Now in New York City on their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin H. Harris of this city will continue their wedding journey to a number of other Eastern points before returning home. Mrs. Harris, nee Ella Lorraine Levy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy, was a charming figure in white satin at the brilliant ceremony last Sunday evening.

Over 350 Guests in Attendance

In the ornate Florentine room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, Beverly Hills, wedding vows were exchanged last Sunday evening by Miss Ella Lorraine Levy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy, Torrance, and Irwin Harvard Harris, son of Mrs. Rosalind Harris of Los Angeles. More than 350 relatives and friends attended the services conducted by Rabbi S. M. Neches before a candle-lit altar beautifully decorated with white dahlias, white larkspur and large white satin bows.

Tall candelabra bearing sprays of white asters tied with satin bows lined the aisle leading to the altar. Floral arrangements were by Harriett Leech.

Prior to the impressive wedding procession, Madame Teala Bellini, concert pianist, played a number of selections and also accompanied Mrs. Edward Marco, who sang "Because" by Guy D'Hardelot, and "Always" by Irving Berlin. The soloist, a sister of the groom's mother, came from Chicago to attend the marriage.

Lovely Gowns Worn

The tenseness of the solemn procession was relieved as the bride appeared, radiant with smiles and charming in a gown of white satin with inserts of handmade lace on the sleeves and yoke. She carried a crescent bouquet of lily-of-the-valley and bouvardia with detachable corsage of two white orchids and lily-of-the-valley on a crest of white satin.

Miss Norma Levy, younger sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and captivated the guests as she walked daintily down the aisle in a long powder blue net dress, with hood and ruffled its full length. She carried a Colonial rose-gray bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Eleanor Sax, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of yellow chiffon and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and gerbera. The six bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of gerbera in coral and peach. The bridesmaids were the Misses Gertrude Greenfield, whose dress was of orchid pink chiffon, Irene Katz in peach chiffon, Jean Greenbaum in powder blue chiffon, Frances Gutterman in periwinkle blue chiffon, Lillian Presser in pink chiffon, and Dorothy McMillan in periwinkle blue chiffon and lace.

The groom was attended by Irving Perless. Ushers were Marvin Zuckerman, Murray Rudnick, Richard Drukker, Marvin Berenzweig, Milton Tyre and Ben Gutterman. Ben Harris, younger brother of the groom, escorted his mother. The bride's mother wore a gown of pink and silver metallic cloth and the groom's mother wore a frock of rose gray marquisette.

The bride gave her attendants hand-etched compacts and the groom presented his attendant and ushers with leather wallets. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harris attended U.C.L.A., and much of their romance is woven around the campus activities of this university from which Harris recently graduated. The bride was a member of Phi Sigma Sigma, and the groom of Phi Beta Delta.

Following the marriage rites, a reception and dance in honor of the happy bridal couple was enjoyed. The refreshment table was adorned with white flowers and centerpiece of exquisitely decorated wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris were the recipients of a vast array of beautiful gifts, reflecting their wide popularity. They left Monday for a three-weeks' honeymoon to New York City and other eastern points.
