

Election Boards Subpoenaed to Explain Errors

Discrepancies in Books On Last Election Come Under Scrutiny

With 61 election boards already subpoenaed up to the beginning of the week to come before the county supervisor and explain discrepancies in their books on the November 6 election, the supervisor and election officials alike were ready to advance proposals that would simplify election reporting.

One election board suggested that only three of the six members of each precinct board work during the time the polls are open and that the other three report for duty when the polls close at 7 o'clock and count votes. Because many of the persons who serve as election officials are persons of middle age, they are in many cases exceedingly fatigued by the day's ordeal from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. At both the recent elections the job of counting the ballots was exceedingly slow and tedious because of the large number of questions on the ballot. At the August primary there was an unusually large number of candidates. In many cases election boards worked continuously, as required by law, for 18 hours, some longer, after the polls closed.

Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough advocates a new policy in the registration of voters to overcome the difficulties encountered with persons unwilling to vote. McDonough suggests that a deputy registrar of voters be assigned to register voters in the area covered by not more than three precincts. This would give each deputy approximately 1000 names, and by regular assignment he would become familiar with his list. This deputy also would make a practice of checking transients and persons who move in and out of his area, so that official lists at polling places would contain the names of persons legally entitled to vote.

Validity Of Moratorium Is To Be Decided

Attack Launched in Test Case on File in State Supreme Court

Validity of the Moratorium Act passed by the 1933 legislature is to be decided by a case under submission today by the state supreme court, with the filing of the respondents' brief by the county board of supervisors. Every landholder in special assessment districts has an interest in the outcome of the case, because the Moratorium Act provides that no liens arising out of the levy, or any special assessment tax to enforce any lien, shall be enforced before next February 23.

A Los Angeles bond concern, O. Y. Tromper and Company, seeks a writ of mandate to compel the superior court to proceed with the trial and render a judgment of foreclosure in a foreclosure action on a bond issued pursuant to the improvement act of 1911. Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould refused to proceed, abiding by the Moratorium Act.

The bondholder and petitioner for the writ of mandate contends in its attack on the Moratorium Act that the obligation of existing contracts is impaired, and for that reason the act is null and void. The particular parcel of property involved is in the city of Los Angeles. Deputy County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy and J. P. Moroney contend that the obligation of an existing contract has not been impaired, and that the Moratorium Act does not enhance the substantive rights of the bondholder, but merely alters the mode of procedure or the remedy.

"When the California legislature made its finding as set forth in the Moratorium Act that an economic emergency justified the bringing of an action, the enactment was valid and constitutional," it is contended in conclusion of the county counsel's argument.

disrupt the transportation service in the city of Los Angeles. Representatives of the board proposed, at a meeting held yesterday, that the matter be submitted to an impartial committee composed of one representative of the unions, a representative of the corporation and one member to be chosen by these two groups. Decision on the proposal was to be made at the meeting held today.

As in the case of the interurban lines, the street railway corporation contends that it is not in a position to agree to the wage increase asked by the unions. The corporation asserts that to comply with the demands would require $1,500,000 more revenue, produced from higher fares. The unions contend that it would cost but $700,000.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The Golden Text is from Hebrews: "The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart."
Among the Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon are these verses from Matthew: "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. . . . And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of diseases."
A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, says, "Christ, Truth, was demonstrated through Jesus to prove the power of Spirit over the flesh—to show that Truth is made manifest by its effects upon the human mind and body, healing sickness and destroying sin."

Christian Science Services Held On Thanksgiving Day

Services of thanksgiving will be held on Thursday in branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. Services in the local Christian Science Church will be held at 10:30 A. M. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Thanksgiving." The Golden Text is from Paul's second epistle to the Corinthians: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift."

Among the Bible selections are these verses from Luke: "And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off: and they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us. And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go show yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, and fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks; and he was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?"

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states, "Of the ten lepers whom Jesus healed, but one returned to give God thanks—that is to acknowledge the divine Principle which had healed him."

Passion of Christ In Oil Paintings

The world's greatest story will be beautifully portrayed upon the screen at the Christian church next Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. The last part of "The Life of Christ" is to be given in reproductions of the sacred art paintings, on the screen large enough to make the characters life-size.

A delegation from the Torrance Christian church will visit the Egegraphic headquarters, Los Angeles, next Friday evening. Dr. A. F. Putterer, who is in charge of the institution, will escort the delegation through the "Holyland Museum" where many Palestine products will be on exhibition. A motion picture of the Holyland will be shown also. All who wish to go in the delegation are asked to attend the Egegraphic program at the church next Thursday evening to get the particulars, according to Rev. George Elder, pastor.

U. S. C. Ends Touchdown Drought

The badly battered University of Southern California football team took on some of last year's form Saturday and walloped the University of Oregon, 33 to 0. One of the reasons U. S. C. won was Cal Clemens. Here the Trojan back reaches up to grab an Oregon pass on the Trojan's eight-yard line. He ran the ball back 45 yards before being downed.
