Felon Classes Edit Glossary of 'Stir' Terms PAINESVILLE, O. (U.P.)—A man in "stir" knows it does not matter if he "kisses the bricks" once he has "gone over the blue wall"—or, in non-prison parlance, prisoners after a while no longer care whether he is released.

These expressions are included in dictionaries of prison slang compiled by English composition classes at southern Michigan's state prison, at Jackson, under the guidance of Prof. Howard G. Baker. Baker, now associate professor of English at Lake Erie college, in Painesville, conducted the prison classes when he was a member of the University of Michigan's English department.

Insanity Well Covered Other expressions indicating that a prisoner is insane, or near insanity, are: "blow one's top" and "stir simple," "stir crazy" or "stir bugs." The latter three phrases are applied to those whose minds have become distorted by long confinement.

Many "stir slang" expressions have passed into general language usage and their original almost has been forgotten. Here are a few such terms: "On the pan" (being slandered), "snow" (narcotics), "scram and blow" (get out) and "muscle in" (interpose on someone else's territory).

The lesser-known expressions, however, seem to be pictorial, referring to the person who is not "stir-wise" (who has not been in prison). If such a person would go to prison he would be classified as "fresh meat" or "fish." He might be fortunate and get a "hot minute" (short term); then again he might have to "do the book" (a life sentence).

The dictionaries are specific in describing the exact lengths of a man's prison term. One year is an "ace," two years a "doce," five years a "fin," and 20 years is "ten-spot" or "saw." A term, generally, is "a bit" or "a job" or (a more widely known word) "a rap." A man is "on a bum rap" when he has been sentenced for a crime which he did not commit.

"Roll-over" Happy Event The happiest time of a man-in-stir's life is the "roll-over" the night before he is released from custody. Before the "roll-over" at Jackson prison he has to "see the man," or have an interview with the parole commissioner. He is given a "flip," if he is refused parole.

Escaping from prison alive is "taking it on the outside," and the death in an escape is "back-door parole." The slang comparisons also list terms for different sections of a prison. The "soup house" is the dining room and a cell is designated as an "apartment." A "stick-up" is not an up-to-the-minute expression—"elevate" or "hoist" are more current. A robbery involves a "heat" (revolver) and "gun" (money). If you "hit the ball" (work strenuously) for your money, beware of the "paper hangers" (forges) and "rubber" (check) because he is not "kosher." Kosher means not guilty.

Nobuo Fujimura, newly appointed consul general for Japan in Manila, is the youngest consul general in the Philippine series at Seattle, en route to Manila. Only 39, he is the youngest consul general in the Japanese diplomatic service. He was stationed at Lima, Peru.
