Vocal Teacher Opens Studio In This City

Flora Cronmiller, teacher of voice, who is opening a studio in Torrance beginning October 29, will present several of her pupils at the meeting of the Torrance Chapter, O. E. S., tonight. Among the group who will appear here are Judge May D. Lahey, Cora Rietze, Jessica White and James Hines. Margaret Minard will play the piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Cronmiller has had a wide experience in teaching and uses the methods of Jean Teslor, famous New York voice teacher, under whom she studied for a number of years. She also attended the U. S. C. school of speech and in her class work seeks to improve both the singing and the speaking voice.

Mrs. Cronmiller puts great stress on proper health control and diaphragmatic support of tone. The early training and instruction of piano is also very helpful, she finds.

Classes are limited in the number of pupils enrolling and those who are interested in taking up the study of voice may make their reservations for an interview by calling Torrance 60.
