

"Salome" Ballet Next Attraction. Shrine Auditorium

Leater Horton's spectacular modern ballet of Oscar Wilde's "Salome" featuring Joy Montoya in the title role, and an ensemble of 100 dancers, will be presented at the Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles, Wednesday night, July 25, as the second attraction of the summer series.

Joy Montoya, the "Salome," is a popular young French dancer from the celebrated Vieux Carre Theatre, New Orleans. She scored an outstanding success last season in the exotic "Samarkand" Ballet which toured Florida and Cuba.

Other ballets on the Shrine Auditorium summer series will be "The Painted Desert," mammoth American Indian pageant with music by Homer Grunn, August 8; and Ethel Meglin's elaborate fantasy, "Three Little Pigs," featuring 500 Meglin Kiddies, August 22.
