Piano Pupils Present Outstanding Program Wednesday

Mme. Teala Billini presented 17 of her pupils in a pianoforte recital at the Central Evangelical church Wednesday evening, June 9. The stage was beautifully decorated with baskets of flowers and formed a perfect setting for the event by the Southern California Music company of Los Angeles.

The church was filled to capacity with an enthusiastic audience who noted that the pupils played with unusually fine interpretation and phrasing, clearness of technique and lovely tone quality. Mme. Billini then responded to the request of persons in the audience by playing Viennese Dance No. 2 by Friedman Gartner, and "Sacta" by Alberiz.

Students appearing in the program were Teala Rosemary Billini, Marilyn Stannard, Bobby Leech, Winifred Philip, Joseph Marek, Barbara Lee Watson, Conrad Christensen, Dorothy Edwards, Norma Levy, Thelma Ness, Walter Marek, Susan Cranfield, Dorothy Metz, Betsy Lou Wells, Arthur Kelley, Phon Probst and Jeynone Barkduil.

Dark of Moon Spurts Deep-Sea Fishing

With the dark of the moon until June 22, fish are feeding during daylight hours, giving deep sea fishermen a treat. Bulletins from barge and live-bait boat operators from Malibu to San Diego state the run is on, with fine catches of yellowtail, white sea bass, big barracuda, bonita and bottom fish. Live bait is plentiful and good-sized.

Week day fishing is recommended for those who can get away. Boats are not crowded then and there is plenty of freedom for fighting the big fellows.

"Dream Bridge" Marches Over Old Fort

Fort Winfield Scott, once mighty master of the Golden Gate, today fades into insignificance in the giant shadows of the world's largest bridge. The old Fort, started 1854, completed 1861, dismantled 1880, cost $2,000,000; 164 guns bristling from its walls of brick, guarded the Golden Gate. In its day, one of the wonders of the west, day is but a symbol of the past: of the days of sailing ships and pioneers.

High over the old Fort, men have flung a spider web of steel; the world's largest and most magnificent single span suspension bridge. Twenty years ago, the Golden Gate Bridge was a visionary's dream—today, an actuality.
