

Inter-Oceanic University To Sail In June

California Takes Lead in Launching Combined Travel Study Project

"California is taking the lead in launching the greatest educational advance in years, the Inter-Oceanic University, which will combine travel with study," Dr. Fredric P. Woelner, professor of education at U. C. L. A., announced yesterday.

The noted educational and patriotic leader has been appointed chancellor of the Inter-Oceanic University, a co-educational unit which will enroll 40 students, sailing on the Debeny yacht, Caslana, from Los Angeles harbor, June 29, for a 10-months trip around the world.

A regular university curriculum will be taught by eight distinguished professors from leading American universities. Credit will be earned for two semesters in such fields as social science, art, modern languages, literature and other subjects.

An extensive itinerary is to be followed, including Japan, China, Philippines, Indo-China, Siam, India, Italy, Ireland, Scotland, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Belgium, England, France, Portugal, Canary Islands, Bermuda, Bahamas, Cuba, Panama, Galapagos Islands and Mexico.

BURGLARY

R. H. Trunnell, 2532 Oak street, Lomita, reported to sheriff's deputies at Sub-station No. 3 last week that his home had been burglarized, a lady's wrist watch, lingerie and stockings, being taken. The intruder used a pass-key to gain entrance.

Reel Life in Real Life

Rivalling any motion picture script is the real life of Mr. and Mrs. Sigvard Bernadotte. Bernadotte is the grandson of the king of Sweden and renounced his right of succession to the throne to marry his commoner bride. The couple live in a little five-room bungalow in Beverly Hills.

For Lenten Meals

In the Middle Ages in France, sauce makers of Sauciers, licensed by the municipality, sold the "ancestors" of our sauces to royalty and townsmen. In those days, sauces covered up a multitude of defects in fish, meats and other foods. Indeed, many times sauces took the place of refrigeration and made fish palatable after a too long absence from their native element.

Today, however, the object of sauces is to complement fish or other foods, and in so doing to add appreciably to its nutritive value and flavor.

Such fish as haddock, cod, herrings, halibut, salmon and pompano can be bought for very little. A good sauce makes even the least expensive of them an aristocratic food. Canned or fresh oysters and clams, shrimps and fish roe can also be delightfully served with sauces, whose other attribute is the adding of variety to the menu.

Foundation or White Sauce
 2 tablespoons-butter
 1 cup milk
 2 tablespoons flour
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 teaspoon paprika
 Heat the butter in a sauce pan, stir until it bubbles a little, add the flour slowly, mixed with the seasonings, and stir until well blended. Pour the milk gradually, gradually over the butter and flour mixture. Stir constantly and let it simmer about two minutes until smooth and creamy.
 To this cream sauce can be added 1/4 teaspoon or more of curry, for shrimps, or there can be added hard boiled eggs cut in eighths for an egg sauce, for cod, gradually over the milk. Chopped parsley is also a delicious addition to any cream sauce.

Bechamel Sauce
 Make a cream sauce as outlined above up to the adding of the milk. Then add one half cup of milk and one half cup of fish stock, one-quarter teaspoon of salt, pepper and a little paprika. Cook until this has thickened, stirring constantly to keep it from becoming lumpy. This sauce can be used with broiled, baked, or fried fish.
 To this sauce may be added hard boiled eggs (cut up), parsley, cooked peas and diced carrots.
 For a heavier sauce, minced pickles, capers, or cut up shrimps may be added. Catsups or other flavoring sauces can be used with the foundational Bechamel sauce.

Maitre d'Hotel
 2 tablespoons butter
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon parsley
 A pinch pepper
 Lemon
 Cream the butter by working it with a wooden spoon. Add the salt and pepper. Cut the lemon in halves and from each half, cut two slices, so that they are of equal size for garnishing. From the end of the lemon which is left, squeeze 1/2 tablespoon juice and add slowly to the butter. Chop the parsley, put 1/2 tablespoon with the butter and use the remainder to sprinkle lightly on the lemon slices. A very small slice of red or green pepper may be added to the butter.

Chorus Club Has Social Evening
 Members of the Lomita and Harbor City Community Chorus held a social meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Bullock, Monday evening, with about 20 present. The chorus is starting music for a concert to be given some time in the future, as soon as plans can be completed, rehearsals held and a sponsor is secured.

BALLROOM dance classes open WEDNESDAY

Classes in ballroom dancing and department for junior and senior high school students will open next Wednesday evening, April 10, at the Woman's clubhouse, 1422 Englewood, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Hinkley of the Hinkley School of Dancing, Belmont Shore, Long Beach. Miss Hinkley already has a number of pupils enrolled and hopes to see others join the classes next Wednesday night.

"The ideal which we hope to realize with our ballroom dancing classes here in Torrance," said Miss Hinkley, "is graciousness in manner and gracefulness of body. Through the proper use of the dance, strength and endurance are increased, bad posture corrected, harmony of movement established and co-ordination improved."

"We teach dancing in its best forms and the simple forms of etiquette essential to social graces, but our chief concern is to assist the individual in making those social adjustments so necessary to a well rounded life."

Ashes Scattered In Square
 MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.)—Before Christopher C. Wagner, 80-year-old Memphis pioneer, died, he requested his ashes be scattered in Court Square, a city park. This was denied by city officials, however. A bad precedent, they decided. So his remains will be buried in Memorial cemetery.
