LOMITA.—A girls' playday, to which parents and friends will be invited, is scheduled for Lomita school for November 21. The affair will start on the grounds at 9:30 a. m. and there will be relay races, folk dances, and demonstrations of self-testing events. Mr. Tretthaway, department of physical education, will be in charge of events.

Two Lomita boys will never have to attend school on their birthdays choosing to make their appearance in this world on Armistice Day. They are the infant sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lifedman and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Van Derbeken.

In an account of the V. F. W. and Auxiliary installations, the name of Mrs. Ada Anderson was omitted. Mrs. Anderson, new musician for the Auxiliary, furnished music for both installations and added much to the success of the occasion.

In some towns they say, "Let George do it," but in Lomita they say, "Let Hugo do it." His latest act of kindness is giving the newly organized Scout Mothers a room over the post office in which to meet.

Invitations of clever, original rhymes summoned the members of the executive board of the Lomita P. T. A. to the home of Mrs. E. M. Mosher Thursday afternoon. There, after the regular business meeting, a social hour was enjoyed, the hostess having arranged for horoscopes for her guests and all were duly warned of future greatness or disasters.

Lettuce Packing Plant Operating On Large Scale

were four men. All veterans in the packing game—swift, sure and strong. They placed the lettuce—the first layer—in a crate lined with strong, waxed paper. A second layer of waxed paper is distributed over this bottom layer. Then another tier of choice lettuce—more ice—a third layer and a top coating of clean, chopped ice. The waxed paper was brought up over the rigid covering and upon loaded crates rolling on a conveyor to the "topper."

"A packer, if he's a good one—and the boys here are good ones—will average about 400 crates a day," Turner said. "They are crating two different sizes of lettuce—No. 1 lettuce—of which is constantly being inspected after packing by official state inspectors."

Down the conveyor roll the uncovered crates of packed lettuce. At a machine which forces the top slatted end of the conveyor into the crate is the "cowboy" of the plant.

"Cowboy" Rides Nailer
"He's our cowboy," grinned Turner. "You see he rides the nailing machine and has to ride pretty hard to get the top on."

The "cowboy" is accomplished by the nailer bearing down on a foot pedal that forces the top to meet the two ends of the crate so that it can be nailed down. The nailer is a veteran. He can keep up with six packers so that their portion of the conveyor is never blocked by loaded crates.

From the nailer, the packed and topped crates are sent on—also via a conveyor—to the refrigerator car on the spur track.

Speed is Vital
From 25 to 35 crates constitute a carload of lettuce. The crates are carefully stacked in the car to leave a four or five-inch air space between tiers. Then they are nailed together and to the car; one layer to one side of the car, the second to the opposite side. This prevents shifting while the car is en route, Turner explained. On top of the crates, ample room is left for more ice; 25 large blocks being cut up and evenly distributed over the whole shipment.

Ice in the crates, ice on top of the crates and ice in the regular cooling compartments of the car itself, the lettuce reaches its point of destination, wherever it may be, in perfect, fresh condition; thus insuring a high price on the market.

Everyone in the plant works at top speed because speed is the essence of the packing industry. The produce must reach eastern consumers as soon as possible after picking.

Growing This Way
At a cost of more than $1250, the produce company has installed a combination ice pulverizer and conveyor so that the large blocks can be chopped to a uniform size and transported without further attention to the bins where it piled in easy reach for the packers. This distributor is the "latest thing on the market," according to Turner.

Present plants of the California Produce Company are just to pack lettuce, although next year, celery and cauliflower may be given the same modern iced pack here.

"We are looking forward to a larger lettuce pack next year because producers in the San Fernando Valley are looking toward this territory now as a possible location. They can't get the district for growing lettuce. I'm a new man here but I like Torrance fine and believe that we will induce more growers to place their produce with us for packing," Foreman Turner said.

"We will be to show any Torrance resident around our plant here," he declared. "If anyone has not seen a lettuce packing plant in operation, I believe they will find our methods interesting. You may invite your readers to come and see us at work any time."

Friends of T. L. Garrison, father of Mrs. R. G. Tompkins, will be glad to hear that he is recovering from a recent illness.

Hills Proud of Hero Son-in-Law

LOMITA.—The awarding of a Carnegie hero medal to Captain John G. Tufts, 321 Sapphire street, Redondo Beach, is of especial interest to friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hills of Elgin street, for Mr. Tufts is their son-in-law. In May, 1930, Tufts, in a heavy sea and with a high wind blowing, saved the life of Marin A. Marcellin who had fallen from another boat out at sea. Tufts, without removing any of his clothing, leaped into the water and with difficulty, kept the man afloat until a boat could reach them.

Geo. Key Named Head of Lomita Relief Workers

LOMITA.—The Lomita Community Relief met Thursday evening in the courtroom and elected officers. The proposal was made that in addition to the officers first considered necessary, it was advisable to have a second vice-president and a financial secretary. The report of the nominating committee, Mrs. L. A. Stump, Mrs. Charles Taber, and Mrs. Wheeler Newman was then adopted and the following officers declared elected to serve until next September: George Key, president; Mrs. Bertha Wilcox, first vice president; Mrs. O. W. Thistle, second vice president; Norman Herr, financial secretary; Mrs. Edna Clark, secretary; Mrs. John Mulken, auditor; Mrs. W. R. Paige, treasurer.

Mr. Key spoke briefly, stating that it would be his policy to favor no one organization in rendering aid. He appointed Mrs. L. A. Stump as chairman of committee to ascertain the names of all children in the community who should receive toys from the toy hospital. Following the meeting a session of the executive board was held.

Preston several months ago and it has grown until now it is issuing its own magazine, published monthly by Albert A. Henning of Harbor City. It costs nothing to become a member. The motto of the club is, "Take time, save a life."

TWO PLEAD GUILTY

Western Avenue Opening Revived; Project Studied

Long-Dormant Improvement Brought Up Again; City Consent Required

Notice was given the city council Tuesday night that the county has revived the opening and extension of Western Avenue from El Prado to San Pedro, a project that has been dormant several years. The proposed assessment map accompanied a letter from County Supervisor J. R. Rockhold which told the council that the proposed Western opening was again under consideration.

Because the north boundary of the assessment district for just the opening and widening of the major county "arteries"—no improvements are contemplated at the present time—is designated as Carson street in Torrance, considerable local property is included in the cost map.

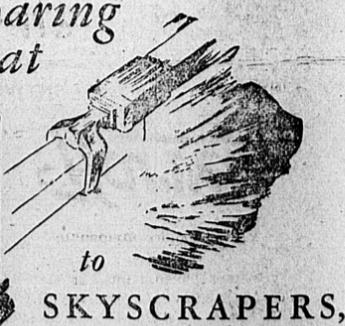

The council instructed City Engineer Leonard to get all the information and data he can on the project for review before it will commit itself to any "granting of consent to the county" for the work.

Leonard told the council that the opening and widening proceedings will take about two years for accomplishment. After that is done, then the improvement (to consist probably of cement concrete pavement 30 feet wide) will be considered as a follow-up project. The council indicated that the matter of opening and widening—as well as granting of consent for the work—will be given a thorough study before any decision is reached regarding Torrance's attitude on the proposal.

7 of the 12 largest STEEL COMPANIES operating in California are depositors in Bank of America to SKYSCRAPERS, BRIDGES, SHIPS

Mighty "rolls" await the glowing ingot. From their brute embrace will come steel—for skyscraper or bridge, ship or automobile, pipe-line or machine. . . . The average yearly production of California's steel and allied manufacturers is valued at six hundred million dollars.

They employ one-fifth of the wage-earners in all California manufacturing establishments!

Steel companies operating branch plants or cooperating in construction projects, use the service of convenient Bank of America branches for pay-rolls and local purchases.

For national concerns, the Bank transfers funds to eastern cities over its transcontinental network of private wires. Interbranch remittances are speeded by daily use of air mail.

Bank of America's unique facilities thus permit better control of working capital, with increased interest earnings.

In many ways, this Bank has helped to create new markets for the California steel industry.

The same modern statewide service, made secure by the ample resources of Bank of America, is available to you at a nearby branch.
