COUNTY FAIR TO DRAW NATION'S FASTEST HORSES IN 16-DAY MEET

One of the greatest speed carnivals in the history of southland horse-racing is scheduled for the 16-day meet at Los Angeles County fair in Pomona, Sept. 15 to 30. Between 600 and 700 of the fastest harness and running horses of the nation will take part. Many new turf records are predicted. State sanctioned and regulated pari-mutuel betting with the finest facilities in the west will again be a feature. While there will be racing every afternoon the pari-mutuels will not be in operation Sundays. Above at left are a few of the 50 pretty pari-mutuel messengers. To the right is the huge new steel and concrete grandstand erected at a cost of $250,000. Below are a couple of exciting finishes on the Pomona track. Over $30,000 has been hung up in purses this year.

Market Specials Big Help in Meals

Many times, there are week-end specials at the meat market which simplify food problems for several days. True, these specials are often for larger pieces of meat than is needed for one meal, but there are always attractive ways to use the left-overs. According to Inez S. Willson, home economist, it is economy not only of money but time to take advantage of the specials, for after the larger cut is once cooked, it can be so easily prepared for other meals.

The first use of a left-over roast or pot-roast is usually a cold meat platter or sandwiches. Other suggestions for using left-over meat are given below.

- 2 cups chopped cooked meat
- 4 medium-sized potatoes, diced
- 1 cup stewed tomatoes
- 2 stalks celery, diced
- 1/2 cup left-over gravy or meat stock
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 medium-sized onion, grated
- Salt and pepper

Mix the meat, potatoes, celery and onion. Combine with beaten egg, gravy and tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper and put in a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until the hash is thoroughly heated.

- 1 cup cooked pork, lamb, or veal, diced
- 1/2 cup asparagus, diced
- 1/2 cup celery, diced
- 1/2 teaspoon vinegar
- Mayonnaise
- 1 hard-cooked egg
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- Asparagus tips
- Celery tips
- Salt and pepper
- Lettuce

Mix the meat, celery, and asparagus. Add the salad oil, vinegar and seasonings. Moisten with the mayonnaise. Arrange on lettuce, and garnish with the celery and asparagus tips and sliced egg.

Jalopies Face Fiery Fate

This can't go on much longer. At any rate, not if Virginia and Bill Rich have anything to say about it. They are just about to give up trying to make this 1912 brass-trimmed Ford touring de luxe move over the highways. It won't be long if they have their way, before the old chariot is carted out to the steel plant. Inset shows a huge electric furnace at a steel rolling mill, important users of Mobiloil and Mobilgrease, where jalopies pass through the trial by fire to be reincarnated as structural steel.

Your old second-hand car may one day be an important unit in a great bridge, a towering building or a mammoth dam. Think twice before you harm a single rust spot. There is a future existence for motor cars. Even the most forsaken of jalopies may in its reincarnation occupy an exalted place in the scheme of things, says Don Dawson, Southern California division manager for General Petroleum Corporation, marketers of Mobilgas and Mobiloil.

To those not familiar with the nomenclature of Automobile Row, a jalopy is a vehicle which is held together by benign providence and a piece of string. It seems to move at the behest of some strange restlessness, which is thought by many to be the palsy of old age.

Melted Down
 In many a steel rolling mill up and down the Pacific coast, where General's lubricating engineers prescribe the proper grades of Mobiloil and Mobilgrease for the plant equipment, jalopies are ushered into eternity by the hundreds. Dismantled and more disreputable than ever, they enter the maw of electric furnaces to be transformed into a molten, white hot mass and poured into forms, the billets later being rolled into structural steel. Other thousands of decrepit and discarded vehicles are shipped from Pacific coast ports weekly for conversion in foreign countries, Japan being the largest customer at present.

Big Industry
 Not only is the Jalopi destined to glorious immortality, but the process of its reincarnation forms the basis for an important coast industry. Supporter of a large payroll and important user of power, lubricants and other products, the steel rolling mills of this section may be classed as one of the major industries of the Pacific coast, Southern California being fortunate in the possession of several.

Judge Monroe Grateful For Voter Support

Judge A. F. Monroe, who headed the ticket for the justice of the peace office in the enlarged Inglewood township, today issued the following statement:

"I am extremely grateful for the splendid support and fine spirit of co-operation that was accorded me in this district during the primary campaign. If elected I renew my promise to be honest, fair and impartial and to take care of the increased duties of the office to the end that no district will suffer. It is my desire to be of continued service to the district, and if I am returned to the bench I have occupied for nearly a quarter of a century I shall never forget my obligation to the people of the township."

France to Spend Two Million

PARIS (U.P.)—France has decided to spend two million dollars during the next few years to beautify her national grounds and restore her historical structures to their pristine glory. A sum of 4,500,000 francs is to be spent alone on transforming sculptor Bourdelle's studio into a museum. His widow has already donated the contents of the studio to the city.

Quality Super Market Plans Food Festival to Celebrate Enlarged and Beautified Market

A gala Festival of Food Bargains has been planned by the Quality Super Market on Friday and Saturday this week in celebration of the completion of this leading independent market's extensive enlarging and remodeling work which has been in progress for several weeks.

One-Man Circus At Market Sat.

Floor space has been greatly increased and all new fixtures of the latest and most modern type installed, which will make shopping more convenient and pleasant. An up-to-the-minute illuminating system has been provided, adding cheer and beauty. The lighting in the meat department is particularly attractive. Red, white and blue neon lights border large attractive mirrors, and flood lights give added brilliance to the display cases filled with enticing cuts of choice meats. The most modern automatic refrigeration system procurable assures the proper chilling and ageing of all meats. More space has also been provided in the fresh fruit and vegetable department, where all new fixtures have also been installed. Fruits and vegetables will be kept fresh and crisp.

A number of food manufacturers and distributors are planning special demonstrations for the week-end celebration. Six baskets of choice food products will be given away, but perhaps the greatest attraction of all is the long list of exceptional food bargains which are advertised elsewhere in this full page announcement in this issue.

Young Seers Win College Education

For their ideas on the world as it will be 30 years from now, Dana Adams Schmidt of Los Angeles (left) and Monroe Jang of Marysville have been awarded the two $2,000 University scholarships in Bank of America's statewide essay competition on America's development in the next 30 years. Thousands of young Californians vied for the awards. Schmidt will continue at Pomona College, where he is about to enter his sophomore year, and Jang has elected to attend the University of California.

A Pomona College freshman and a Marysville High School student were announced today as winners of the $2,000 scholarships endowed by the Bank of America for the two best essays submitted in a statewide competition in which thousands of boys and girls submitted essays.

In competition with essayists of 18 years or under in Los Angeles County and the San Francisco Bay Area, Dana Adams Schmidt, 18, of 405 West Adams Street, Los Angeles, was awarded a $2,000 scholarship for his essay, entitled "The World Thirty Years From Now."

Monroe Jang, 17, son of an American-born Chinese merchant of Marysville, was adjudged the winner for all of California outside the two principal metropolitan areas. His essay on "Economic and Social Advancements" won him more than two dollars a word.

The scholarship competition was sponsored by Bank of America in an endeavor to determine the trend of thought of young Californians, to discover what plans youth holds in store for the future of the United States, and to stimulate constructive thought. Contestants were invited to submit their ideas on "America in 1964" in the form of essays of 1,000 words or less.

The scholarships were awarded by a committee of judges composed of Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, President of the University of California; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, President of Lehigh University; and Dr. Rufus B. von Klemm, President of the University of Southern California.

The two scholarships will be presented to Jang and Schmidt at the State Fair in Sacramento in the first week in September, by A. P. Giannini, founder of Bank of America and of the Giannini Foundation at the University of California.

In all, Bank of America is making 414 awards in its survey of youthful thought. Essayists whose efforts won the commendation of the judges received a total of $10,000 in scholarships and awards.

Young Jang is a product of the California public school system and has already distinguished himself in his school career, having won a high school scholarship offered by the California Scholarship Federation. He has selected the University of California for his Alma Mater and will enter in 1935. His scholarship will be held in trust for him until that time by the bank, and thus through interest accumulation he will actually receive more than $2,000.

Schmidt, who was born in Ohio, received a part of his elementary education in that state. Later he studied abroad, in Switzerland and Austria, and entered Pomona College in 1933. He plans to use his scholarship to continue his education at that institution, at Claremont, California. He has chosen journalism as his vocation.

Commenting upon the results of the essay competition, Will F. Morrish, President of Bank of America, said: "The essays were invited as a gauge of the thoughts of the youth of today about the world of tomorrow. The ideas of the young people of today will direct America toward its future, and it is of value to a continuing institution to look to the future.

"The conclusions of the essayists, in the aggregate, offer some interesting deductions. The young people of today are more economically and politically minded than they have been in the past. They are concerned with social problems and are intensely interested in human relationships.

"While they recognize with the existing clarity of youth the flaws in our social systems, they are predominantly optimistic about the ability of their generation to solve its problems as they occur. It is encouraging to find that they even foresee an ability on the part of the present adult generation to avert entire chaos.
