

Will Hoover Again Become a Candidate For the Presidency?

LOS ANGELES.—Political circles throughout the nation are casting speculative eyes on Oakland where this week-end the representatives of young Republican organizations of 11 western states will gather in convention—and hear former President Herbert Hoover in the first formal address he has made since leaving the White House.

Whether Mr. Hoover will again be a candidate is considered the outstanding question in Republican circles today, and his acceptance of the invitation of the young Republicans has given rise to popular belief that whether a candidate or not, that his authoritative and experienced voice will be heard throughout the coming campaign.

Plans for the gathering of the young Republicans under the name of the Western States Republican convention were originated and carried through by the California Republican assembly, militant organization of younger Republicans who are pledged to rehabilitation and revitalization of their party.

Edward S. Shattuck of Los Angeles, a pioneer in the assembly movement, a former president of the Los Angeles county Republican assembly and new chairman of the convention committee, has announced that not only has the convention been designed to express the ideals and hopes of the younger leaders of western state Republicanism, but also that it is to stimulate activity throughout the nation, with the assembly organization becoming nationwide.

Sherrill Halbert of Porterville, president of the California assembly, is to be chairman when the convention meets October 4. Former President Hoover's eagerly anticipated address will be made the following evening, and the closing session the next day will be devoted to reports of conferences on party policies and organization, and indictment of the New Deal.

CONTROL BOARD IS 'BRAIN' OF REFINERY

Photograph shows one of the modern automatic control boards, electrically operated, used in the manufacture of General Motors. This board is in General Petroleum Corporation's Torrance plant, declared to be the most modern refinery in the world.

In the early days of the automobile the business of gasoline refining was merely a sideline with petroleum producers. In fact, before the advent of the motor car, gasoline was regarded as a nuisance, a waste product which came from the stills as a result of the process of refining kerosene for illuminating purposes. The invention of the automobile was a happy solution of the problem of what to do with this waste material.

Under these conditions, not much attention was paid to the science of refining gasoline for maximum efficiency. The poor quality of the fluid was one of the contributing reasons for the frequent breakdown of the early automobiles. In fact, according to Don Dawson, general manager, Southern California division for General Petroleum Corporation in the Torrance district, it would practically be impossible to operate any of the high speed, high power modern cars with the fluid which was used in those days with the care taken today in the production of first quality gasoline.

Compare the refinery method in vogue in those days with the care taken today in the production of first quality gasoline. Mr. Dawson said: "For instance, in General Petroleum's Torrance plant, which is known as the most modern refinery in the world, tests are made every 15 minutes, 96 times a day, or 35,040 times a year of General Motors as it comes from the stills."

Electric Control
Production of Mobilgas in General Petroleum's plants is controlled electrically. Mr. Dawson added, and the process is so exact that the slightest variation of temperature is automatically and instantly corrected by the safety electrical devices. The reason for such elaborate care, the official explained, is due to the fact that maintenance of exact temperatures is vital to the production of General Mobilgas and the retention of its unique qualities.

One Place Where Slips Do Count

Mountain climbers who go venturing on the immense glacial fields of Mount Rainier in Washington face constant danger from ice slides and crevasses. Orne Dabier of Seattle, an experienced climber, was caught in a remarkable action shot, leaping a crevasse on Carbon Glacier on the northwest side of the mountain, proving that it's no place for a tenderfoot.

Life Risked to Save Gasoline
URBANA, O. (U.P.)—Loaded with 6,000 gallons of gasoline, a truck driven by Norman Harris caught fire on the highway. Courageously, Harris stood by with hand extinguishers, fought the blaze. He used three extinguishers, but he saved the truck.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
"What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord." These words from the book of Jeremiah constitute the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" on Sunday in all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. A citation from the Scriptures includes these verses from John: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. . . . If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed. . . . He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God." One of the correlative passages from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "From first to last the supposed coexistence of Mind and matter and the mingling of good and evil have resulted from the philosophy of the serpent. Jesus' demonstrations lift the chaff from the wheat, and unfold the unity and the reality of good, the unreality, the nothingness, of evil."

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

Walteria Church To Be Dedicated Next Sunday

Mayor Ludlow of Torrance Will Make the Dedication Speech

Dedication of the new church building, recently completed at Walteria, will be held next Sunday, when pastors of the various churches in surrounding cities have been asked to attend and take part in the ceremonies. Mayor Scott R. Ludlow of Torrance will make the dedication speech, according to the pastor, Rev. August Hammock.

The new building is located at 3007 Ellis avenue, opposite the Quant park. It is a frame structure, of ample size and well fitted up with comfortable pews, and all needed accessories. The congregation numbers about 75 persons.

An appropriate program has been arranged for the dedication Sunday, which will attract many visitors, not only from Torrance, Lomita and vicinity, but from many other communities. Walteria residents are proud of their new church, and look upon it as a definite evidence of progress.

Accordianist To Play Sunday

All men are especially urged to turn out to help outnumber the women in the attendance contest at the Christian church Sunday. According to Rev. George Elder in charge of the program this week, Albert Moros, accomplished artist, will play his $1,000 accordion. Fred Hopkins will give several readings and Lewis Dreyer, baritone, will contribute several solos. Rev. Elder has taken especial pains to secure the best of talent to make this rally day a gala affair. Every member please be there at 9:25 sharp and bring at least five friends with you.

Rally Day at Christian Church

Next Sunday, October 6, is rally day in the Torrance Christian Sunday school. Special preparations looking toward a rallying attendance in all church school classes and a fine program, have been made, according to Rev. George Elder, pastor of the church. Beginning next Sunday, October 6, Rev. Elder will preach a series of four sermons dealing with the Psalms. The sermons will be delivered at the morning worship hour, 10:50. "Thinking and Turning" will be the first sermon subject and will be linked up, especially, with present-day problems.

WALTERIA CARD PARTY

Walteria folks invite all card players to join them in a benefit card party to be held at the Walteria playgrounds, Wednesday, October 3. Prizes will be awarded for bridge, pinocle and 500 Funs derived from this party will start a fund to purchase toys for children at Christmas. Secure tickets at the grounds.
