WHAT HIGH SCHOOL TEACHES DETERMINED BY CONDITIONS

Following is the 12th article in the "Know Your Torrance High School" series written especially for this newspaper. By THOMAS H. ELSON, Principal of Torrance High School.

Time was when subjects taught in high school were matters of greatest concern to parents and students. How we teach has come to be a matter of much greater concern.

Society now demands that young people be instructed in problems of society and how to meet them. They must understand government, economics, political movements. They must be able to find their places in society and to fill them. This viewpoint requires a new kind of teaching.

Materials of teaching at one time were text books only. The new program makes use of films, phonographic records, radio transcriptions, excursions to industrial plants, zoos, seashore and the like. Students visit courts, councils, newspaper plants, planetaria, museums and art galleries. And all this, of course, in addition to formal text book instruction.

Adjustable Curriculum The curriculum is made and remade by schools in each locality to fit needs of the students living there. Not only this, but it is adjusted to fit each individual student so far as that is possible. This is where the guidance procedure comes into the picture. The old time curriculum was fixed for all schools and individuals.

While Torrance high school subscribes to these new practices, it is still trying to teach reading, spelling and arithmetical computations. It is trying to instill good grammatical usage and to develop an ability to reason, to plan and conduct an investigation, and to draw conclusions therefrom.

To some extent, forum, panels and other discussion forms replace the older "question and answer" type of recitation. But the latter is relied upon for development of purely informative materials.

Few Go to College The general procedure is: (1) to test at the beginning of a year's work to determine needs of each group; (2) teach, and (3) test again to determine results.

Last week we gave figures which show the spread of our enrollment by curricula as follows: Academic—College prep.....28% Commercial.....27.34% Industrial.....20% General.....11.36% Home Economics.....9.7% Agriculture.....2%

From the last five graduating classes, 83 students out of 291 elected to go to institutions of advanced training. Most of these have enrolled in junior college semi-professional courses. This means that they do not intend to go on to universities. A good many have gone to trade and business schools.

Need Patrons' Help It seems a logical question to ask why should 28% of high school students take courses aimed primarily for university admission when only 28% enroll in all the various advanced institutions?

Nor is this the complete picture. It is a fair assumption that a goodly proportion of the 11.36% taking general courses should also be counted on the university band wagon.

Most of our people graduate into the employment seeking group. Why should they not follow courses of study intended to prepare them specifically for employment? These pertinent questions to which we are trying to find answers. We need thoughtful help of all patrons.

Enrollments Itemized Our enrollment in specialized pre-vocational courses at the present time is a healthful one and indicates progress toward education for employment. The figures are as follows for grades 9 to 12:

Automotive and machine shop 98, aircraft sheet metal 13, printing 66, vocational agriculture 17, commerce 351, vocational cooking 24, home economics 182, art 26, band 30, orchestra 36, woodshop 83, and drafting 70.

Academic enrollments are: Mathematics 152, science 418, Latin 57, Spanish 82 and choral 79.

(The 13th article in the "Know Your Torrance High School" series by Principal Thomas H. Elson will be published next week.—ED.)

Duplicate Parts Ordered for Ships

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A system of ordering duplicate parts for the super-battleships New Jersey and Wisconsin is being adhered to in an effort to speed up their construction at Philadelphia Navy Yard.

In this manner, officials estimated, the dreadnaughts may be completed a year ahead of schedule. Original plans called for the launching of the New Jersey in 1944 and the Wisconsin in 1945.

It is the first time since the World War that duplication has been used in battleship construction. Duplicate work was performed in the construction of two ships at that time but the building was stopped when the 5-5-3 ration with Great Britain, Japan and the United States was established by the Washington Treaty in 1922.

The keel of the New Jersey was laid on Sept. 16, while that of the Wisconsin will be laid early in the coming year. The ships are of the same design and will duplicate 45,000 tons.

Camera Club Filming Yule Scenes for Contest

Most of the 18 members of the Torrance Camera club are putting in a lot of study these days on good scenic effects and angles as they shoot their movie reels to enter a contest for the best Christmas scenes. All films must be entered by March 8, according to "Cap" Moses, president of the club, to be screened before a committee of judges.

The club, which is open to all amateur movie camera fans in this community, meets every second and fourth Wednesday night at the Chamber of Commerce, starting at 8 o'clock. There will be election of officers Jan. 8.

Royal Neighbors Will Meet on January 2

Members of Delnor Camp, Royal Neighbors will hold an important business meeting Jan. 2 in I. O. O. F. hall. As the regular meeting falls on New Year's Day, members are requested to note the change of meeting date.

DINNER PAID CARRIED 42 YEARS

MAHANOY CITY, Pa. — William Yeager, 63, a laborer at Tamaqua colliery, paid 40 cents for a dinner 42 years ago. Since that time the much-dented pall has given him continuous service and still accompanies him to work.

The hazy appearance sometimes taken on by distant hills is caused by the sun's rays striking at a certain angle particles floating in the air.
