Congressman Colden at the Capitol

By CHARLES J. COLDEN Feb. 6th Congress has already swung into a heavy stride in the nation's business. Already the House has passed the First Deficiency bill appropriating nearly $900,000,000, most of it for relief; also a second bill, known as the Independent Offices Appropriation, for more than $1,000,000,000. There was a battle by the minority to reduce the relief appropriation of $790,000,000 in the deficiency bill for the second appropriation bill for the Independent Offices of more than $1,000,000,000 went thru without a scratch, not even a roll call.

The Independent Offices bill covers a number of government commissions, including the President's salary of $75,000 per year, the salary of the vice-president of $15,000, the salaries of the President's assistants, the upkeep of the executive mansion and grounds, and also the maintenance.

SECURITY COSTS The Social Security board is one of the expensive federal commissions. The salaries and expenses for 1937 will amount to over $18,000,000. The bill carries $85,000,000 for old-age pensions as a contribution to the states for 1937. The Unemployment-Compensation Administration receives $29,000,000; dependent children will receive $35,000,000; the blind will receive $8,000,000 from the federal government in 1937. The total cost of the Social Security board is $187,800,000 for 1937.

THE VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION amounts to $589,727,000. In the Veterans' Administration over 10,000 additional beds are to be provided for the various veteran hospitals.

WHITE HOUSE BILL The maintenance of the White House is an interesting item. The President is permitted assistants, secretaries, aides—White House help which costs about $126,000. Then there are contingent expenses of $50,000 and the President is permitted $25,000 per year for traveling expenses. It costs around $200,000 a year for maintenance of the executive mansion and grounds. A government spokesman testified that the White House, the home of the President, is appraised at $2,500,000, and the grounds surrounding the White House are valued at $28,628,170. So you will note that the President occupies an expensive building, surrounded by valuable real estate.

UNCLE SAM IS rather generous to the occupant of the White House and not only provides the help but fuel, electricity, laundry, soaps, cleaning materials, hardware, automobiles, gasoline and oil, and the usual items that hang heavy over the head of the average taxpayer. During the ordinary working days, the President must buy his own groceries, bread and meats the same as any other citizen, but when the President entertains the supreme court, foreign diplomats, cabinet officials and members of Congress at dinner, Uncle Sam helps pay the bill.

UPKEEP IS COSTLY One reason for the larger appropriation this year is that some new furniture is needed in the White House. The old piano was purchased during the days of Teddy Roosevelt. A new Steinway grand is to be installed. Then the draperies and curtains that were hung in the famous East room in the days of Theodore Roosevelt are to be replaced at an expense of $4,000. Instead of a gold shade selected by the Theodore Roosevelts, the present occupant will have red ones.

SOME new wrought iron stair rails must be replaced at a cost of $900, and it will require $2,000 to replace old water pipes in the lawn. The plumber is not the only man who will profit, but the roof man will get $400 to stop the leaks, and $1,500 is needed to repair the fence that encloses the White House grounds. It costs $7,200 to paint the outside of the mansion and the office, and because of the smoke and soot in

STIRRING MESSAGE The President's message on the federal courts stirred Congress thru and thru. Like other measures of outstanding import, this one displayed a boldness and courage probably unparalleled in the history of the country. The President dealt with a most delicate question, and in the parlance of the street and corner grocery, "trod on thin ice."

THOSE who consider the constitution, the courts, and the entire structure of government as instruments of the people realize the potency and the necessity of the President's program.

HUMANITARIAN Mrs. Roosevelt is one of the busiest occupants of the White House. She visits all sorts of educational institutions, hospitals, factories, and takes a part in all sorts of uplift work. She is deeply interested in the resettlement program, visits the slums in Washington and other cities, goes down into the mines, and into the homes of the poor, and radiates a very beneficial influence on the lives of many people who belong to the forgotten list.

PROBABLY in the history of the country, no wife of a President has been as active in humanitarian activities as she.

EXPRESS THANKS George P. Flattor and two other residents on Martha street signed a letter of appreciation to the city council that was read Tuesday night. They expressed their thanks for the opening of their street and asked that 229th from Martha to Ocean avenue be opened "when the budget allows."

Speed Thrills Primogeniture

A FEW DAY AGO W. M. Jeffers, executive vice president of the Union Pacific Railroad, issued to Mrs. Ann Smith, 101 years old, of Montebello, Calif., her annual pass. She is the oldest pass holder on the railroad and her greatest ambition is to ride one of the new streamliners.

She lives with her son Charles, 81, who retired from the railroad 11 years ago.

the air, the White House is repainted every two years. Then the sash and the screens and the weather stripping decay and must be replaced from time to time. The one indulgence for the White House occupants is $40,000 for air conditioning machines for a few of the rooms. Only a part of the White House is being air conditioned, as the whole cost would amount to more than $150,000.

TWO PENSION BILLS Congressman Charles M. Crosby, of Meadville, Pa., a Democrat, has introduced the Townsend bill, H. R. 4199. It differs from the present McGroarty bill in that it makes the maximum pension not exceeding $200 per month, whereas the McGroarty bill places the maximum at not exceeding $100 per month. The Townsend bill requires compulsory spending, while the McGroarty bill does not. The Townsend bill is strictly an old-age pension bill and makes no provision for the blind, crippled children, widows and orphans, or any other group.

I have secured some extra copies of the Townsend bill and can furnish copies while they last to those who request them. Please write your name and address plainly on a post card and mail it to me at 287 House Office Building, Washington, D. C., for your copy.
