

Chevrolet Is Built For the 1935 Pocketbook, Says Thompson

"The 1935 Chevrolet Standard is built for the 1935 pocketbook!" This sales slogan, created in early January, is proved by the latest production figures of the Chevrolet Standard at the Oakland plant of the automobile company, according to Ed Thompson of the Chevrolet Agency in Torrance.

"For the first three months in 1935, more than 10,000 Standards have been shipped on orders from Pacific coast dealers," declared Mr. Thompson. "In all of 1934, 8,176 Standards were shipped and sold in Pacific coast states. If the tremendous demand for Standards continues, Chevrolet officials believe that the coast states will absorb approximately 30,000 Standard units this year. The shipments on the Master De Luxe, the companion car to the Standard, have been very heavy also, but the demand for the Master has been so great that the factory can't build them fast enough."

Asked why the Chevrolet Standard has had such a remarkable public acceptance, Mr. Thompson said, "First, it is the lowest priced full size car in the world; second, it gives 23 miles to the gallon at boulevard speeds and America has promptly called it the most economical car in the world; third, it has remarkable top speed and ball of fire getaway; fourth, it is a sturdy, rugged car that will be booming along at 40,000 miles just as effectively as during the first 10,000 miles. The people who are buying the Standard want a car that will not tax their pocketbooks. The Chevrolet Standard was introduced in 1932. That year only 10,000 units were sold nationally. In 1933, more than 33,000 units were sold nationally and in 1934 more than 100,000 units were sold nationally. In other words, the family having an income of around $160-$200 a month was taking a progressively greater interest in the price tag of cars as the years went on. The Standard is built for a definite market, that of people who want the best in quality transportation at a very low price.

"America's pocketbook for 1935 does not justify a tremendous outlay for an automobile. People realize this and are flocking in increasing numbers to the Chevrolet showroom to buy the new Standard."

Around the Council Table

City Clerk A. H. Bartlett read a communication from the Pan-American Petroleum Corporation, regarding the enclosure of a check for $109.36 in payment of pipeline earnings under their franchise from the City of Torrance. Clerk Bartlett reported that all checks received from all companies in payment of earnings had shown a slight increase over the remittances of last year.

The Department of Water and Power, Los Angeles, wrote that it had no objections to the termination by the City of Torrance of its contract to serve water to the sheeting strip, notice of which proposal had been sent to the department, but asked that the service be continued until the completion of the 30-inch pipeline which is being built to serve the harbor district.

The Torrance Loyal Order of Moose extended the mayor and council an invitation to attend their installation of officers which will be held April 26.

Several communications regarding pending legislation which will affect municipalities were introduced, most of them being turned over to the city attorney for study. One of the most important measures, on which the city council will probably take action by resolution to be sent to this district's representatives in the assembly related to limiting liability of municipalities, counties and school districts for injuries received by individuals on sidewalks, curbs or similar public property. The limit fixed in the bill is $5,000.

BABY DIES

Nakabu Watanabe, 14-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Gunn Watanabe, 3620 Wiseburn street, Torrance, died Friday, April 5, at the home. Funeral services were held Tuesday, April 9, from the Buddhist Temple, Moneta, with cremation at Pacific Crest.

FORMER CHIEF of police killed IN ARKANSAS

Burr Robertson, former chief of police at Hawthorne, was shot and killed at Harrison, Arkansas, March 27, when he attempted to arrest Roy O. Stewart, wanted for murder. Robertson was chief of police in Harrison, and had been employed on the job for only three months. An officer accompanying Robertson shot Stewart four times, inflicting dangerous wounds.

BIRTHDAYS OF FAMOUS MEN
Charles E. Hughes, judge of the supreme court, was born, April 11, 1862.

In passing upon the validity of such an ordinance, the county counsel had stated that while there was no support for it in any of the authorities, assuming the facts set out in the board's resolution, he was not prepared to state that such regulation would be an abuse of the county's police power.

The board acted on the theory that young rabbits less than six weeks old were too young to be taken from the litter and sold as pets. The children to whom they are given do not know how to care for them and have no facilities for feeding or caring for them properly.

As a result it is alleged that 90 percent of the rabbits sold for this purpose die within a very short period after being sold.

Stretching a Rubber Band

A taut rubber band will wear twice as long if the tension is relieved though only at brief intervals. The same is true of a human being who requires periods of relaxation during the strenuous day. Your physician knows that a moment of rest may mean an added year of health!
