NEW BIDDERS WILL COMPETE FOR BUILDING CONTRACTS

Seven Sets of Plans Have Been Issued From the City Engineer's Office; Bids Opened Friday

At least seven contracting firms have indicated their interest in bidding on the construction of the proposed civic center buildings in Torrance. Plans and specifications have been issued to the Monolith Construction Company, Ellis Construction Company, Ray Daum, Duff & Vandenberg, and Petley and Matchan.

All Los Angeles firms, who offered bids when called for under the original plans. New prospective bidders are W. E. Allen and the Pacific Realty Building Company, of Long Beach.

Their bids will be opened at the adjourned regular meeting of the city council, to be held Friday evening, December 27. Due to the fact that some of the councilmen will be out of town on December 24, date of the regular meeting, and also because of its being Christmas Eve, the session will be adjourned until the later date.

All offers submitted will be referred to the city engineer and consulting engineer for study before action is taken to accept them.

Under the revised plans it is expected that the new figures will bring the cost of the buildings within the financial limit set by the bond issue and the federal grant.

Young Japanese Found Inside Storm Drain

Unconscious Youth Believed Near Death From Fever and Exposure

Attracted by groans coming from a storm drain, W. C. Jarman, caretaker at the Royal Palms golf course, White's Point, investigated and found a young Japanese, lying unconscious from illness at a point 110 feet from the end of the 36-inch pipe.

In order to rescue the young man it was necessary to dig a hole through the earth and break the pipe above his body. Apparently he had been in the pipe for at least 24 hours, as he had pilled his head on a Sunday newspaper, dated December 5. No identifying papers were found, and up to yesterday he was still unknown to authorities.

The man is about 22 years of age, weight 135 pounds. He wore red knit bathing trunks under a pair of gray trousers, white shirt, brown suede leather jacket, low black shoes. He was taken to the county hospital branch at San Pedro, where he was found to have a temperature of 104, and symptoms indicating typhoid fever. He is not expected to recover.

Japanese authorities have been contacted in an effort to learn his identity, but so far have not placed him. The only clue found was a driver's license, on which all writing was illegible except the word "Lomita." It is believed that he is a resident of that section.

In one of the inscrutable tricks of fate, the lives of three mothers were snuffed out, in an early morning automobile accident yesterday, while the daughters and son of the three women escaped with minor injuries.

Lomita Residents Give Tentative Approval to Proposed Zone Plan

Lomita residents in the vicinity of Lomita boulevard and Narbonne avenue this week gave their tentative approval to a zoning proposal outlined at a meeting with zoning engineers of the county regional planning commission Wednesday.

Several changes are to be made in the zoning plan, at the request of approximately 25 residents who attended the hearing, and the final hearing on the matter is to be held January 8, it was announced.

William J. Fox, chief engineer of the commission, explained the zoning plan to the residents. Werner Rucht, zoning engineer who now is in charge of the zoning section, answered a number of questions asked by property owners, who are to be given protection by the zoning.

The steps to zone the area were taken in response to a petition from a number of residents, filed with the supervisors on August 6, by the Lomita Chamber of Commerce. Population of the area is under 5,000 persons, it was stated.

Regulations laid down by the Federal Housing Administration provide that in order to obtain federal housing loans the area in which the property is located must be zoned, it was explained. This is one of the reasons for starting the proceedings.

Downtown Area Decorated With Christmas Trees

Merchants Raise Funds to Give Cheery Yule Atmosphere to Streets

Streets in the shopping district of Torrance were given a Christmas "dress" this week, when silvery yule trees were placed around the ornamental lighting standards. A number of the trees were decorated and lighted. A fund of approximately $100 was contributed by local merchants, under the direction of F. L. Parks, chairman, to defray the expense of the street decorations.

Local merchants report increases in holiday sales over last December of from 20 to 45 percent. Apparently, Torrance retail merchants anticipated the increased demand for holiday goods, as their stores are still well stocked with a widely diversified and attractive display of gift goods, and late shoppers should have no difficulty in making Christmas purchases here. Extra salespeople have been engaged so that shoppers will be given prompt attention.

Santa Fe Denies Compromise With S. P. On Bus Line

Widespread press comment and applications of Santa Fe Transportation Company for permission to operate in point to point passenger traffic in California, now pending before California State Railroad Commission, has caused much confusion in the public mind, according to Robert Brennan, of Los Angeles, attorney for Coast Lines, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway; also attorney for Santa Fe Transportation Company.

In order to clear up any misunderstanding in the matter, the following statement has been released by Mr. Brennan:

"As the result of a conference among representatives of the Santa Fe Transportation Company, Pacific Greyhound Lines, Inc., Southern Pacific Company and the railroad commission on November 25, 1935, for the purpose of ascertaining the attitude of the commission respecting the propriety of taking official action by public bodies on the pending applications of Santa Fe Transportation Company for certificates to operate on certain highways local bus service to be coordinated with Santa Fe rail service, the following statement was authorized by the commission:

"The commission shall continue to welcome and consider any testimony from any of these civic, commercial or political bodies which shall reflect their studied and voluntary views. Therefore the commission will welcome and consider any competent testimony from any person that may appear and which testimony may reflect facts and conditions within the knowledge of the witness which bear weight on either side of the issues presented."

"This is a clear cut statement of the commission's attitude in connection with these bus applications," Brennan points out.

"Newspaper articles persist that at the conference a compromise was reached between the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific interests. The subject of compromise was not discussed at all, statement to the contrary notwithstanding.

"The filing of these applications with the commission has been productive of a lively public interest. The public perceive that there is in the offering a modern transportation service combining both rail and bus, with interchangeable ticket privileges. Every day the merits of the applications become more obvious," said Mr. Brennan.
