Three Major Propositions On Nov. Ballot

Repeal of Wright Act Among Important Measures to Face State Voters

SACRAMENTO.—(U.P.)—Bonds and betting—these will be the major initiative propositions on the ballot at California's general election November 8. Petitions are already being circulated to qualify measures calling for repeal of the Wright act, which is this state's prohibition enforcement law; a new $25,000,000 bond issue to complete the farm and home loan program for California ex-service men, and legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse races.

EDISON OFFICIAL DIES

JOHN B. MILLER

John B. Miller, 62, chairman of the board of the Southern California Edison Company and a director of many other corporations, died Wednesday, April 19, of blood poisoning after a short illness.

Keeping Up With Torrance High

Students at the high school enjoyed the annual Varsity Club revue Wednesday. The program was in the form of a musical revue featuring the high school orchestra. Bill Lanz acted as master of ceremonies. There were featured numbers by Thelma Lockhart on the saxophone, a piano solo by Paul Moschbacher, the "Midget Orchestra" featuring Talmadge Aldrich, Herma Hadler and George Isobel, and a vocal selection by Herman Friends. The orchestra was under the direction of Mrs. Esche played "Donna Bina," a light opera selection. George Figueroa, president of the Varsity Club, gave a short speech telling of the plans of the organization, and he also extended a special invitation to all the students to come to the Varsity dance. Coach Florida, sponsor of the club, also spoke a few words.

The colored pages of the annual went on the press Thursday. At present, 27 pages of the year book have been printed.

The World Friendship Club gave its annual banquet Thursday evening in the cafeteria. The decorations were carried out in the American Indian motif. The favors were small birch bark canoes while the programs were small wigwags. An Indian song was sung by Virginia Turner and Bernice Baker; Betty Danford, Ula Paisley and Esther Perry also sang an Indian selection. Marguerite Lincoln played a violin solo. Miss Eva Jones, one of the sponsors, introduced "Walking Eagle," an American Indian, who proved himself an interesting speaker. Walking Eagle introduced White Flower, an Indian girl, who played two beautiful Indian selections. Arthur Yamamoto acted as toastmaster.

Each student in the journalism class has been assigned a beat. This method should prove an efficient means of covering all the school news.

A new art club has been organized at the high school under the direction of Miss Chase. It is to be known as the Sketch Club.

A class in home making for senior girls has proved one of the most interesting in school. Each girl is assigned two subjects, such as linen and upholstery; then she gives an illustrated talk.

lead it. We are standing in our own light.

Mass Meeting

"I have a plan to make it a Chamber of Commerce of the people. The ten-cent tax belongs to all the people. It doesn't belong to the directors or the council but to the people. We can have a mass meeting and show the people the proposition and is theirs. We can have a mass meeting at the school house, get the confidence of the people as they will trade in Torrance. Thousands of dollars go out of Torrance. We have many empty stores. Merchants must enter to the people. The public believes in Klusman and the Citizens' League. This league has no president, no treasurer, yet 1250 voters believe in the Citizens' League. It is non-political and for both the businessmen and the working people. It works every day, month to month. It will be just as quick to move us out of office as it was to move us in. I was one of the organizers. I agree with the league. We have got to furnish relief for the unemployed. Wives and children have got to eat. The Relief can't do it all. People must not go hungry.

"I think the directors of the chamber should not resign, but should stay on the job until I can talk it over with my fellow citizens. We should give credit to the Chamber of Commerce for the work it has done. We have got to have a Chamber of Commerce. If not, we become a lay town. I hope no one will think I have been too forward. The people are scared and we should not do anything rash."

Ludlow Talks

Councilman-elect Scott Ludlow spoke briefly. He explained that he did not come to talk, but admitted that he did not understand the ballots on the promotion tax and that after he voted, he discovered that he had voted wrong. Ludlow stated it was confidence that was needed and stated that the best minds of the community should be called to service.

Conner Speaks

Councilman-elect Earl Conner stated that he could see no reason why any group should draw back and think of resigning. Surely they owe as much to the community as any other officers, Conner stated.

"We have got to get together and push together. We should at least get one road into the community. Let's all bury the past and all get started off on the right road," concluded Conner.

Stelner

Councilman Stelner stated that he had acted in the past along the lines he believed to be correct. "I may have made mistakes, but I will guarantee to study the future plans carefully. If I favor any action, I will approve it; and if not, I will vote against it," said Stelner.

Water Rate

Klusman concluded the meeting.

with the statement, "It won't be long until we have a minimum $1 water rate. Our high water rates is one thing that hurts Torrance. I want you to work with me tooth and nail to eradicate it." Following the Klusman meeting, directors of the chamber met and agreed to remain in office until the new council could perfect its plan. Its resolution follows:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS members of the newly elected city council have evinced their faith in, and need of the Chamber of Commerce, and

WHEREAS Mr. William T. Klusman has intimated that a plan is in mind whereby a program for enlarging the confidence of the general public in this policy may be worked out, now, therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce that we wish to express ourselves as being in hearty accord to pursue those aims and principles which will contribute to constructive progress for the city of Torrance, and to cooperate with the City Council in every matter, to this end. Our only desire is to serve the community with this ideal in mind, and we
