Many Legal Questions to Be Decided Before Beer Is Sold

By HOMER L. ROBERTS

(United Press Staff Correspondent) SACRAMENTO, (U.P.)—A lot of legal questions must be decided before beer can be sold in California.

Probably the most important is the matter of local option. When the people repealed the Wright Act by a vote of about 3 to 1, it wasn't known what effect, if any such action would have on the old local option law, known as the Wiley Act.

This measure, which has never been repealed, gives to each city and county of the state the right to determine whether or not liquor shall be sold.

As a result, many cities and counties prohibited the sale of liquor within their boundaries. When prohibition came, and the Wiley act was adopted, the Wiley act was nullified. But it was never repealed.

The question that has not been raised is: Will repeal of the Wiley act revive the provisions of the Wiley act?

Courts have held, it was pointed out here, that if a law is not specifically repealed, but its legal effect merely suspended by enactment of another law, it still remains on the statute books. And, of course, it is automatically revived when the law suspending it is removed.

The passage of Proposition No. 2 added more complications. It puts the matter of liquor regulation in the hands of the state, and further prohibits saloons.

What effect this measure will have on the Wiley act is another question for the supreme court to decide. If it is held that the state legislature has to regulate any beverage, legal authorities declare this would mean that all legislation passed prior to the Wright act would be nullified.

Furthermore, it is pointed out, if the courts hold that liquor control and regulation is placed in the legislature, then it is doubtful if California may receive any benefits of possible legalization of beer and wine until the necessary bills are passed by the 1933 legislature.

Choose Deputy Assessors From Local Territory

Examinations For Appointment to Posts to Be Held Soon

Deputy county assessors, who assess property in Torrance, Gardena, Lomita, Compton, Lynwood and vicinity, will henceforth be chosen from the general vicinity, instead of the present practice of selecting them from the territory in which they are to work. It is possible to give, according to an announcement today by Clifford Amsden, secretary of the Los Angeles county civil service commission. Heretofore, assessors have been chosen for their general qualifications and not for their familiarity with the property in any certain district, it was explained.

Under the new plan, the county, with the exception of Los Angeles City, Santa Monica and Ocean Park, has been divided into eight sections, of which the local area is a part. Examinations for new deputy assessors to work in the eight districts are to be held shortly. Amsden announced. There are approximately 75 vacancies, but approximately 500 applications are expected. The deputies will begin their work for the new tax year on next March 1.

The districts and the territory embraced is as follows: (1) Long Beach, Wilmington, San Pedro, North Long Beach, Bellflower, Hynes, Clearwater and Artesia; (2) South Gate, Compton, Lynwood, Bell and Maywood; (3) Whittier, Montebello, Downey and Norwalk; (4) Pomona, Claremont, San Dimas, LaVerne, Spadra and Walnut; (5) Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Monrovia, Azusa, Glendora and Covina; (6) Redondo, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, El Segundo, Hawthorne, Lawndale, Torrance and Lomita; (7) Culver City, Mar Vista, Palms, Barnes City and Venice; (8) Malibu, Decker, Topanga, Calabasas and Antelope Valley.

Torrance and Lomita had the services last year of local deputy assessors when E. H. Clarkson and Mrs. E. W. Huddleston were appointed for this city and a resident of Lomita for that district.

Additional Unpaid Tax Suits Are Filed

Local residents who may be concerned about suits which the county tax collector is filing for unpaid personal property taxes are informed that it will not be necessary for them to appear at the small claims court in Los Angeles unless the amount is beyond the jurisdiction of the local justice or township court.

The tax collector's office makes its own affidavits, papers are served by deputies, and the deputies also make the court appearances, thus adding no additional expense to the suit for costs, it was explained.

Another 335 suits were filed in Los Angeles small claims court last week, and 247 the week before. Within a few days suits will be filed in justice courts in increasing numbers, it was stated.

TROOP 3

An inter-patrol rally will be held at Scout hall tomorrow night when contests in various phases of Scouting will be held. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

Troop 3 is now filled up, and no more vacancies exist in this group at present. Junior Fees, latest tenderfoot to be admitted, brought the membership up to 34, and the rolls were closed.

An Armistice Day program was held at the Torrance elementary school on Thursday, November 10, with George Bradford, of Scout Troop 3, in charge. George gave a talk on Armistice Day, which was followed by a poem recited by David Clark of Troop 4. Roger McGinnis of Troop 4 gave a talk on World Peace.

LaVerne Jones and James Coll of Troop 3 tied the nine tenderfoot knots, and Principal William Bell of the elementary school made a few closing remarks, thanking the Scouts for their excellent program.

November 10 was a regular troop meeting for Troop 4. Personal inspection was won by Lee Burns. A knot-tying contest was won by the Beaver patrol. The time for nine knots was 26 seconds.

A special Scout ceremony was conducted in order to present a tenderfoot badge to Weston Leech. After that, a few games were held. The troop marched in the Armistice Day parade.

Next week an inter-patrol rally will be held. There are three vacancies in the troop. Therefore, any boy 12 years of age and over, who is interested in scouting, is cordially invited to attend the troop meeting on Thursday at the Scout hall.

Newspaper Man Is Appointed Director

Eric Cullenward, San Francisco newspaper man, was named to the post of deputy director of public works, succeeding James E. Herz, ousted by the governor on charges of disloyalty recently.

Cullenward has previously been chief of the state division of documents and publications, where he was paid $5,700 a year. In this new post, he receives $5,400 a year.

Cullenward joined the Ralph administration last year as secretary to the highway commission and editor of the public works magazine.

Former Assemblyman Morgan Keaton of Long Beach was also appointed by Governor Ralph as assistant to the deputy director.

Rev. M. F. Cameron of Torrance had been mentioned as a possible appointee to the post of director.

Optometrist Takes Post Grad. Course

Dr. C. L. Ingold, local optometrist is attending evening classes at Los Angeles in post graduate clinic work given for optometrists in this part of the state. The classes are conducted by Dr. Skeffington, a well-known lecturer on eye fatigue and adaptation.

The members then adjourned to the cafeteria where refreshments were served.

The pretty blue sweaters with the blue and orange emblems that are now seen all over town, are the new senior sweaters. Of course, the seniors and others, think they are the best looking sweaters that Torrance high has ever had.

Anyway, they are very good looking sweaters and as soon as the second order comes out, every day will be blue Monday.

The third act of the senior play has been practiced and now it will be put together and given the final touches.

The Madrigal Singers are to do the singing in the second act of the play, and practice will begin with them this week.

Now that almost everyone is back at school after the flu epidemic, it won't take long to put the play together, and it won't be long until December 9!

The first Boys' League meeting this semester was held in the auditorium, Wednesday, November 9. Bob Atchison, the president, took charge of the meeting and many important things were discussed. Among these things a question arose as to whether or not the boys would have inter-class volleyball games. A net is fixed on the tennis court so that the boys can play volleyball and if they wish to, later on they can organize class teams and have contests and learn the real rules, which Mr. Waldelich says make a very exciting game.

Keeping Up With Torrance High

Howard A. Campion, principal of Frank Wiggins Trade school, talked to the boys at the Boys' League meeting about the number of different trades that can be learned at the trade school. Mr. Campion told the boys that they should know what they plan to do all their lives before they graduate from high school.

It was a very interesting talk and gave the boys many things of which to think and to which to look forward.

The teachers had a luncheon and teachers' meeting in the sewing room Wednesday, November 9. Mr. Ricker, superintendent of Los Angeles schools, talked to them.

The girls in Miss Collier's cooking classes served the lunch. This is the second meeting which has been held in the sewing room, and because they have been so successful, there will probably be more.

An Armistice Day program was held in the auditorium, Thursday, November 10. Alice Burger gave an oration on Armistice Day and Milton Swartz, a reading. There were also patriotic songs.

The Armistice program is a yearly program, for Armistice Day is a holiday.

Bill Parke, president of the student body at Torrance high, attended a meeting at the University of Southern California on Saturday, November 12. All of the high school student body presidents of Southern California were invited for the purpose of talking over the problems and questions that are liable to come up in any high school.

The meeting lasted until 12:15, at which time there was a banquet, and then all the visiting presidents were escorted to the stadium where they watched the football game between Oregon and U. S. C.

Bill enjoyed himself immensely and is not likely to forget the trip for many months to come. It's too bad everyone can't be a student-body president!

The second meeting of the World Friendship Club was held in the music room Thursday, November 10. Captain Roscoe Goodcell, manager of the review department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, gave a very interesting talk on Americanism. Captain Goodcell was a captain in active service, 1917-19, and for many years he was in China in the employ of the Chinese government in an educational capacity. While he was in China, he organized the American Rifle Company.

With these experiences as a background, he was able to illustrate the points of his talk by personal anecdotes.

America and Herman Hadler played some national airs, as the program was an Armistice program.

The members then adjourned to the cafeteria where refreshments were served.
