

Want to Change Name of 220th

A petition has been received by the Los Angeles city council requesting that the name of 220th street be changed to Amelia street, according to a report received here this week from Councilman A. E. Henning. The matter was referred to the engineer and City Planning committee.

Henning also reports that the ordinance of intention to open and widen Broadway between 93rd street and the south city boundary, southerly of 120th street, has been adopted and that the date for the hearing of protests is set for December 30. The council has also confirmed assessments for the improvement of 256th street between Belle Porte avenue and Western City boundary.

FOREIGN WAR VETS APPEAL OPENS DEC. 4

Throughout the state of California, citizens' committees and groups of volunteer women and girls will conduct the sale of forget-me-nots on December 4, 5, 6 and 7, in cooperation with the national Forget-Me-Not appeal of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war.

The little artificial flowers, made in hospitals and institutions by men who were wounded, injured or disabled in the World war, will be offered to the general public; to assist the hospitalization, employment, relief and welfare of wounded and disabled World war veterans. The California observance of the Forget-Me-Not appeal will be directed by the mayors and civic leaders of hundreds of cities and towns in the state; and the volunteer women and girl workers who are to sell the flowers will be organized in teams from societies, clubs, schools and districts.

President Herbert Hoover, former President Calvin Coolidge, Director-General Frank T. Hines of the U. S. Veterans' bureau and other distinguished national and governmental officials, have heartily endorsed the coming forget-me-not sale of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war. This is the only organization composed exclusively of wounded and disabled veterans officially recognized by U. S. Congress.

Citizens Express Opinions on Park

(Continued from Page 1-A) The First National bank, believes it would be good economics to create a park at the present time. "It's a sure chance that we'll never be able to get land any cheaper than we can now," he said. "And we'll be in a position to pick-and-choose from sites now available. I am for the park and for employment of local men and materials."

To Modernize City
"One of the most meritorious projects ever to have been conceived in Torrance," is the way Carl Hyde, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, characterizes Mayor Dennis' park bond issue proposal. "We have needed a park for a long time," Hyde continues, "and we have claimed that we had a 'modern industrial city' when in fact we weren't as modern in respect to recreation centers as a number of other cities all around us."

"Our workers, our business men, our housewives and children need a place to go and enjoy good, wholesome fun out-of-doors—and here's our chance to complete our plans for a 'modern industrial city.' The Chamber of Commerce is ardently behind Mayor Dennis' plan and will lend every assistance to its early construction and completion."

Three men, talking in G. L. Morris' real estate office, were enthusiastic in their approval of the park idea. Ed Tansey, well-known barber and baseball manager; R. E. Burdick, of 1005 Sartori avenue, and Morris declared that a bond issue for a complete park should receive a greater majority than the water bonds did last September.

Art Finster, druggist, is also delighted over the city's opportunity to get a park and put men to work at the same time. "We can relieve the pressure of unemployment a great deal here by starting a Torrance park with Torrance men. A bond issue ought to carry the city by storm," he said.

James Leech, manager of the Bank of America here, also favors the park proposition. "I have always maintained that Torrance needs a good-sized park and now it appears that we are on the verge of getting one. We should make it a local project entirely—financed and built entirely by Torrance residents and Torrance should not have a park right away. "The city should be able to get the proposed park site, wherever it is finally decided to be located, at a reasonable price at the present time," he said. "I believe in public work of this character and know that such a project will help Torrance men, who are now out of work, a great deal. I hope it is successfully carried out."
