Vicar to Discuss New World Order

Rev. Thomas R. Marshall, vicar of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, will discuss the proposal for a new world order following the present war issued by the Anglican, Roman Catholic, and Free Churches of Britain in his address Sunday morning.

The proposal is significant in that it marks the first time in history that these three great Christian bodies have officially united together in facing a common problem. Although governments have not stated their aims in detail, Christians of Britain have dared to face the task.

Annual Meeting of Methodists to Feature Gains

The Methodist church will hold the annual meeting Wednesday evening, June 18. The ladies will serve dinner at 6 o'clock. Annual reports will be given by all departments. Some of the things which have been accomplished this year will be highlighted, such as the burning of the local note at the Memorial dinner, over $1,000 paid on the church debt, the painting and landscaping of the church and parsonage grounds and installation of new heaters.

More than 40 persons have been received into church membership this year and recently six dens of Cub Scouts have been organized with Frank Dominguez as Scout Master. The Scout Committee is Earl Rinker, chairman; John Young, John Hooper, Otto Willett and Richard Sinclair. The Cubs and their parents will meet at the church Friday evening at 7:30 for a get-together.

These words from Deuteronomy, "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms," are the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "God the Preserver of Man" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

A Scriptural citation in the Lesson Sermon includes these verses about Jesus from Luke: "And it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath day, that they watched him. And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy. And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day? And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go; and answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath day? And they could not answer him again to these things."

One of the passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Jesus demonstrated the inability of corporeality, as well as the infinite ability of Spirit, thus into the eternal spirit to flee from its own convictions and seek safety in divine Science."

Author's Life Proves Adventure Is Free

Who has never felt the urge to get away from it all—to make life one long vacation. But, argue most people, it's not possible. You can't do it without fabulous sums of money.

Take it from June Burn, who writes in the July issue of Cosmopolitan magazine that it is quite possible and that furthermore she has spent her life doing it, on practically nothing a year. Mrs. Burn and her husband share a passion for living in the woods, for enjoying the unaffected grandeur of nature, and believe firmly that happiness and adventure alike are free.

Mrs. Burn's autobiography constitutes a saga of outdoor life which begins when she and her husband became the last homesteaders on an island in Puget Sound, spending their days writing and getting sufficient food supplies. But this was only a preface to their future wanderings. Following a year of teaching on an island in the Bering Sea, they journeyed three hundred miles by foot from St. Louis to Indianapolis on foot using a mule and a cart as a bassinet for their small child.

Soon after, Mrs. Burn admits that she fell into bad ways—she and her husband settled down to make money. Both were successful and between them they earned over $3,000 a year. But they quickly realized they had wandered off the track, and their next adventure was touring the country in a house car which they called Burns Ballad Bungalow. They journeyed up and down the West Coast selling Mr. Burn's songs, but at the same time instructing their children and giving them a glimpse of the country in which they lived.

"We spent nearly all our time getting enough to eat," Mrs. Burn says. "Only the evenings were left for reading and talking, only a few hours a day to sit and dream by our fires." But she reflects that this is the purpose of all work, and that in doing it she and her husband were immeasurably more happy than people who spent eight hours a day in an office or laboratory.

There were 985 towns between 5,000 and 10,000, according to the 1940 census, and their combined population was 6,881,894. In 1930 there were 851 such places with a population of 5,897,158.

Thank Harry Stevens For America's Hot Dog

HISTORIANS and sports lovers will remember the late Harry Stevens as an important contributor to America. For it was he who invented the hot dog, the straw for soda pop, and popularized refreshments at sports events.

The amazing career of Harry Stevens is described by sports writer Bob Considine who traces, in the July issue of Cosmopolitan magazine, the life of the immigrant Englishman from a steel worker to one of the nation's important businessmen. Stevens' vast catering enterprise started, Considine says, when he became infuriated at the old fashioned baseball programs which gave neither the players' names or a box score. He soon took over the concession and made such a success of it that he was asked to operate the service at New York's famed Polo Grounds, and it's still in the hands of Stevens' sons.

The catering end of Stevens' work has spread from coast to coast, Considine reports, and his employees, numbering over 7,000 are at work in ball parks, race tracks, and numerous other sports gatherings. The hot dog was the outgrowth of a cold blustery day at a ball game, when no one would buy either the ice cream and soda pop which Stevens was peddling. He realized suddenly that the crowd would go for nothing unless it was red-hot. A German "dachshund" sausage seemed to Stevens to fit the bill and a sport writer, because he couldn't spell the name shortened it to simply "hot dog."

When selling soda pop became slow, Considine says Stevens realized that the mechanics of drinking it from the bottle caused the drinker to take his eyes off the ball game. So with each purchase he gave away straws and the spectator could keep his eye on the proceedings while he sipped.

Miss Peggy Mitchell, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mitchell of 2115 Andrea ave. and a recent student at Torrance high school, was one of three high school students from Magna, Utah who won all-conference recognition for outstanding performances in a recent drama contest held at University of Indiana at Bloomington, Indiana. Only six students in the nation have received this honor. It is reported

Chinese Girl Makes Name in Atom-Smashing

BERKELEY—Proof that science is not limited by race or national boundaries is the work of Dr. Chien-Shiung Wu, brilliant young Chinese girl in the University of California Radiation Laboratory.

Miss Wu, petite and pretty, as already made a name for herself among physicists for her brilliant work in nuclear research. Born in Shanghai, Dr. Wu spent her undergraduate days in Chinese schools. She came to the United States to finish her education, and received her doctorate from the University of California last year.

Dr. Wu says she will return to China as soon as she believes she has prepared herself adequately to do research in her homeland.

Weston V. Leech will leave tonight on a business trip to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Murray Ouster Election Certain

 nearly all day yesterday. The checking was done at the Registrar of Voters office in Los Angeles.

Every move of Bartlett and his aids was watched by Murray, Mrs. Babcock and an unidentified woman reported to be representing Powell. All three witnessed the proceedings from the sidelines at the Registrar's office. Under orders from Bartlett, they were not permitted to handle the petitions, however.

Julian Isen, 1606 Gramercy ave. who received the degree of bachelor of laws, was among approximately 1600 men and women receiving degrees from the University of Southern California in the Commencement Day exercises at Los Angeles Coliseum last Saturday.

 WITHOUT A CLUTCH TO PRESS!

100,000 OWNERS HAVE DRIVEN THEIR HYDRA-MATIC* OLDSMOBILES 300,000,000 MILES without ever pushing a clutch!

Left...Left...Left...Left! That's the chant of men on the march and the lament of drivers with clutches to push. But not so with the army of owners of Hydra-Matic Oldsmobiles. Their left feet are left with no work at all to do. And their right hands are right where they belong—in the steering wheel—with no gear-shift levers to manipulate.

No wonder 100,000 Olds Hydra-Matic owners are so highly enthusiastic! In three hundred million miles on the road, they have found new freedom in driving.

Why not join the ranks of "freed" Hydra-Matic drivers? Hydra-Matic, remember, is the only drive in the world that eliminates the clutch pedal completely—the only one that provides fully automatic shifting. You enjoy the world's simplest, easiest method of driving. You thrill to new performance. You get new savings in gas.

No doubt about it, Hydra-Matic's the coming way to drive—come in and try it!
