CHAIRMAN OF FREEHOLDERS ISSUES DEFI TO KLUSMAN

Rippy Throws Down the Gauntlet to Charter Opponent to Meet Him in Joint Debate On Civic Proposition

Judge Charles T. Rippy, chairman of the board of freeholders, has flung down the gauntlet to the opponents of the proposed city charter.

Judge Rippy's defi is expressed in a personal letter addressed to William T. Klusman, who has publicly declared himself to be opposed to the adoption of the charter. A copy of his letter, which was mailed to Mr. Klusman on March 15, is printed in this issue of the Torrance Herald.

In issuing his challenge to Klusman, Mr. Rippy makes two propositions. First, that he will meet in public

Rippy Issues Challenge

March 15, 1932.

Mr. W. T. Klusman,
Torrance, California.
Dear Sir:

Referring to your public declaration, that you are opposed to the proposed Torrance Charter:

Undersigned hereby challenges you, or you and any other resident of Torrance, to be opposed by myself, or by myself and any other resident of Torrance, to a joint debate upon the proposed Torrance Charter, to be held at any time or place in Torrance agreed upon, you or your speaker to determine whether you wish to speak first or otherwise.

Unless this challenge is accepted within five days from date, I will conclude that you do not wish to accept the challenge.

Yours truly,
CHAS. T. RIPPY.

debate (Mr. Klusman, or any other resident of Torrance who is opposed to the adoption of the charter; or, second, he and one other resident who favors the adoption, will meet Mr. Klusman and one other resident opposing the adoption. In other words, Mr. Rippy offers to take on Mr. Klusman or any representative whom Klusman may approve, singly, or the debate may be made a foursome, each principal to choose his own assistant.

Time and place are to be agreed upon, but it will be left to Mr. Klusman, or to Mr. Klusman and his aide, to choose whether he wishes to open the debate.

March 20 is the final date on which the challenge may be accepted. If no reply is forthcoming before that time Mr. Rippy says he will assume that the proposal has not been found acceptable.

THE SCHOOL TEACHERS AND THE CHARTER

By HERBERT S. WOOD

The school teachers of the Torrance schools have been accused in the newspaper and elsewhere of having a narrow-minded attitude toward the charter and of considering only their own positions without regard to the important matter of city government and general welfare of the community. This statement is obviously untrue, since the teaching profession is, by the very nature of its work, one of service to the public and the community. No group of people in any community is more public-minded or better versed in civic affairs than the school people.

The teachers of Torrance are opposed to the charter for a number of reasons, some personal, some strictly professional. The general attitude of school people before the charter, as expressed by Mr. Archie Clifton, county superintendent of schools, when he recently appeared before a group of Torrance people and spoke on the charter. His basis for approval or disapproval of changes in school districts was educational and not economic. In other words, would the schools benefit by the change or not. He felt that no benefit could be secured by a separation from the Los Angeles system which was not already being enjoyed.

The present arrangement by which Torrance schools are a part of the Los Angeles system gives the community educational advantages second to none anywhere, with some features not possible at even much greater cost in a small district. There is now available the services of 22 special departments employing trained experts which add tremendously to the educational efficiency of the system. A few of these departments whose advice and services are now being enjoyed by Torrance schools are psychology, curriculum study, health and physical education, speech correction, research, visual education, vocational education and other supervisory and assisting services. Some of the services thus available would be impossible of duplication in a small system, thus reducing the quality of educational advantages to the students. The superintendent, his assistants, and the board of education are all men and women of high standards, exceptional in their training and experience, altogether a superior group. The management of a school district is an extremely complicated and difficult task, requiring board members and technical officers with experience and vision.

There are plenty of capable, experienced men available for the office of superintendent of schools, but there are few if any men or women in Torrance available for members of the board of education who have had experience in handling the affairs of a school system. There are good teachers available to any district, large or small, especially just now, but in normal times, the Los Angeles city system has access to the choice teachers from all over the United States and it is conceded that a far better trained and more experienced list of candidates is available under the present arrangement than under a separate system. This would still be true even if a higher salary schedule were put in effect in Torrance. School teachers from everywhere flock to Los Angeles, but only the best are able to pass the examination and secure positions.

The history of small districts in this and other states has been one of combination of districts rather than separation. It is one also of all too frequent friction between the board and teachers. Boards of education are not usually content to leave the educational phases of the school system to the superintendent and teachers, but too often attempt to step into technical situations in which the members are not competent to act. The results

Mediumologist Exposes Tricks of Charlatans

Renowned Psychologist and Entertainer Gives Unique Show at Kiwanis Meet

More than 60 guests and members of the Kiwanis Club were mystified, entertained and enlightened, at the dinner meeting held at Earl's Cafe Monday evening, when Professor Jasin, renowned psychologist and mediumologist, put on an hour's program. "Spirit" writing, table levitation, thought reading and similar examples of so-called supernatural forces were part of the entertainment, intermingled with sound advice to the audience not to be misled by the pretenses of money-making charlatans who claim to possess these powers and by tricky seers to use them for their own profit or sinister purposes.

Questions asked by members of the audience were answered, and many other examples of mediumistic technique were offered.

When it came to the table-tipping episode, everyone present was completely mystified to see a 200-pound table, around which 16 persons were seated, each with hands pressing down on the top to keep it firmly on the floor, apparently obey the command of the professor and rise up, move forward and back, and finally sink down again on its four legs.

Henry F. Ulbricht, leader of the Kiwanis, and Earl Conner claim to be "in the know" regarding this light-minded action on the part of the table, but their explanations are scoffed at by the other 58 persons present who declare the table seemed to lose all connection with the principle of mediumistic float in the air, as if it had neither weight nor connection with the ground.

N.B.P.W. Enjoys Fine Program

Charles J. Colden, former city councilman and port commissioner of San Pedro, entertained the members of the National Business and Professional Women of Torrance at their dinner meeting at Earl's Cafe Tuesday evening, with a descriptive account of his observations on a recent trip around the world. Mr. Colden took for his theme, "Women and Children of the World," and called attention to some of the startling contrasts existing in the conditions under which women live in the various countries.

Mr. Colden's trip took him through the Orient, the Pacific Islands, Europe, England and other foreign lands, and his observations of life and customs were deeply interesting, strange, pathetic and humorous as he discussed the incidents of travel which had impressed themselves upon his mind. Other entertainment greatly appreciated by the club members included two readings by Eileen Maskey, a talented little dramatic star, and solos by Talmadge Ulrich, boy pianist, who played three numbers, one of them, his own composition, called "Depression Blues."

The new proprietor has been a resident of Torrance for several years, and until two years ago was employed at the National Supply Company, Union Tool division. ## Boys' Band to Play On Sunday For Men's Class

Attendance at Local Bible Study Group Is Increasing, Says Morris

Attendance at the meetings of the Torrance Men's Bible Class, which assembles every Sunday morning at the Torrance Theatre auditorium, is steadily increasing. Morris, who is one of the leaders of this community organization, said: "Whether this is due to Torrance men's desire to outdo Los Angeles, with whose Bible class we are carrying on a membership contest, or the prospect of a free ticket to the big barbecue that will be held on April 8, is not quite clear, but at any rate there are a number of new faces at the Saturday morning meeting, and a number of former attendants are coming back," he continued.

A big feature of next Sunday morning's meeting will be the program given by the Harbor District Boys' Band, of 75 pieces, under the leadership of C. H. Cleaveland. This band is rated as one of the best of its kind in Southern California, and all members of the Bible class are looking forward to a very high class entertainment in connection with their regular program.

All men in Torrance, whether they have church affiliations or not, are eligible to membership in the Bible class. Meetings are held at 9:30 a. m. Sunday morning at the Torrance theatre, and just now when the battle with Los Angeles is at its height, Torrance leaders of the organization would like to see every man in the community turn out to the next meeting. Every man who registers will be entitled to free tickets for himself and family to the big barbecue to be given by the class on April 8 when a good time and lots of cats are promised. No tickets to this affair will be sold. The only way they can be obtained is by attendance at the Bible class on Sunday morning.

COUNCIL RACE GROWS HOTTER IN TORRANCE

Spurlin and Wilkes Make 11 Possible Candidates; Klusman Files

Two new aspirants for seats on the city council were reported this week, bringing the total to 11 possible candidates to fill the four vacancies to be voted upon at the April 11 election.

DeKalb Spurlin, president of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce and owner of extensive rental property in this city, informed the Herald this week that his petition had been circulated and was ready to file. Spurlin declined to state definitely when he would file his petition or whether he would run for one of the four-year terms or for the unexpired term of Ex-councilman Nelson.

Wilkes in Race
A petition is also being circulated for Thomas J. Wilkes, an employee of the Pacific Electric Shops, according to reliable reports. Others in the councilmaking race include: Mayor Dennis, Councilman R. R. Smith, Councilman Carleton B. Bell, Earl Conner, Scott Ludlow, R. T. Ruefols, M. F. Cameron, W. T. Klusman and J. M. Wright. To date, Klusman is the only candidate to file a petition with the city clerk.

Klusman filed his petition for a four-year term this week, according to City Clerk Bartlett. Three councilmen for four-year terms and one councilman for the unexpired term of E. C. Nelson, resigned, are to be elected, according to Bartlett. Information given out late last week at the City Hall that there were two long and two short term vacancies was in error, according to the City Clerk.

So far the only "tickets" in the field of 11 possible candidates is the one chosen by Klusman sympathizers Tuesday night when they are reported to have met in a residence. According to reports, the four candidates to be Klusman, himself, J. M. Wright, Thomas Wilkes and Scott Ludlow, although Ludlow, it is stated, was not consulted prior to the endorsement.

Attempts at grouping the remaining seven candidates are being made by their supporters and it is possible that all of them, according to those active in local political circles. However, it is certain that there will be ample competition to assure an interesting race.

Next Tuesday, March 22, at noon, is the final hour for filing petitions. After Tuesday, the ballot lines will be definitely drawn, and one of the most interesting races in local political history will begin in earnest.

COUNCIL ASKS WATER RATES BE REDUCED FIFTY PERCENT

Complaint to Railroad Commission States Water Company Income Nearly Tripled Since Rates Were Set 10 Years Ago

A fifty per cent reduction in Torrance water rates will be asked of the State Railroad Commission in the formal complaint of the City of Torrance against the reasonableness of the present rates charged by the Torrance Water, Light and Power Company, according to City Attorney Donald Findley. The city council at its meeting last week instructed Findley to file the complaint demanding a reduction in rates. The data to be included in the complaint has been prepared and the formal application for a hearing will be filed with the Railroad Commission within a week, Findley told the Herald yesterday.

Present water rates were established by the Railroad Commission in March, 1922, when the water company had only 440 domestic consumers, 30 irrigation customers and 11 industrial consumers. At that time, the annual income of the water company was approximately $32,273.

At the present time, the local water company has approximately 1500 consumers and since 1925 its operating revenue has been in excess of $65,000 annually and in some years it has enjoyed as high as $95,000 annual income, Findley stated.

When the present rates were established in 1922, the Railroad Commission allowed 8 per cent profit on an original cost of $145,900. The historical cost of the plant at present does not exceed $150,000, the complaint claims.
