Metz. "The Armistice was the best news I received since leaving the food old U. S. A.," he says.

Charles E. Conner, 1729 Cabrillo avenue, was assigned to Headquarters Detail in the 35th division. "We were at Lerouville, France, standing in a road listening to the noise of the big guns and wondering if there really was such a thing as an Armistice, Santa Claus and everything. Suddenly the firing ceased. The Armistice was a reality and was to me the greatest order ever issued. It came just in time as our outfit was concentrating for a drive on Metz and if that would have taken place we would still be in France."

George B. Worcester, 1517 El Prado, saw active service in Co. D of the 4th Infantry (regulars) was assigned in a base hospital at Limoges, France. When I heard the news the next morning I could hardly believe it.

H. W. Darling, 2561 Sonoma avenue, a member of the 12th Machine Gun, 34th division, says: "We were in Mayit, France, when the big armistice noise started—and without a minute's warning we waited until the fun started and everybody got to feeling good then we had quite a battle with Ole Man Rum and that's all I know until the next day."

Jacob Zimmerman, 1028 Amapola avenue was in the 63rd Infantry (regulars). "It was just my luck to be on K. P. (kitchen police, to you who weren't in the Army now!) at Camp Mead. I thought the news was O. K., but I didn't believe it."

James H. Scott, member of the firm of Sandy and Scotty, served in the 23rd Engineers. Here's his story: "November 10 found our little detachment of Engineers busy making ammunition dumps in France. The previous day some wise guy had talked to a truck driver who had recently come up from the rear and he said that there was going to be an Armistice. That rather cheered us up there in that sea of mud. Gloom seemed to hang in the clouds and the dismal appearance of a war-torn country did not help much. That evening we gathered around our little stove to talk over this latest rumor and had entirely discredited it when someone stuck his head in our dugout door and yelled, 'Douse your fire, here comes Heine!'

The irregular purr of the enemy planes was punctuated by the loud explosion of an aerial bomb which fairly shook our dugout. Each of the four successive bombs hit nearer us. As the sound of his plane grew fainter in the distance we rebuilt our fire. "We're going to have an Armistice—I don't think," was the reply before we retired. November 11 found us working as usual. We noticed a very heavy bombardment which stopped about noon, but supposed it was just a lull before another storm. As we finished our evening meal and it grew dusk, we were much surprised to see an automobile traveling with lights and then another very strange incident took place in a nearby dugout. Two war-wise French soldiers appeared, canteen of wine in hand, tossed their helmets high in the air, yelled, 'Fin la guerre!' and hugged and kissed one another. And then we were convinced that the war was over."

'Bargains' Aren't Always Savings

Here's a Flagrant Case of One That Isn't

Here is a bona fide saving of at least $50 to housewives who have been attracted by an offer of an itinerant salesman from an outside firm on a three-piece aluminum set.

This salesman's plan, as revealed to a number of women in Torrance this week, consists of giving a dinner cooked in the kitchen utensils he is selling and then offering as a "club inducement" the sale of the ware at approximately $56. It has been pointed out to the Herald that ANY LOCAL hardware store here will sell the same articles made by a nationally known manufacturer of cast-aluminum ware at a saving of at least $20 less than the price asked by the salesman.

American Legion Week is Ordered

ing year, the week of November 10 to 16 has been set aside when every effort will be made by the Legion and the auxiliary to have paid up for 1931 the dues of all who are 1930 members.

"The citizens of Torrance are justly appreciative of this peace time service of the Legion and they are willing to contribute their efforts to the success of the Legion program. It is appropriate and fitting that the people of this city should pledge full cooperation to the Legion and Legion auxiliary in its membership program."

"NOW, THEREFORE, I, John Dennis, mayor of the city of Torrance, proclaim the week beginning November 10 and ending November 16, as American Legion week and urge every citizen to encourage and aid the Legion in enrolling members for the coming year. Every World War veteran, particularly he who has not heretofore belonged to the Legion, should take this opportunity of becoming associated in the great work."

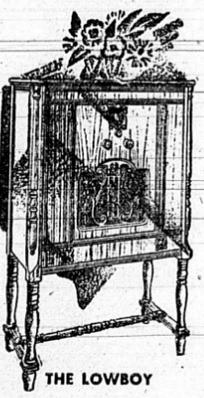

"IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Torrance to be affixed. DONE in the city of Torrance this 6th day of November, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty."

(Signed) JOHN DENNIS, Mayor of Torrance.
