FORBIDDEN ROAD, KABUL TO SAMARKAND by Rosita Forbes

This veteran English traveler has presented a book less positive in its opinions than the records of Ella Maillart or Ethel Mauren who also have under great difficulty visited this part of Soviet Asia. Instead of presenting her own opinions, Mrs. Forbes has let the land and people speak for themselves, thereby producing a book of sound values. It is a most interesting record of a scarcely known country, very entertaining for its spirit, excellent humor, sketches of history intermingled with current development. She has the ability to dramatically convert personal incidents into significant views of the scene at large.

BOW DOWN TO WOOD AND STONE by Josephine Lawrence

Again this author has challenged us as she did in "If I Have Four Apples" and "The Sound of Running Feet." This time she has a book about women who indulge in self-sacrifice. Here is a tale mainly of three sisters each devoted utterly to doing the thing she wanted to do, and each saw her life as one of self-sacrifice. The personality of each one is revealed with an honesty that must come from deep understanding of human nature with all its "cussedness" and "loveliness." Her book is full of people, not characters, and people everyone knows with problems that everyone has. Perhaps that is the reason that what happens to these people in her stories becomes so important to the reader.

MARY RIVERS by Lewis Freeman

It all began when a Yukon prospector said to him: "Rivers are your friends. They take you where you want to go." Since then rivers have furnished the scenic background for this author's adventures in all four corners of the globe. The Yukon, Colorado Delta, Tahiti and Tibet. The rivers of Babylon, rivers of the high Andes, all furnish variety of adventure, with vivid description to set off this well told narrative. His own photographs add greatly to the readers enjoyment.

BAGHDAD SKETCHES by Freya Stark

Sometimes a travel book by a woman is apt to be more serviceable as a guide than a parallel volume by a man. It will have a wealth of detail about practical matters. In "Baghdad Sketches" you will find a woman's mind at work on the life and problems of Iraq, picturing not alone the romantic phases of that very old and picturesque city of Baghdad but a changing civilization in terms of wells and fields and water-rights.

On one page you will find the author looking at a Samarra ruin and on the next conversing in Arabic, which she speaks comfortably, with a young rebel son of Iraq. Miss Stark takes her reader all about that old, old city so soon to be completely westernized and on journeys with her up and down Iraq, where we take a last look at some of the old customs and traditions.

Eddie Albright of KNX is Speaker Here Yesterday

Members of the Torrance Woman's club drafted their president, Mrs. Lillian Barrington, to serve a second term in that office yesterday when they refused to vote for any other candidate. She will undoubtedly receive splendid support during her term of office since members are unanimous in pledging their support.

During the past year Mrs. Barrington has been instrumental in placing the club on a solid financial basis and has managed to obtain full recognition for the group in Los Angeles District and County Federations. Other officers elected at yesterday's session were:

Mrs. Charles Schultz, first vice-president; Mrs. D. W. Quigley, second vice-president; Mrs. Al Price, third vice-president; Mrs. H. F. Schultz, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul Vonderahe, Federation secretary; Mrs. Will Lock, Mrs. E. A. Miles and Mrs. Raymond Rogers, directors. They will be installed at the meeting June 1.

Announcer Is Speaker

Eddie Albright, commentator from radio station KNX, who appeared on the afternoon program, proved the outstanding speaker of the year. He took as his topic "Radio," told of the value of advertising by radio and newspapers, explained the manner in which the public may get desirable programs on a network and how to get discontinued other entertainment back on the air waves again. Albright mixed witty remarks with his explanations and strongly advised those present against visiting studios, when programs they particularly like are presented.

The hard studio stage, artificial sound contraptions and lack of drama destroy one's impressions of the radio offerings, he said. Imagination goes a long way toward full enjoyment of wireless entertainment and to see a program in production is to lose one's pre-conceived ideas of characters, scenes and situations, the announcer pointed out.

Rev. Porter Entertains

Asked the possibility of television, the radio speaker was loath to believe it will ever be so popular as to replace motion pictures. He answered many questions asked by those present. Mrs. Albright accompanied her husband to the meeting.

Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of First Christian church, entertained with tricks of magic to the delight of all. The Mother Singers under the direction of Marjorie Eischen sang a group of three numbers. The Bible study was conducted by Mrs. B. H. Lingenfelter.

As it was the annual birthday luncheon, tables were decorated for the four seasons. Harriett Leach and Dorothy Post were in charge of decorations.

MUELLERS WILL HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Mueller, 1613 Acacia, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday, May 10. They invite all friends in the city to visit them at their home from 2 to 5 o'clock that afternoon.

NEWS OF WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Thimble club of Women of the Moose met at the home of Mrs. Elsie Smith, 719 Cota avenue, Tuesday, for an afternoon of bridge and 500.

Regular meeting of Women of the Moose will be held in their hall, 1526 Cravens avenue, Friday, May 6, at 8:00 p. m.

Paris Styles by... MARY FENTRESS

PARIS (U.P.)—It's an ill rain that brings nobody good, for rainy weather togs take on the appearance of almost anything but traditional raincoats when they come from Paris. New fabrics have left the ranks of "rubberized" cloth so far behind that it's hard to remember the days when raincoats stuck, melted, rustled and tore.

Take, for instance, the exciting black satin impermeable which Leda, leading water-proofer and rain-clothes authority, is showing. The satin looks fine enough to be an evening dress, but it's water-proof. The coat, made on loose raglan lines, is lined with specially treated taffeta in a red and white plaid.

Two other striking models use the increasingly popular navy blue and white combination. One is of waterproofed crepe de chine, navy blue, with white applique. The other is of blue and white plaid taffeta. Tiny diamond-shaped appliques form a band around cuffs and collar.

In additions to the new satins, taffetas and crepe de chines which will resist the hardest deluge there is a new "colle de fil" — a linen-like fabric — very supple and soft. It is particularly popular for neat golf jackets so indispensable these days. And as for golf jackets, there will be much yellow seen on putting greens this summer. Whether it is in the form of the soft golden oilskin jacket, a pale yellow jersey "sweat shirt," or a yellow rainproof silk blouse, the color is equally effective.

Children are far from neglected by Leda. They may don their white satin raincoats, hooded, of course, and probably firmly clipped together in the front by ray brass or chromium buttons just a good size and shape so that little hands can button them without help. Or they may wear bright red or blue silk capes, with firemen hats to match.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Rainy weather garments lose their "rubberized" appearance without sacrificing qualities.

MRS. WILKES FETTER AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

The birthday of Mrs. J. R. Wilkes, 1931 Cravens, furnished the incentive for a surprise party Saturday evening when friends gathered at the Wilkes home for an evening of games and a buffet supper. Included were Messrs. and Mrs. Johnny Armstrong, Harry Higgins, R. L. Lewellen and J. R. Wilkes.

YOU MAY BE INTERESTED IN THIS BIRTHDAY

All over the United States there are thousands of people—business men, home owners, motorists and others who will have more than a casual interest in the fact that May 9th is being celebrated as the Twenty-fifth "birthday" of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co. at Hartford, Connecticut. In 1913 the company was chartered. They are the people whom the Hartford has saved from disastrous losses—who have been protected against damage suits—who have been paid after burglaries and robberies—who have been reimbursed after the dishonesty of some employe.
